DIED.

In Stroudsburg, on the 5th inst., Annie, infant daughter of Jessie B. and Alfred Earle,

Once 'twas my hope upon this spot

A tender flower to raise; I thought its bloom would be my pride Through many summer days: But ere the sunbeam's smile had lured Its perfect fragrance forth,

Its soft leaves severed from the stem Lay trampled on the earth.

I sorrowed all the winter time, And bitter tears I shed; When spring returned it found me still A mouner o'er the dead:

But soon I saw a plant arise, And spurn its earthly tomb, More beautiful than when I nursed

Its infancy in bloom. That lesson in my memory I've treasured up with care; I will not sorrow for the dead With impious, mad despair;

I know my Annie's shaken off This perishable earth, And boast an immortality Of beauty and of worth!
