

The following lines were written on hearing of the recent death of Mrs. MARY A. WALLACE, of this Borough.

Oh! my friend and hast thou gone
And left the scenes of earth
To mingle with that holy throng
That sang creation's birth?
Thy friendship was so deep and true,
So rare a thing to find;
And all thy friends they knew,
It was the purest kind.
Dearest of mothers wast thou,
Friend and kindred testify,
Thy virtues are embedded now,
Where they can never die.
In the hearts of children dear
Thou hast left thy impress ever;
Nurtured there a holy fear,
Which can die! no never!
As wife thou wast the gift of God
To thy kind husband given;
And passing 'neath affliction's rod,
Didst ripen full for Heaven.
Farewell wife and mother. Friend,
Though on earth no more we see,
Yet where pleasures never end
We fondly hope to greet thee.

Mrs. K. E. P.

SPEAKER KEER

A Happy Release at Last.

ROCKBRIDGE ALUM SPRINGS, Va., August 20.—Hon. Michael C. Kerr, Speaker of the House of Representatives, died here at half-past seven o'clock last evening.

THE BODY TO BE EMBALMED.
WASHINGTON, AUGUST 20.—An embalmer was sent to Rockbridge Alum Springs last night to embalm the body of the late Speaker Kerr, and to-night the casket for his remains was forwarded. The party accompanying it includes Representatives Snyder, Casey and Young, together with Colonel Adams, the Clerk of the House, under whose directions, in the absence of the authorized agencies, the preparations were made. Ex-Speaker Banks was invited to go, but he was obliged to decline owing to engagements requiring him to leave Washington to-night for the East. Representative Cox is already at the Springs. Although Presidents and Vice Presidents have died while in office, this is the only case.

Where a Speaker of the House has died while occupying that position.
The party which left to-night for the Springs will arrive there to-morrow morning at eight o'clock, when it will be determined whether the remains of Mr. Kerr will be conveyed to New Albany by the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad and the Ohio river, or by continuous railroad to New Albany by way of Washington.

PROCLAMATION BY THE PRESIDENT.

LONG BRANCH, Aug. 22.—The following has just been received from the president:
"It is with extreme pain that the president announces to the people of the United States the death of the speaker of the house of representatives, the Hon. Michael C. Kerr, of Indiana. A man of great intellectual endowments, large culture, great probity and earnestness in his devotion to the public interests, has passed from the position of power and usefulness to which he had been recently called. The body over which he had been selected to preside not being in session to render its tribute of affection and respect to the memory of the deceased, the president invites the people of the United States to a solemn recognition of the public and private worth and the services of so pure and eminent a character."
U. S. GRANT.

By the President:
JOHN L. CADWALADER,
Acting secretary of state, Washington,
August 21, 1876.

For several months there has been a strong bear movement against the Central Railroad of New Jersey, in the New York stock market, under the leadership, it is said, of Jay Gould. During that time the stock has fallen from 103 to 61, so the bears may be said to have been successful. During all this time a thousand rumors have been afloat as to the standing of the company and the integrity of its officers. The most damaging statement is that the company borrowed money to pay interest on its bonds and stock dividend last year. This seems to be confirmed by documents issued by the State of New Jersey. The stories affecting the honesty of Col. Ricker and President Johnson we regard as the bears, and utterly without foundation. These gentlemen have reputations which cannot be smirched by unproven speculations. It is evident that the company is suffering like every business from the hard times, but it is strong enough to endure a great deal, and we hope to see it come out of the storm safely.

It is a fact which the records prove and of which the people should make a note, that during the last session of Congress, the fifty and odd ex-Confederate members of the house presented one hundred and forty bills for war claims of southerners, which would take, if granted, in exact figures from the treasury of the United States, $472,361,133. With such a wedge as that pointed at the treasury vaults in these times, with the senate and executive in the way, what could we look for with both houses of congress and the presidency in the hands of the Democrats. In that event the charge that the south would demand payment for the emancipated slaves and the payment of the southern war debt would prove by far too serious to be looked upon as a joke.—Scranton Morning Republican.

"Reform is necessary." One of the Democratic electors in Indiana has just been indicted for forgery. According to the Democratic theory the whole Democratic party is responsible for this felon's act.

Tilden has "done" that Terre Haute Road, Hayes hasn't—the difference thus is shown. Hayes fought for the Union. Tilden didn't and there is the difference again!—Albany Journal.

Morrissey says with a Democratic administration and Democratic majority in Congress, his Washington fare banks and gambling halls will be worth double what they are under Republican rule. That's the kind of reform he expects under Tilden.

On Sunday a ground hog walked in at the door of Pinegrove church, Lower Chancetown township, York county, while the congregation were at worship. It immediately bolted out of the window, however, probably because a disturbed deacon was heard to say he "would chuck that woodchuck out."

The heavens are sectarian. A meteor recently passed over Illinois, and now it is said all the denominational papers of the State claim it for their sect. It was blue, and that proclaimed it Presbyterian; it was a brilliant mass, and that encouraged the Catholics; it drew a white trail after it, and the Episcopalians recognized it by that sign.

Tomato Leaves Useful.

The following account of a valuable discovery was copied in the Prairie Farmer and is a translation from El Mercurio, a paper published at Valparaiso, South America.

I planted a peach orchard, writes M. Sirov, of the Society of Horticulture, and the trees grew well and strongly. They had but just commenced to bud when they were invaded by the curculio (pulgon), which insects were followed, as frequently happens, by ants. Having cut some tomatoes, the idea occurred to me that, by placing some of the leaves around the trunks and branches of the peach trees, I might preserve them from the rays of the sun, which were very powerful. My surprise was great, upon the following day, to find the trees entirely free from their enemies, not one remaining, except here and there where a curled leaf prevented the tomato from exercising its influence. These leaves I carefully unrolled, placing upon them fresh ones from the tomato vine, with the result of banishing the last insect and enabling the trees to grow with luxuriance. Wishing to carry still further my experiment, I steeped in water some fresh leaves of the tomato, and sprinkled with this infusion other plants, roses and oranges. In two days these were also free from the innumerable insects which covered them, and I felt sure that had I used the same means with my melon patch I should have met with the same result. I therefore deem it a duty I owe to the Society of Horticulture to make known this singular and useful property of the tomato leaves, which I discovered by the merest accident.

Scott Lord, of New York, a leading lawyer and one of the most conservative Democratic members of the House, offered the following preamble and resolution on Thursday:

Whereas, The right of suffrage prescribed by the Constitution of the several States is subject to the fifteenth amendment to the Constitution of the United States, which is as follows:

SECTION 1. The right of citizens of the United States to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the United States, or by any State, on account of race, color, or previous condition of servitude.

SEC. 2. The Congress shall have power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation.

And whereas, The exercise of the right of suffrage, so prescribed and regulated, should be faithfully maintained and observed by the United States and the several States and the citizens thereof, and

Whereas, It is asserted that the exercise of the right of suffrage is in some of the States, notwithstanding the efforts of all good citizens to the contrary, resisted and controlled by fraud, intimidation and violence, and in such cases the object of the amendment is defeated; and

Whereas, All citizens, without distinction of race, or class, or color, are entitled to the protection conferred by said article; therefore, be it

Resolved, by the House of Representatives, That all attempts by force, fraud, terror, intimidation, or otherwise to prevent the free exercise of the right of suffrage in any State, should meet with certain, condign, and effectual punishment, and that in any case which has heretofore occurred, or that may hereafter occur, in which violence and murder have been or shall be committed by one race or class on another, the prompt punishment or execution in any court having jurisdiction of criminal or criminals, is imperatively demanded, whether the crime be one punishable by fine and imprisonment, or one demanding the penalty of death.

This is a plain and fair proposition which every one ought to agree to; but it was too much for the Southerners, and they filibustered to prevent its passage. They refused to vote twice, and calls of the House were ordered. At last, when it was evident that the resolution would come to a vote, the Democrats voted for it. The purpose of the resolution was to neutralize the effect of the Hamburg massacre, and humbug the North into the belief that the amendments to the Constitution would be safe if the Democratic party came into power. The result conclusively proved exactly the opposite. There is not a Southern Democrat in the House who can honestly say he subscribes to the second paragraph of the preamble, though all it says is, that every citizen should respect and obey the Constitution. No amendment can give a colored man the right to vote in the belief of the Southern whites, and we are extremely glad that Mr. Lord has exposed again that bad side of the Southern brother. Such exhibitions have tended largely to keep the Democratic party out of power for years, and we think they are a very good thing for the country. As passed, the resolution concedes that there has been intimidation at the polls in the South. The passage of the resolution is simply running up the bloody shirt on the Democratic flagstaff.

Hon. Galusha A. Grow—a man with a history—has been unanimously nominated for Congress by the Republicans of the old Wilmet district—Susquehanna, Bradford, &c. He is a man whom any constituency may be proud to name as its representative. A Democrat named Joseph Powell is the present member, but that seat in the next Congress is "not for Joseph."

In the view of the Cincinnati Commercial, "Tilden and Hendricks should take time. They represent the irreconcilable feuds in the Democratic party. Now let them harmonize. If Tilden softens there is no hope in New York. If Hendricks hardens, there is no chance in Indiana—precious little chance any way. If the great statesmen see-saw between the east and the west over Pennsylvania, the party will be demoralized everywhere. Hendricks is a mistake, or Tilden is."

Says the Knoxville Chronicle:—"It is well enough to bear in mind that it cost the United States $5,000,000,000 to suppress a Democratic rebellion. About three billion dollars of this large debt has been paid by the Republican party, leaving unpaid in round numbers about two billion dollars. And further, let us bear in mind that in doing this taxation has not been nearly so oppressive as thinking people, while the war was in progress, supposed it would be. The Democrats who brought on the war have a great deal to say about the debt, but are careful never to mention what has been paid."

TILDEN AND TAMMANY.

Some of the Democratic papers deny that Tilden was the associate of Tweed, and pretend that the downfall of the old Tammany Chief is due to the work of "Slippery Sam." As early as 1868 Horace Greeley had denounced the Tammany Ring, and the New York Times had long before commenced a vigorous war against it. Every well informed citizen of New York knew the character of that Ring long before its final overthrow. Yet all this time Mr. Tilden was in political co-operation with it, and as late as 1868 received large contributions from Mr. Wm. M. Tweed, to the Democratic campaign fund. And the Albany Journal calls attention to the fact that in 1870, after the "Young Democracy" had made their fight against Tweed, Mr. Tilden was in active association and fellowship with the Tammany leaders. The Rochester Democrat revives the names of the Tammany delegation to the Democratic State Convention at Rochester, in 1870, as follows:

Nicholas Muller, Magnus Gross,
Richard O. Gorman,
Thomas J. Cramer,
Thomas Comon,
John Hays,
Wm. M. Tweed,
Michael Horton,
Gideon Tucker,
Samuel S. Cox,
John Mullay,
Anthony Hartman,
A. Oakley Hall,
Oswald Ottenhofer,
Henry W. Genet.

Here Mr. Tilden appears side by side with Tweed, Dick Connolly, Tom Fields and Harry Genet—all of whom are now fugitives in foreign lands. If these delegates had been chosen by districts, it might have been reasoned that Tilden's election in one district had no connection with Tweed's in another. But the delegation was not thus chosen; it was made up as a whole by Tammany Hall, and it represented the will and the power of the Tammany ring. The Tammany ring, appointing its delegation, placed Tilden on it with Tweed, Connolly, Fields and Genet.

The political affiliation is thus clearly established in this and in repeated public acts. With full knowledge of its racialities, Mr. Tilden remained in political association with the Ring till long after its stupendous peculations had been demonstrated, and its destruction assured. And yet his friends have the effrontery to claim that he broke up the Ring.
