THE MORMONS ON THE MOUNTAINS.

Terrible Snow Storm-Lose of Sixty Cattle.

A correspondent of the Frontier (Iowa) Guardian of the 18th ult., writing from Muddy Fork, under date of Oct. 19, says :- We crossed over Rocky Ridge on the second of this month, near the summit of the South Pass with the Wind River chain of mountains on the north; towards night it began to snow and blow quite hard and fast from the northeast, weather increasing in coldness, which obliged us to encamp the best way we could (without carrelling) on a branch of the Sweetwater. E. T. Benson and Capt. Richards' camp some ten to twelve miles ahead on Willow Creek We turned our cattle loose and drove them into the willows near by to do the best they could and share their fate; and such a storm of wind and snow as we experienced, we think was never supersede in Pottawatamie. For thirty-six hours, it continued to howl around us incessantly, blowing nearly a hurricane drifting the snow in every direction, and freezing fast to whatever it touched. Being unable to keep fires, (except a few who had stoves in their wagons) we had to be content without them, and do the best we could. Many were the mother and infant that was obliged to be in bed under their frail covering that sheltered, them from the pitiless blast, to keep them from perishing with nothing perhaps, but a piece of dry bread, or a few crackers to subsist upon, while the winds spent their fury upon our eamp of canvass, covering it with a mass of ice, the snow drifting around us in some places to the depth of three or four feet. On the morning of the third day, the storm abated, and we turned out through the chilling blast, (from off these everlasting snow capped mountains, being at an altitude of about seven thousand feet) and snow, to look for our famishing, and, as we expected, many perished cattle.

As we wended our way down the stream among the willows, indeed it was a sorrowful sight to behold our perished cattle, one after another, cold and stiff, lying in the snow banks, food for wolves, ravines, catamounts, magpies, &c., that inhabit these mountain regions in countless numbers, and live on prey. The greater part of on cattle had made their way daring the storm about five miles off to the Sweetwater, where they obtained pastore and fared quite well, not one being found perished, while those that tarried behind fell a prey to hunger and the merrciles storm. Upwards of sixty head of catle perished in the three camps. Those of our cattle that survived the storm, did not recover from its effects for several days; others died each one for the modification of the school in consequence, and some show the effects yet, although they are improving at present, as we find quite plenty of mountain grass, and that hearty and good, and we are in tolerable good rolling order, making from twelve niata county, for a law to authrize and per- to fifteen miles per day, and we hope, if we mit mechanics to vend vans made by them- are prospered, to reach the Valley in eight

A Celebrated Gambler, after attending a great revival meeting, experienced, as he supposed, a change of feelings, and was finally induced to take his seat upon the "anxious bench." The minister commenced examining them on their experience and the state or their feelings, and finally, approaching the gambler, asked, "Well, my friend, what do you say ?" "Oh," replied he, unconsciously, "I pass! what do you do, old fellow?" turning to his left hand neighbor.

Junge Reed .- The Perry (Pa.) Freeman announces the decease, at Carlisle, of Hon. John Reed, L. L. D., and adds :

In this county, as well as in several adpining ones, Judge Reed filled, during the last quarter of a century, a prominent place in the public eye. He was the first President Judge in this county at the period of its organization: and continued in the faithful and efficient discharge of his duties on the Bench until the winter of 1839, when, by the provisions of the amended Constitution of this State, his Judicial term of office expired.
