the same amount in the hands of the passengers. She arrived in Kingston on the 6th, at 3 P. M.; left Kingston on Monday, the 7th, at 9 A. M., and arrived in New York early this morning, making nine days from Chagres and five days and 6 hours from Kingston.

The heights of the Sierra Nvada are covered with snow, and this has been the unwelcome form of the winter visitant in the more elevated "diggings," accompanied by cold weather. The mountain streams are but imperceptibly swollen as yet although the Sacramento has risen many feet at its junction with the American river, since the commencement of the rains. From Feather river the golden news is highly encouraging. A bar of the South Fork, situated nine miles above Bidwell's bar, (the original discovery of gold on this fork was here.) has been worked during the late month with immense success The character of the gold is coarser than that of the lower washings, and up to the time of the rains, was abundant. The country around is of the most mountainous description. The Yuba and Bear creek washings are said to have yielded well during the low stage of water antecedant to the rains.

The Georgetown diggings are perhaps the most famous at the present time in the Sacramento Placer. They are situated about twelve miles distant, in a northeasterly direction from Columa, on the South Fork of the American river. Pieces of gold weighing from one pennyweight to ten and twelve pounds, have been discovered in this vicinity. The average for day laborers is said to be not less than three ounces, while instances of bagging eight and ten ounces per diem are by no means rare.

Owing to the earlier advent of the winter rains and inclement weather, than was anticipated, provisions have become scarce in the mining district, the wretched condition of the roads preventing supplies from reaching the mountains seasonably. Many persons are returning from the washings in consequence of this fact. Flour is selling on Feather river at $1 75 per pound, at "the Mill" (Column) for $1 25. All breadstoffs are proportionately high.

THE MURDER OF Dr. GEORGE PARKMAN-

We copy the following from the Bostor Mail for what it is worth. It is like a great many other things said in this case, but vague rumor and uncertain conjecture :

The grand jury of the county of Suffolk commenced yesterday the investigation of the case of Dr. John W. Webster, charged Forty-two witnesses have been sammoned to give evidence; among them are the examining physicians and chemists, Drs. Winothers; the officers of the police engaged in finding the remains of Dr. Parkman, and Mr. Littlefield, the man who found them .-Among those who will testify are Mesers Isaiah and Leonard Fuller, iron founders, in North Grove street, a few rods from the college, who saw Dr. Parkman go into the building at half past one o clock on the 23d of November last, and did not see him come

It is also said that a cabman will testify that he, on the night of the alleged murder, took Dr. Webster from his house in Cambridge, about ten o'clock in the evening, brought him into the city and left him at the Medical College, where he remained all night, and that he took him back in his cab in the morning to Cambridge.

A new feature has been added to the case, by the knowledge of a singular disappearance that took place on the night previous to the murder, in this street. It is a fact which has thus far been kept studiously secret by the authorities. It appears that a young woman, about 22 years of age, named shrine of party and of self. Catharine Sproule, left the residence of Mr. Caleb Howe, No. 29 South Grove street, on the evening of the 22d of November last, and has not been seen or heard of since .-She was a rather good looking young woman, of Irish parentage, and resided in the family of Mr. Howe as a domestic.

The circumstance of her disappearance, at this fatal period, taken in connection with the finding of the dead body of an infant near the Medical College, a few days after the murder of Dr. Parkman, (buried in the dirt, on what is called the New Jail Lands,) has given rise to terrible suspicions, and created another mystery, which it is to be hoped the new grand jury will puravel.— There is certainly a fearful tale yet to be told concerning the North Grove street murder, but since the establishment of secret Coroner's luquisitions, the public must be kept in the dark concerning all matters of this description.

Here is the poetry : "Poor Felty Best, may now sing :--

SPEAKER BEST. Some of our contemporaries are wasting good deal wrath and indignation on Mr. Best, for having managed to place himself in the speakers chair in the Senate, and the terms traitor, renegade, ingrate &c. are used as lavishly, as if Mr. Best had just been let loose from the Penitentiary. We are not among those who believe in the maxim "that all is fair in politics," but we firmly believe that nine-tenths of those who are codes in their denunciations of Mr. Res. would have pursued a precisely similar course, ind an opportunity offered. He that has lived to arrive at the age of discretion, has lived to but little purpose, if he has not discovered, that with professed politicians, politics is a game of chance on the political chess board, and that each player makes his move with a view to check mate his antagonist. Had Mr. Best gone into caucus, his conduct would have been reprehensible: but he was under no obligation, legal, moral, or political, to go into caucus if he thought the result would be the selection of a man whom he could not conscientiously support. These are views that we have entertained and expressed years ago, and are such that no freeman

[Correspondence of the Public Ledger.] FROM WASHINGTON. WASHINGTON, Jan. 14, 1850.

The Hungarian patriots, Gov. Ujhazy and his brave companions, arrived here at noon and will remain for several days. They intend, to morrow, to pay their respects to the President, and Vice President, and to all the other functionaries. The only person who has as yet visited them, is General Houston. It may truly be said that, on this occasion, as on many others, he proved himself a worthy representative of the Lone Star!

Mr. Houston to-day introduced the Misson Compromise in the Senate, in the form of resolutions, coupled with a declaration that Congress have no right to meddle with the Slavery question in any State, Territory or District where it now exists. The resolution lies over : but will be called up soon. Sam Houston is a Southern moderado, and a firm in the hands of Messrs. Hall and Vliet. They unionist. following resolution, submitted by him on the 24th of December :-Resolved. That the President be requested o cause to be laid before the Senate all charges which he had preferred or filed in any of the Departments against individuals who had been removed from the office since the 4th day of March last, with a specification of the cases, if any, in which the officers under each Department. Mr. Bradbury asked leave to modify the resolution, by adding the words, "including he subordinates in the Custom Houses and other branches of the public service " Mr. Mangum-As I consider this resolu tion a departure from the practice of the Government, and a gross invasion of the constitional privileges of the President of the United States, I move, as a test question, that it be laid upon the table, and upon that question I ask the year and nays.

The yeas and nays having been ordered and taken, the yeas were 23, nays 29. So the motion was negatived.

Mr. Bradbury expressed his surprise that the resolution or simple inquiry should be met by such opposition. He had not expected it-It sought information necessary to the action of the Senate in the discharge of its dutiesinformation which the President had rendered necessary to the Senate, and which he could give without any infraction of his constitutional rights. It did not ask for reasons, but for facts. The President had stated that he would, if elected, make no removals except for cause, and the inference, therefore, was that those persons who have been dismissed from office were destitute of the qualifications necessary to the discharge of their duties.

Mr. Bradbury proceeded to read extracts from various letters from General Taylor, in sent to any participation in the schemes of parties-that if elected he would take the oustitution for his rule of action, and not the principles or interests of parties-that he would not be the candidate of any party or clique, and, if elected would endeavor to se cure the good of all parties-that he was a Whig, but not an ultra Whig-was independvernment untrammelled by party schemes-He also read extracts to show the declarations made by the distinguished friends of General Taylor, relative to the course he would pursue, if elected. The distinguished ex-Senator from Kentucky, Mr. Crittenden, had said that General Taylor loathed proscription. An equally distinguished gentleman, now in the Senate, Mr. Mangum, bad said that he denounced the doctrine, that "to the victor belongs the spoils," with unuttera-

Mr. Bradbury, said he was glad of it, and expected him to show his sincerity by his vote on the pending resolution Another distinguished gentleman, now a member of the Cabinet, Mr. Clayton, had said in a speech in the Senate, that General Taylor was not pledged to carry out every measure espoused by the Whig party, and would not enter the field, or come into the presidency, as the candidate of either party. "He had no friends to reward, and no enemies to punish." It was upon such pledges, and representations as these, together with the ailitary popularity acquired by Gen. Taylor, in the war with Mexico, that he was nominated and elected to the presidency. A distinguished General from the North, Winfield Scott, could only say, "I am a Whig." A distinguished statesman from the West, Mr. Clay, could only say, "I am a Whigh" and they were set aside for one who made promises and gave pledges, which they could not consent to of-fer them. They could not make these appeals to the people.

Having been elected, and after having taken the solemn oath of office, in his insugural address the chart by which he proposed to administer the affairs of the government, Gen. Taylor had stated that the qualifications of bonesty, capacity and fidelity would be judispensable for the bestowal of office, and that the absence of any of them should be deemed cause for removal. Mr. B. would do the President the justice to say, that he had no doubt but that these numerous pledges had been given in good faith and that when he delivered his inaugural he intended that removals should only be made
