THE TARIFF QUESTION IN 1849.

lowest cent, no matter though the seller is rican be expected to stand starved who thinks himself any tody wants to live out of the profits of others' labor by with strict honesty, but it is notorious that conduces to and ensures an extravagant, bleated, monttrout stimulation and expansion of trade. Every body is keen for speculation very few have any confidence in patient, plodding industry as a means of acquiring wealth. From baby-jumbers to grave-yard accommodations, every thing that man can use, shine air and less water excepted, is the foot-bull of traffic and speculation. And, while nine tenths of the more especially tra-'ding 'class die bankrupt, or in penury, trade, still, absorbing whost of the financiering talent of the civilized world, contrives to absorb most of the realized fruits of toil. Successful commerce founds the colleges, and they teach the doctrines it loves to hear; it patronizes authors, and the books of political economy are mainly written to prove that "whatever is is right," in the mercantile sense of the axiom. The gospel of supply and demand-the law of "Buy where you can cheamest, sell as dear as possible," is fundamental to the recognized commercial ethics, and "every body being in fact or aspiration a trader, is the law of modern society. Yet the very men who adhere to it, preach it, live it. revolt at once at any novel yet perfectly legi-Timate application of it, which bears severe-'ly on themselves or others, and does no conduce to filling their own pockets. Let a docthe say to-morrow to a rich man who has just had his leg cut eff': "Sir, if the effusion of blood is not stopped in five minutes you are a dead man; yet there is no other person who can stop it within half a mile, and T must have ten thousand dollars or I won't Ch it !-and dinety-nine out of every hundred would kick the law of supply and demand to kingdom-come, and execrate the doctor for acting on their own cherished principles. The world is just as reasonable as this. We have now nearly closed the third year of an avowedly revenue, anti-protective tariff. In fact, it is on some points protective, on others its houldity to protection is carried to an extreme safeidal to revenue. It is the child of various party necessities, and their contradictory traits are stamped on its ungainly features. It thies to be sweet on sugar and strong with hemp, because its authors feared the producers of these articles; but it w full of deceit, and the poison of asps is unlerits lips. The hemp which it pretends to ables, cordage, &a., attwenty-five; the wool man's hat. r which it also professes to impose thirty per cent., it lets in as flannels, baizes. &c., at twenty-five, and as blankets of twenty. The farmer, thus duped by a pretence of fa. slaves, to improve the streets of the town. vor, is driven from his own markets by South American wool made into British Blankets, and thus admitted at a rare tone-half less than is charged to the American importer of just such wool, who must pay higher for his labor, and content absinst riper experience and larger aggregations of capital. Yet the farmer is teld he has twenty per cent. on his on Monday the 5th inst. wool and that ought to content, him, when in fact the foreign wool is extensively adultit- E. A Kutzner, 'ted at twenty per cent. in such shape as to deprive the American farmer of a market, not only for wool, but the fire meats, vegetables. &c., which would be consumed by the clothmakers if the fabric were made in this country, evon out of foreign materials. The act is full of such juggles.

This tariff is consistent in a single feature

-its adherence throughout to advalorem duties. Every article charged at all pays 'so much per cent .- nothing is specific Out effect of this is to create and preserve a glaring and indefensible inequality of exactions R. McCay, at different ports of the Union. At two ports E. A. Kutzner, only twelve miles apart, the same article has Win. G. Kutzner, ity, as any practical man may see, is insepa- Wm. G. Kase. rable from the existence and operation of ad valorem duties. Every man engaged in importing goods naturally wishes to get them in as cheaply as possible, for ten per cent, in the valuation may make the difference between a profitable and a losing adventure. If sternly upright importers will not undervalue they will be undersold and driver out of the market by men who will. And custom-house valuations always do and must depend, in a great degree, upon the invoice; for who can tell, upon casual examination, how much a barrel of watch movements, for example, is really worth? It might be worth $100,000. and may not be worth $5,000. Competent appraisers can come within a stone's throw of it: but independent, accurate valuations at the custom-house cannot generally be

The American importer has no fair chance with his foreign rival under a system of ad valorem duties. In the first place, the foreign manufacturer of goods can honestly swear that they cost him less (counting his rents, machinery, fixed salaries, personal services, &c., as nothing, since these must have been paid if he had not made this particular invoice of goods) than he will sell them forless than the American importer can buy them for. - Suppose he awears the invoice of pools cost him (to make) $90.000, while the American importer cannot buy them for less American importer cannot buy them for less than $100,000, and the duty is twenty-five per cent; here is $2,500 clear profit to the foreigner and loss to our revenue in the difference of the di ference of duties-the foreigner paying $22,-500 duty, while an American importer of a "Commerce is King." Buy cheap and sell like invoice must pay $25,000. How many their is its first commandment—buy for the repetitions of this per annum could the Ame-to live out of the profits of others' labor by contriving, directing and bargaining—no body bones down' to hard work who can manage to live any other way. It is a matter of so-cial respectability—a mark of caste—to be able to consume much and produce nothing; in the same steamer, on which he paid the and the noisiest brawler for political equality duties without hesitation or scruple. On at the pells or in the bar-room dodges into a opening the books, he found enclosed another custom-house, or some other well paid, invoice, charging the books much higher hazy berth, the first chance he can get, and the real invoice; the other being only intend leaves productive industry to those who can't ed for the custom house. He wrote to the avoid it. Whoever thinks at all can hardly London house for an explanation, not choosing fail to perceive how this general tendency to be presumed a rogue without warrant be youd the fact that he was in trade. The London house explained that it had only done what was customary, and what is supposed would be agreeable-meant no offence, certainly, but a good turn in the common way.

In this game of undervaluing the American f disposed to play it, has no chance with the foreigner. The former's character, property, business, are all staked and all lost if he is detected in wilful fraud; the former is safe in a distant land, while his agent in this country has nothing to lose, and may be started at another point next season, if "unfortunate" here, Can any man ask why so large a share of our Importing business is in the hands of Europeans !

Home Industry finds a blight in these ad valorem duties. When a great staple-iron for example-bears a high price, then the duty is high, just when our iron makers have least need of it. But the demand falls off. the market is glutted, and iron falls, until only a few of the most favorably located works can afford to make it at all. Now, as fast as the prices fall, the duty also falls, so that the thirty per cent. duty, which was ample when iron was high, sinks almost to nothing as iron gets lower and lower. If bar iron was worth $100 per ton, the duty would be 30; but the price of iron falls to $40, and now the duty is but $12. Then the highest amount of duty is exacted where the least is needed, and the price is pressed down the duty sinks also, and the American producers of iron are thrown out of work by their own country's tariff which is contrived as if expressly to derange and destroy their business. When the price and duty are high, iron works are set in motion; but as soon as the price falls off, the duty falls off as well. and the iron business is thus doubly kicked down the hill. The British producer for our market finds some compensation for the decline of price in the corresponding decline of duty, while to his American competitor the misfortune is lioubled.

American freemen! statesmen! whatever you may think of protection or free trade, give us an honest and stable system -give us specific duties.

ARRIVAL OF THE STEAMSHIP CAMBRIA

SEVEN DAYS LATER FROM EUROPE. THE CZAR AMICABLY DISPOSED.

THE PLEETS AT THE DARDANELLES. HUNOARIAN BUTCHERIES SUSPENDED

STANISH MINISTERIAL CRISIS. Another Rise in Cotton.

The Cambria arrived at Boston on Saturlay. We are indebted to W. H. Zieber & Co. for an early copy of Wilmer & Smith's European Times. We take from it the folowing extracts, there being but little news of an exciting character:

Russia has signified her disposition to setde the difference with Turkey amicably.

Butcher Haynau has threatened to throw up his commission, because having decreed that Count Batthyany should be publicly strangled, he found, to his annoyance, that he had only been shot!

Eighteen of the June insurgents have been tried at Lyons. Seventeen were acquitted, and the eighteenth, who had escaped, was sentenced, by default, to imprisonment for five years.

Disturbances of a serious nature took place at Rheims on the 21st instant. It is reported, and generally credited, that a considerable movement of foreigners and ultra-democrats from the departments is taking place towards. Paris, with what object is not yet clearly ascertained. The Germanic States, annoved at the prospect of being domineered over by Austria and Prussin, are forming an alliance to count teract the new "dodge." Bavaria, Wurtemburg and Hanover, have taken umbrage at the conduct of the two great powers, and out of this quarrel, events may spring, calculated to serve the cause of "fatherland."

The Mannings, husband and wife, who were infining Macbeth and his spouse, though in a volgar manner, have been convicted and sontenced to be hung.

The Belgian Legislative Assembly is to pen the 13th of November The Queen Downger Adelaide, Wife of William the Fourth, is sick at Stanmore .-The London News says the general opinion seems to be that her Majesty's recovery is not probable, but that she may linger some Abbest Lawrence, Esq., Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary from trie United States, had an audience of her Majesty at Windsor Castle, on Saturday, the 20th ult., to deliver his credentials. He was introduced by Viscount Palmerston, G. C. B., her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs. Lord Palmerston also introduced to ther Majesty Sir Henry Bulwer, who took leave on departing to enter on the duties of his mission as Minister to the United States Letters from St. Petersburg to Boston, the Traveller, of that city, says, state that uncasiness was beginning to be felt in St. Equitable Life Insurance, Annuity Petersburg. Considerable warlike preparations were known to be making, and the Rus-

The Czar Turning Tail. The fears which were entertained that a general war would spring ont of the demand which the Czar made upon the Suitan, relative to the extradition, or rather the giving up of the refugees at Widdin have been quieted by the intelligence which came to hand vesterday. The attitude assumed by this country and France placed the Autocrat on the horns of a dilemma. He had no alternative but to lower his tone or bare his sabre. He must either fight the English boff dog and the Gallic cock, or he must cease to bully the Turk He has preferred the more pacific course. We honor his resolve and admire his prodence-a quality which even despots know how to respect. A state of transition is always one of anxliety; and although every one believed that the Fear would turn tail, yet some wellmeaning people apprehended the worst, and the public securites became in consequence slightly affected. The news to which we refer has, however, restored confidence, and the funds show with what effect.

The following posteeript in Wilmer & Smith's Times, is the news referred to: Paris, Thursday .- It was reported in Paris to-day, that the French Ambassador at St. Petersburgh had forwarded despatches to his Government, infirmating a change in the hostile determination of Russia in its disagreement with Turkey, upon the subject of the extradition. So far from forcing matters to extremities, Russia expressed itself unxious to bettle the difference quietly, provided no warlike interference was threatened on the part of England. The same rumor was prevalent at Vienna on the 21st instant. THE BRITISH MINISTRY AND LOUIS

NAPOLEON. A letter from Paris says, Lord Normanby, the British ambassador, has been in frequent Republic, and is supposed to have obtained & complete ascendancy over him; so much so, him in the belief that he will be able to give gen- that Thiers is said to have thrown out inside untions that French feelings and French honor are rendered subservient to Preigners.

> The change of creed of Bem, Kinely, and other officers, is confirmed. Some words from Kossuth having given rise to the opinion that Bem and his companions had yield ed to the promises of the Porte, a great agitation showed itself in the Hungarian camp, and it was at one time feared that a disturbance would take place. Dembinski has not become a Mussulman, but he has openly acknowledged that the Porte had nothing whatever to do with the abjuration of Bem and his companions, and he has even written letters to the Grand Vizier and the Seraskier, in which he expresses his gratitude,
