THE IMMORTALITY OF THE SOUL.

There is not, in my opinion, a more plea-sing and triumphant consideration in religion than this of the perpetual progress of the soul towards the perfection of its nature, without ever arriving at a period in it. To look upon the soul as going on in strength, to consider that she is to shine forever with new accessions of glory, and brighten to all eternity, that she will be still adding virtue to virtue. and knowledge to knowledge; carries in it something wonderfully agreeable to that ambition which is natural to the mind of man. Nay, it must be a prospect pleasing to God himself to see his creation forever beantifying in his eyes, and drawing nearer to him, by greater degrees of resemblance.

Methinks this single consideration of the progress a finite spirit to perfection, will be sufficient to extinguish all envy in inferior natures, and all contempt in superior. That cherub, which now appears as a God to the human soul, knows very well that the period will come about in eternity, when the human soul shall be as perfect as he himself is; nay, when she shall look down upon that degree of perfection as much as she now falls short of it. It is true, the higher nature still advances, and by that means preserves his distance and superiority in the scale of being; but he knows that, how high soever the sta-· tion is of which he stands possessed at present

tion is of which he stands possessed at present the inferior nature will at length mount up to it, & shine forth in the same degree of glory.
With what astonishment and veneration may we look into our own, where are such hidden stores of virtue and knowledge, such inexhausted sources of perfection! We know not yet what we shall be, nor will it know not yet what we shall be, nor will it ever enter into the heart of man to conceive the glory that will be always in reserve for him. The soul, considered with its Creator, is like one of those mathematical lines, that may draw nearer to one another, for all eternity, without a possibility of touching it; and can there be a thought so transporting, as to consider ourselves in these perpetual approaches to Him, who is not only the standard of perfection but of happiness !- Ad-

The world has never seen the like since that silly old woman Eve devoured the green apple."

WOMAN'S SMILE.

There is a star that brightly gleams, Calm in they sky above, And throws o'er life its golden beams Of happiness and love: A beacon pure, whose radiance bright

Wealth like the dropping well at Knaresborough, has the most petrifying properties.

It hardens the heart, it deadens the affections, it narrows the sympathies, it chills the warm current of benevolence, it raises artificial and unnecessary barriers between the necessitous and the affluent-between the suffering and the successful, it banishes the memory of past services, breaks up the bonds of brotherhood, converts the living breathing man into-stone.

GOLD HUNTING IN MASSACHUSETTS -In consequence of the statement of a convict in the State Prison at Charlestown, the City Marshal and Warden went with him to Barnstable to procure $50,000 of stolen money, $34,000 of it belonging to the Wheeling Bank which was robbed sixteen years ago. In a piece of woods the search commenced, and a hole four feet deep dug straight down, then an excavation four feet to the right was made The convict, who had been digging, got the Marshal to take his place. The idea struck the Marshal favorably, and he readily assented to the proposition, descended the ladder, entered head foremost the sideway passage excavated by his disinterested fellow laborer, and commenced removing carefully the earth supposed to be in the immediate vicinity of the treasure. The Warden, bending over to receive the money as it was to be handed up, was suddenly pushed head foremost into the well by the convict. He instantly threw a quantity of dirt in upon them, much to the detriment of their eye-sight, and taking to his heels, effected his escape-leaving the two officers to get out us they could, with their labor only to reward their adventure.

It will afford sweeter happiness in the hour of death, to have wiped one tear from the cheek of sorrow, than to have ruled an empire, or to have conquered millions.

PILLA. Dec. 14th, 1847.

DEAR Siz:—In reply to your questi in respecting the use of Dr. Drake's Panacea, I will say, that although a perfect disbeliever in the existence of a PANACEA, or cure I of ALL diseases, h, wever volumble it may be in certain couldi as of the system, still I have believed that a cure f i Communition would be discovered a one or later, and cure sity led diseases, however viduable it may be in certain conditions of the system, sail I have believed that a cure for Commuption would be discovered as one or later, and cure sity led one to try y un medicine in two very inveterate cases. They were procumed by the attending physicians to be FULMONARY CONSUMPTION, and also done by them as in CURASES. One of the persons had been under the treatment of several very able practitioners for number of years, and they said she had "M fish) and Commuption combine with Sersaula," and that she might larger for a matime but could not be permanently relieved. In both cases the effect of the Panaces has been my gratifying. Only four or five bottles were used by one of the persons but reached by the service of the persons for the she began to may we rapidly. The other took about ten, I will only add that finalize as I am with a manipulan by inheritance and by extensive observations a study, and knowing also the injurious effects in mine cases out of ten of tar, beneate, and other vegetable tunes, as well as of many of the expect stants and selectives, i. should never have recommended the use of Drake's Panaces if I had a to because quantited with the imprehenses. Suffice it to say that these are recommended by our most popular and scientific plays cannot and in their present a milest state, form probably the less alterative that has ever been made. The cure is in accordance with a the syst Community at the which admit or no dispute.

THE above Stove, which is equally well adapted to Wood Or C.ol, has received silver medals at the fairs of the American Institute, New York; of the Mechanics' Institute, Behanics' Institute, Philadelphia; and of the Mechanics' Institute, Wilmington, Delaware.

It is capable, if properly used, of dang more work, with less fact, than any other Stove yet offered to the public; in winter it will warm the largest kitchen, while in summer, with the summer dress attached, it throws out no mere heat than a chare all furnace; and for boiling, broiling, beking, or roasting, it cannot be surpassed by any other Stove, open fire, or brick oven.
