EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM THE EDITOR, DATED

WASHINGTON, July 1st, 1850. Were it not that Congress is in session, there would be but few visitors to Washington, especially at this season, when the heat is most oppressive...

Our advices from New Mexico, by the recent arrival at Independence, are not of a very pleasant character. There is great excitement growing out of the attempt of Texas to assume authority over the territory.

THE AMERICAN. SUNBURY. SATURDAY, JULY 6, 1850.

To Advertisers.—The circulation of the Sunbury American among the different towns on the Susquehanna is not exceeded if equaled by any paper published in North or Pennsylvania.

THE LIST OF LETTERS is published in this paper, in accordance with the law requiring them to be published in the paper having the largest circulation.

Democratic State Nominations.

- For Canal Commissioner: WILLIAM T. MORISON. Of Montgomery County. For Auditor General: EPHRAIM BANKS. Of Milford County. For Surveyor General: J. PORTER BRAWLEY. Of Crawford County.

STATE CENTRAL COMMITTEE.

The members composing the DEMOCRATIC STATE CENTRAL COMMITTEE, appointed at Williamsport for the ensuing year, will meet at McKIBBIN'S Merchants' Hotel, in the City of Philadelphia, on Thursday evening, the 11th of July next, at 8 o'clock, for the purpose of organizing the Committee.

NEW ARRANGEMENT.—The line of stages from Northumberland to Pottsville now leave the former place at 3 o'clock, A.M., and arrive in Pottsville at 12 M., for the passengers, in time to take dinner, rest and also the afternoon train for Philadelphia, where they will arrive at 7 P.M.

The counterfeiter has already got up some very good looking spurious ten dollar notes purporting to be issued by the Bank of Danville. The vignette in the genuine note is a scene in the rolling mill. That of the spurious, is a spread eagle.—They can easily be detected by this difference.

The farmers are busily engaged in gathering a heavy crop of hay. Wheat, rye and oats look very promising. The corn thus far is getting along very well.

DECLINED.

Hon. Jesse C. Horton authorizes us to say that he declines being a candidate for the nomination for Congress. Appreciating the necessity of perfect harmony in the democratic ranks, he does not wish the action of the convention to be disturbed by a multitude of applicants for the honor of a nomination.

THE FOURTH OF JULY.

Passed off very pleasantly here and, as far as we are aware, without any occurrence to interrupt harmony and happiness. At 8 o'clock, A.M. the Dewart Guards paraded in Market square. The different Sunday schools had pic-nic parties. In the evening the Cadets of Temperance formed in procession at their Hall and marched to the German Reformed Church, where a handsome banner was presented to them by Mr. Aaron Christman, on behalf of the ladies.

BATHING.

Is very grateful and refreshing in this warm weather, but it is very selfish, to say the least of it, for persons to rush into the water in front of the Borough, even before the sun has gone down, driving every one away from the delightful promenade on the river bank. It is not to be wondered at, that little boys indulge in such improprieties, but that young men should thus forget all decency and expose themselves in broad daylight, is rather more than we would look for in any latitude short of the Sandwich Islands. This thing has gone on until it has become a disgraceful nuisance, which calls for the action of some of the officers chosen at our numerous Borough elections. A heavy fine is imposed, by an ordinance, on every person bathing in the river, within the Borough limits between the hours of 5 o'clock, A.M. and 8 o'clock, P.M. Where is the High Constable? Echo answers that he is not attending to his duty, and we are of the same opinion.

PAINE'S NEW LIGHT.

Turns out to be a humbug. As our friend of the Mining Register observes, the discovery is entirely premature, while such an abundance of fossil fuel is laid up for our use by Dame Nature. Mr. Paine claims to be able to produce hydrogen gas from water by magneto-electricity, and afterwards to carbonise it by passing it through turpentine, thus producing the carbonized hydrogen. Both these discoveries were, unfortunately for him, made some twenty years ago. The only thing that remains is his assertion of being able to produce the gas in much larger quantities than has hitherto been done, and at an expense scarcely worth mentioning.

We do not apprehend much danger of our coal dealers being driven out of market or the colliers being closed; much less of the fine Susquehanna salmon being boiled in their shady hiding places, when Mr. Paine sets the river on fire. A scientific gentleman who has lately made a visit to Worcester, Mr. Paine's residence, for the purpose of investigating the new process, has written a long letter on the subject, to the Evening Bulletin, from which we make the following extract: On arriving here yesterday my first inquiry was for Mr. Paine, but I was informed that he had left the previous night for New York. I soon, however, made the acquaintance of Mr. J. C. Pedrick, of Boston, the present proprietor of the invention, to whom I am indebted for much politeness. He offered to accompany me to Mr. Paine's house to show me what had been done there, and we set off without delay, the house being on the outskirts of the city. On our way we were met by Mrs. Paine and a brother of Henry M. Paine, who, on learning our errand, politely consented to our visiting the house, and passed on. At the house we found no grown person except a servant. The first thing I observed, was a gasometer in a cistern at the side of the house, with pipes passing from it through the wooden wall. Passing in, we found in the basement room adjoining the gasometer, the whole apparatus for lighting the house. It consists of an enclosed wooden box for a base, about a foot in depth and two or more in diameter, within which are said to be the mysterious agents of the machine. On the top of this stood a closed cylindrical vessel, about ten inches in diameter and two and a half feet high, into which passed the negative pole of the magnetic apparatus underneath. This tin vessel is said to contain the water, from which by the action of this negative pole, the hydrogen is obtained by the oxygen passing off. From this vessel the gas is received into the gasometer outside, and thence, after being passed through spirits of turpentine, is distributed through the pipes in the house. This is the whole of the visible portion of the apparatus for supplying the house.

While examining this, and expecting to see the gas burned, Mr. Paine's brother, whom we had met on the way, returned hastily to say that during a visit of some gentlemen from Boston, in the morning, a leak had occurred in one of the pipes near the gasometer, which caused all the gas to escape, so that it would be impossible to show the burning. This was a disappointment, but I proposed having the leak mended and new gas made, as the process was said to be very simple, and to require only the turning of a crank. But it was considered best not to meddle with it in Mr. Paine's absence, and I left the sight of the burning. We tried one of the burners, in the hope that some gas might remain, but with no success. There was attached to the apparatus a separate glass vessel containing spirits of turpentine, so as to show the process of "carbonizing" the hydrogen to those who are sceptical on this point. By detaching the pipe before it reaches the vessel, a jet of gas, with a bluish flame, being pure hydrogen. After passing through the turpentine, it burns with a white light. The burning of this gas in Mr. Paine's house has been witnessed by thousands of people, and all say that the light is much superior to the ordinary gas. Whether it is made solely from water and electricity, it is what nobody knows but Mr. Paine.

I was next shown the apparatus made by Mr. Paine for exhibiting his discovery to the citizens of Worcester, which is erected in a room in the Exchange building. It is a complicated machine, resting upon a cast-iron tripod, consisting of certain contrivances of brass or other metals, which I was told are the "helices" and "electrodes" that constitute the essence of Mr. Paine's discovery. I was not allowed to touch them, and they were not explained to me in any way. They are placed above the magnets, and are acted upon by a weight of brass, which is suspended above the instrument, and is wound up like the weights of a clock. I did not see this in operation, from the fact of its having been out of order, some screws having, it is said, broken into the room one night and injured the machine. The only part of the apparatus which appeared to me to be seriously damaged, was a contrivance called a "governor," attached to the wires to carry off any surplus electricity that might be developed; acting as a safety valve does in a steam engine. I had previously been told that this "governor" had been ascertained to be unnecessary, as the machine had been discovered to relieve itself of all superfluous fluid, without any such appendage. I could not but admire the considerate character of these Worcester Vandals in keeping their hands off the magnets, receivers, &c., of the apparatus, and only tampering with the unnecessary members. It is impossible to describe accurately this complex machine, except by the aid of drawings, and a request which I made for a copy of a lithographic diagram of it, which was shown me, was politely declined.—These are all the facts that I can give about the external of the new invention. The results of it may be briefly told.

We have received an excellent article on the treatment of fruit trees. It shall appear in our next.

Dr. Webster has confessed that he killed Dr. Parkman by striking him on the head with a bill of wood. He was excited to madness by the violent and abusive language and behavior of Dr. P., and committed the deed in the heat of uncontrollable passion.

The Sunbury Section, No. 127; Cadets of Temperance, at their meeting on Monday night, elected and installed the following officers, for the ensuing quarter: William W. Lazarus, W. A.; Alba C. B. Fisher, V. A.; Jacob Shipman, T.; John E. Heller, A. T.; John W. Beecher, S.; Thomas D. Grant, A. S.; Alexander J. Rockefeller, G.; Senarius L. Krebs, U.; James A. Scuppman, W.; Albert W. Fisher, A. EFFECT OF SHOT AND SHELL ON THE HULL OF IRON VESSELS.—The first experiment for testing the effect of shot and shell on the sides of iron vessels took place on Wednesday at Portsmouth (England) under the superintendence of Captain Chads, on board the Excellent. A large butt, being a copy of a section of the Simon's main deck, had been made in the dockyard, representing the two sides of an iron vessel, each side of the strength and consistency of one of the large iron steam ships. This butt was erected on the mud, at a distance of 460 yards from the Excellent, and the practice took place at high water from guns of several calibres, and various charges of powder, both shot and shell, were fired. The results show pretty conclusively that iron vessels are not fit to cope with vessels of wood, neither are they fit to gainst batteries, for it is now tolerably certain that the fatal effects of every shot received on board would be quadrupled by the tendency of the ironwork to splinter, fly off, and destroy everything in the vicinity of the concussion, more especially when the ball itself is also likely to split, and break to pieces likewise.

STORM AND FIRE AT CUMBERLAND, Md.—A storm passed over Cumberland, Md., on Thursday, doing considerable damage. The large frame stables of the National Road Stage Company, in the rear of the Belvidere Hall, were struck by lightning and set on fire. There was a considerable quantity of hay and feed in the stables, which, from their combustible nature, added fuel to the flames. The building was entirely destroyed, with the feed. All the horses, coaches, &c., were however, saved. The frame livery stable of Mr. James Sprigg, immediately adjoining, was likewise consumed. The total loss is estimated at $1000.

During the storm, as we learn from the Civilian, the back building of the large new hotel at the railroad depot, which has been carried up to the rafters was blown entirely down, falling upon the depot and crushing it for some distance. A brick house, on what is called the island, opposite the Canal locks, was deprived of its roof, and had a portion of its walls blown down. The family inhabiting it took refuge in the cellar, and were uninjured. The house belonged to Col. Thomas J. McKaig.

A military officer being at sea in a dreadful storm, his lady who was sitting in the cabin near him, and filled with alarms for the safety of the vessel, was so surprised at his composure and serenity, that she cried out, "My dear, are you not afraid? How is it possible you can be so calm in such a storm?" He arose from his chair lashed to the deck, supporting himself by a pillar of the bed-post, he drew his sword, and pointing it to the breast of his wife, he exclaimed, "Are you not afraid?" She instantly replied, "No, certainly not." "Why?" said the officer. "Because," rejoined the lady, "I know the sword is in the hand of my husband, and he loves me too well to hurt me." "Then," said he, "remember, I know in whom I have believed, and that He holds the wind in His fists, and the waters in the hollow of His hands."
