WASHINGTON, Sept. 29. Both Houses sat till very late this morning, passing all the Appropriation bills. Poor Ritchie was thrown overboard. The Senate for awhile insisted on Soule's amendment, giving him cost and ten per cent. for the publie printing, but the House refused. The House equally objected to the construction of mileage. After awhile a compromise was made between the two Houses by the Senate vielding up Father Richie and the House assenting to the mileage.

The Senate probably thought it better that one man should suffer, than that sixty should be out of pocket. The most unjust, cruel and persecuting malice was displayed towards the veteran of the press. Flogging in the Navy, except by court martial, was also abolished I wonder whether some of our old salts do not feel as much degraded by losing the privilege of lashing Jack, as some South Caroli. nians feel for being prevented to carry their negroes to California? Everything depends on the mode of viewing things.

Mr. Peters, of New Orleans, was rejected as the original friend of Gen. Taylor. Mt. Nathan Sargent was rejected for the Alpha letters. Mr. Collier was rejected as Collector of San Francisco, because the California Senators required it for the peace of the State with whose autho ity he has come in conflict. Mr. Hayden was rejected as Postmaster of Boston, because Gordon, his successor desired his place, which was convenient, and because Hyden reviled General Jackson, and Mr. Whittlesey came very near being rejected for his decision on the mileage. He could not swill-swallow the mileage, but swallowed the Galphine. A great many members and not a few Senators have already left the city. The Foote and Benton difficulty was honorably adjusted. Foote did not retract, but claimed the privilege of expressing his opinions and views in the Senate on any public measure, but disclaimed all personal disrespect to Mr. Fremont. This was deemed satisfactory. Foote was right in supporting the amendment of Mr. Ewing, allowing an appeal from the Board of California Land Commissioners to the Supreme Court of the United States.

He expressed his determination to vote against the bill, unless the amendment was agreed to, and so stated in his letter to Col Fremont, offering any satisfaction the latter should require. Col. Fremont has shown much good sense in yielding a point which was untenable, and all parties are satisfied it would not do to prolong a family feud, and Col. Fremont has taken council of wise and discreet men in dropping the subject. No one knowing either Foote or Fremont will doubt the course of either, and both are men of wide spread reputation. An appeal to arms would not have added to it on either side. More by letter.

THE LAST DAY OF THE SESSION.

The last day of the session was as usual a very heavy one, and if the friends of the Tariff had brought forward their amendments I doubt whether there would have been members enough sufficiently ill patured to vote it down. Members and Senators of the most opposite, political, and sectional complexions began to fraternize, and anything then brought forward would have been sure of being considered in a favorable light. The lasday of the session always resembles the blow out of a carnival, and it is fortunate indeed, when, as in this instance, a day of rest follows such extraordinary exertions.

The Civil and Diplomatic bill and the Navy Appropriation bill were the only two measures which seemed to give Congress any trouble at all, but the difficulty in regard to the first of these bills was happily got over by a species of compromise; the Senate receding from the propositions made in favor of Father Ritchie, and the House, having its vindicative spirit thus gratified, receded from its opposition to the constructive mileage. In other words, the Senate sacrificed Mr. Ritchie to get the mileage, and the House preferred to show its liberality to the members of the Senate rather than to Mr. Ritchie, who had nullifiers, fanatics and the friends of the Administration generally against him. They persecuted the old gentlemen in a manner which Mr. Ritchie has been sustaining during this session, and which alone is the cause of all the bitterness now evinced against him by a combination of all the fac-

We spoke to Mr. Gamry precision and pedantry, Mr. Jefferson Davie, and that astonishing volume of nautical information, Mr. Yulee, who thought flogging "worth a Jew's eye." ## MR. GAMBLE AND THE TARIFF.

The Miltonian and several of the Union We did not ourselves believe the report, as we thought we knew the sentiments of Mr. Gamble too well on this subject, and we what the Clinton Tribune, the whig paper at Lock Haven would say. It came well Mr. Gamble, and commented on his speech, but said nothing of the mare's nest, which the Miltonian had discovered just in time ble when in town a few days since on this subject. He denied most emphatically the charges of the Miltonian, and stated that he the missing, having been taken out during could not see how any sane man who un- the fire. derstood the subject, could oppose such a TWO MORE FIRES AT NORTHUMBERmodification of the present tariff as would afford greater protection to the coal and iron interests of Pennsylvania. We should practical man, and is too well acquainted their developement.

at Lock Haven denies that Mr. Gamble in his speech there advocated free trade, as stated by the whig papers in this neighborhood. What will satisfy any one of the falsity of the charge, is the fact; that the "Tribune," the whig paper published at the same place, although it charges some of the way. The next session will make up for it. county candidates with free trade views, has made no mention of Mr. Gambles having advocated free trade in his speech, nor has it attempted to deny the refutation of the charge by the Clinton Democrat.

An awful murder was committed on the person of a young lady early on Saturday morning last, at Rocky Hill, about three miles from West Chester. The young lady was a Miss Rachael Sharpless, about 18 years old, who was engaged teaching school. It is supposed she was shot just as she was in the act of unlocking the door of the school house, by some one from behind a tree. She was found lying at the door by the scholar's covered with blood. A young man about 19 years of age named George Pharoah, was arrested on suspicion on Sunday, having been seen in the neighborhood at the time with a gun, and what is most singular the wad of the gun which was found close by, was a part of the Saturday Evening Post, and when the pockets of Pharoah was searched, a large fragment of that paper were found, which corresponded exactly with the portion used for the wad. Pharoah was examined and committed.

ADJOURNMENT OF CONGRESS. - After a session of ten months, the longest ever held, Congress was adjourned on Monday last, at 12 o'clock, M. The only measures of importance enacted, were passed within the last few weeks, viz: the admission of California; providing territorial governments for New Mexico and Utah; passage of the fugitive slave bill, and abolishing the slave trade in the district; also abolishing the use of the lash in the navy; the passage of the appropriation bill, and the military bounty land bill. The postage bill was laid over again, for want of time.

The election is now close at hand Next Tuesday will be a busy day among candidates and politicians. In this county the great contest will be for Congress. Mr. Gamble has been through a portion of our county, and Union county, and has every where made a favorable impression. As a man of intelligence and sound sense, plain and unassuming manners, he could not well do otherwise. He will receive a full party vote, and if there is a fair turn out, will have a handsome majority. If the counties of Lycoming, Clinton and Sullivan give but half the majorities we heard estimated, his election is certain. There can be no difficulty about the redemption of the 13th Congressional this time, if there is anything like a favorable turn out. Let every democrat be at the polls and all will

It has removed mountain of prejudice from judicial pro-ceedings and substituted an active sympathy tween the people and all transactions of ndicial character. It has broken up the denoralizing influence of favoritism, which are wont to chister around executive power, and sucjected the whole system to the healthy influence and just criticisms of a free public opinion: and, above all, it has transferred the power from the few to the many, and erected a judicial structure upon the broad and de p foundation of popular intelligence and virtue."

MR. CUNARD AND MR. BEECHER. Rev. Henry Ward Beecher has written ong letter to Mr. E. Cunard, Jr. on the subject of regulations on the Conard steamers, requiring religious services only according to he forms of the Church of England. The letter concludes as follows;

I have said that Mr. Cunard, the agent the company, declared that the rule was that the Episcopal service only was allowed on his steamers, and that the captain or an Episcopal clergyman alone must officiate; l have declared that on the recent trip of the Asia, with nine clergymen on board, there was no preaching at all allowed the first Sabbath, and that on the second, a clergyman of he established church of Scotland was allowed by Mr. Conard, in violation of his role, to preach; I have said that when approached on the subject he lost his temper, and besides much more, said of American passengers, if they do not choose my line, "damn them, let them stay away," I have said that in the presence of myself and Prof. McClintock, of New York, he admitted that, the additional remark that "they might go to hell," and I now add, that while apoligising for the loss of his temper, he did not apolo. gize for his remarks upon the American travelling public, but made them yet more THE FUGITIVE SLAVE LAW IN MASSACHE. emphatic. CONFIRMATION BY THE SENATE.

WASHINGTON, Sept 23. A dispute occurred last evening, at the Ronda, between Senators Foote and Fremont. Mr. Foote directly accused Mr. Fremont of lands of California for his own private interest and benefit. This Mr. Fremont warmly repelled, and said that Mr. Foote was no gentleman. Foote struck Fremont a violent blow. After a short struggle they were seprated. Mr. Foote's blow brought blood, and there was much confusion. The combatants were separated by Senator Clark. It is currently reported this morning that more serious results will follow. Mr. Fremont, it is said, has sent a challenge to Mr. Foote. The latter is in his seat in the Senate; the former

THE SECRETARY OF THE TREASURER, Mr. Corwin, has written a long statement in com liance with a resolution of the Senate, showng the measures adopted to prevent frauds upon the revenue and what has been the results. He says-

The particulars of many cases of the grosment, and the evidence is conclusive that, so long as the present ad valorem system is contnued, they will prevail.

The facilities for ascertaining the true market value the great variety of foreign merchandise in the principal markets of the counmerchants of known character are forced to abandon their business as importers.

The means at the disposal of this departnent are entirely inadequate to such an express the systematic frauds known to be exensively perpetrated. Adequate remedies for these frauds can only be provided by acts of Congress; mainly they attach to the system of levying ad valorem duties upon the market value of merchandise in foreign counries, which it is almost impossible for the officers of the customs to ascertain under the nost favourable circumstances.

Our dependence for revenue is now upon the receipts from duties levied upon the importation of foreign merchandise. The rates of duty are fixed by law; but the values upon which they are imposed are left entirely to interested foreigners. Many of the inequalities of our present system would, in his opinion be remedied by the substitution of home for foreign valuation of dutiable merices complained of, and tend to its in- now the candidate of all parties.
