UNPRECEDENTED LOSS OF LIFE!

The New Orleans Delta and Picayune of the 16th and 17th inst. bring us the melascholy particulars of the late awfal occurre by the explosion of the steamboat Louisians at the wharf, by which over 200 persons are believed to have been killed and wounded .--The telegraphic despatches, giving an account of this lamentable affair, have been necessarily brief and imperfect. We here

The violence of the shock operating on the boilers was tremendous. A part of one of them, a mass of considerable size, was herled with inconceivable force on the levec. It cut a mule in two, killed a horse and driinstantaneously. Another massive portion of the same, twelve feet long, and of immense weight, was blown to the corner of Canal and Front streets, a distance of 200 yards at least, prostrating three large iron pillars which supported a wooden shed or awning which stood before the coffee house there. Before coming in contact with the iron pillars, the fragof cotton which lay in its passage, making the staple scatter through the air as if it had been run through a cotton gin.

The sight of the mangled bodies which strewed the levee on all sides, and the shricks above her knee, whilst her body was shocking as if it had been painted red. Others, of both sexes, also with legs and arms off, mere trunks, lay about in different places. Two bodies we found locked together, brought by death into a sudden and close embrace.

But it is utterly impossible to describe the revolting sights which met our view .-Suffice it to say, that death was revealed there under almost every variety of appalling horror. The Louisiana sunk about 10 minptes after the explosion, and it is supposed many who went on board to assist the wounded, were carried down with her. This, we judge, from the fact of several persons, who had escaped the first effects of the explosion, having jumped overboard at the time of her sinking, and who were providentially saved.

A gentleman who was a passenger on the Louisiana, was standing on the hurricane deck abaft the wheelhouse when the explosion took place, and escaped. He distinctly saw the faces and arms of several ladies and gentlemen vainly struggling to free themselves from the falling planks and timbers .-They were carried down with the boat when she sank. He succeded in saving a little negro boy. About twenty persons were standing on the bow of the boat when she went down, most of whom were saved. The river was covered immediately after the aceident with fragments of the wreck. A portion of the stern of the ladies' cabin of the steamer is still out of water. Numerous wounded.

most entirely torn off. Captain Dustin, of the her. The steamboat John Mancock had her clothes torn to ribands, and yet was unhurt. J. K. Grotz, of Bloomsburg. wheel-house broken, and was otherwise infured. The Storm, a steamer from Louisfull of passengers, when the explosion of the Louisiana blew her upper deck to pieces, killing the wife of the clerk, Mr. Robert other persons, and wounding a great many

We are fold that the origin of the explosion gineer was on shore, with leave to join the boat at Lafavette; and that the Second Engi neer must have been absent from his post from the fact that the instant before the explosion he returned to the engine, found that there was something wrong, cried out to the mate to run for his life, and saved his own by a rapid movement to the stern. Negligence the most calpable is too plainly seen. The boat was within a few minutes of its departure, when officers and crew should have been doubly vigilant; and yet how different from this are the facts shown.

Captain Cannon, of the Louisiana, was or the levee coming with a gentleman when the explosion took place. The boat was waiting for some freight, and was about to proceed to a ship lying some distance below to take in 80 or 90 emigrants for St. Louis. The engineer, it is said, had tried the boilers, and finding no water in them, remarked that "it was coming," and they had better leave. He escaped.

The extent of the mortality will exceed our highest estimates. All the facts discovered thus far give color to the gloomiest apprehensions of the number of the killed. More than sixty-four dead have already been re. cognised. More than forty were exposed in the Barome street Watch-house yesterday, and at least twenty were in the dead-houses of the several hospitals. Several have died at private houses. Many others have no doubt floated down the stream, and will never be heard of again. Others have been the Storm, with his head in his hands, seemingly in deep grief. The expression, of de-pendeuce, affection and grief of the little girl, with the sorrowing attitude of the father, surrounded as they were by so many signs of disaster and desolation, made a picture which we shall not soon forget. We have since learned that the gentleman was Mr. Moody, clerk of the Storm, whose wife was killed .-The little girl was his only child.

The wharf, the barrels and sacks lying on it, were still sprinkled with blood, and the debris of mutilated bodies. A number of of the journals from which we take the account, condensing, however, the unimportant matters.

A number of persons were engaged in fishing up bodies.

Six were taken up whilst we were on the levee. In all, eleven were taken out of the matters.

water yesterday.
Incidents of the Explosion. CAPTAIN CANNON.-We had an interview with Captain Cannon. He is a young man whom we have long known as bearing a good character for prudence and discretion. Capver of a dray to which they were attached tain Cannon affirms that there was so little steam in the boilers that he had ordered the engineer to get up steam to proceed to the lower shipping to take in passengers. He believes that the explosion was caused by gunpowder, a barrel of which was carried aboard, and taken down into the hold to make into cartridge, to fire a salute when the boat left. He had given his consent to fire the cannon, ment of the boiler cut through several bales and the mate and one of the hands went to a store to get powder. They presently returned, and the Captain remarked, as they were going aboard, "What did you get a whole keg for, instead of a pound or so?"

This is the last he saw of the mate and the of the dying, were appalling, making the hand. Shortly afterwards the explosion took Godey's Lady's Book, the leading magazine of blood curdle with horior. We saw one man place-and Captain Cannon declares there with his head off, his entrails out and one leg were two reports-immediately following off. A woman, whose long dark hair lay each other. He thinks the concussion and wet and matted by her side, had one leg off vacuum caused by the explosion of the gunpowder, produced a collapse of the flues of ingly mangled. A large man, having the all the boilers at the same time. He arrives noticed several successful operations by him in skull crushed in, lay a corpse; his face look- at this conclusion from a knowledge of the low stage of the steam in the boilers and the want of fuel in the furnaces.

AFFECTING INCIDENT .- A little girl, the daughter of one of the steerage passengers was taken from the wreck, and being placed on the levee, began to cry for her mother .-Being shown some of the dead bodies, she recognized that of her mother from the ring on her finger, and threw herself, in deep grief, on the mutilated remains. This little girl is at the house of a gentleman in this city. A generous rivalry was enacted among our citizens, to extend to her all the protection and kindness in their power.

NARROW Escares .- A number of young men, clerks, had gone aboard the Storm to examine her manifest. How they escaped is a miracle, for the Storm exhibits the most perfect riddling we have ever seen. If a hundred cannon of the largest calibre had been playing on her, they could not have cut her up more completely. Mr. Simeon Tracy who was standing on some bales of hav, o the bows of the Storm, was knocked down by the body of a man, which lay across him .-He escaped without injury. The clerk of Mr. Matthew Martin, who was on the Louisiana, was thrown some distance into the air. and landed in the river, on the farther side of the Storm. He swam ashore and landed in safety, without serious injury. Dr. Testut was standing on the wharf, just after parting with a friend, (Dr. Bienvenue, of Point Cousmall boats were employed picking up the pee, who has not been found or heard of,) when a splinter struck down a man standing The steamer Bostona, laying alongside the near him, and the poor fellow, grasping the Louisiana, had her pipes blown down, her doctor's coat as he tell, tore it in the violence wheelhouse crushed, and her upper deck alwheelhouse crushed, and her upper deck alof his agony. A great deal of money was thrown about the levee, and was eagerly grabbed by the loafers who were assembled. One man was seen going off with a large roll of bank notes -many others were seen picking up watches and other valuables, and others, more depraved, were employed in pulling rings and other jewels from the bodies of the dead and the Mayor for safe-keeping. It did not remain, however, long in his Honor's pocket, some daring scoundrel having extracted it, whilst the Mayor was absarbed in his duties.

REDUCTION OF POSTAGE.

It is stated that the revenues for the Post Office Department will exceed the expenses by a half million of dollars. Thus it will be seen that the cheap postage system, which was fought through Congress, in opposition to Cave Johnson, the late Post Master General, has done better than was anticipated, even wounded. An honest laborer, having rescued by many of its friends. Mr. Collamer, the a wa'ch from one of the rogues, gave it to present Post Master General, it is said, will recommend a further reduction to a uniform rate of five cents, for all letters under a half ownce, for any distance.

He is also, we understand, in favor of reduction of newspaper postage, and we trust a free circulation in each Congressional district. We are not surprised at this. Mr. Collamer is a practical northern man, and can appreciate the progressive spirit of our people, and the great benefit of cheap and universal reading. This is the great distinction between our northern and southern states men, without regard to party, -- the South being a full century, behind the age.

DARVILLE POST OFFICE ROBBERY. bout $1000 mailed at Danville, having been telligencer of yesterday learns from an offimissed several weeks since, suspicion was fixed upon Charles M. Gearhart of Rush township in this county, who had been temporarily employed at the office as clerk. In order to prevent detection he destroyed while he was in the office, all letters from deficit, it says, will not have been occasion the person to whom the money was remitted. A day or two after leaving the office, he suddenly made up his mind to go to Ohio. From some circumstances that transpired, the suspicion of his guilt became so strong, that Mr. C. Garretson of Danville, went in pursuit of him, and arrested him in Mount Vernon, Ohio, and found upon his person $3,684 in tash and checks. Mr. Garretson, in his despatch, says, he has identified some of the notes found in his possession. By another letter just received from Mr. Garretson, we learn that an effort was making to discharge young Gearhart upon a Habeas Corpus, and that an attempt was also about being made to convict Mr. Garretson of perjury on the ground that his affidavit against Gearhart was false. The money was put in the hands of the Sheriff at Mount Vernon for safe keeping. It is to be regretted, that Mr. Gearhart, in an evil hour was tempted to an act which will blast forever his reputation. His connections number about forty families of that name, and are amongst the most respectable and prosperous farmers of Rush

ANOTHER ANTI-TARIFF ARGUMENT. We had some idea of replying to some of the crude notions of our neighbor of the Gazette on the tariff in his last paper, but when we came to the following profound argument, we were so completely unhorsed that our pen fell from our fingers:

"Let us suppose that there is a specific do ty of two cents per pound on brown sugar .-Havana sugar, than on the poorest New Or-leans, both paying but two cents per pound."

A duty of two cents per pound on New Orleans sugar!! We should like to know under what protective tariff, in this or any other country, articles of domestic manufacture were made to pay a duty. The Gazette is entirely too profound.

If you wish to get into hot water, just tell your wife she aint as good looking as she used to be—so says the Philadelphia Sun.—

ASTIMA AND CONSUMPTION.

I. J. Benls, 19 Delancey street, gave it to his sister-in-law who had been an invalid for years from Asthma; to another considered as in economiquious. It relieved them at ance, so that they travelled several hundred miles.

SPITTING BLOOD

Is always alatmine: It leads to the worst kind of Consumption, and unless arrested in time is generally fatal Sherman's All-Healing Balsam is the best remedy known; it heals the wounded of ruptured blood vessels of the hungs, and thereby effects a permanant cure, while other femerics only stop the blood for the time. A few dones of this Balsam will satisfy the most skeptical that it is the medician required—It has been successful in many cases, and that too where they had run into a rapid decline, or, as more generally expressed, "HASTY CONSUPTION." Young persons or those of middle age, are more subject to these attacks than the aged.

Price 23 cents and 81 per bottle.
