BULL PROG CONCERT.

An eastern editor has been favored with a grand Frog Concert. He transcribes the reciration as follows :-

"Kung de nung-kung, tung, Koo de kung, to koo; Titteri, titteri nong, Titteri, titteri koo." Full Chorus.

Bung de kung-kick a ku! Te te wee noun dee koo. Solo Soprano.

Tiddery pe de we de kun, Pee dee weet, pee dee weet! Chorus of Bass Voices. Kung kung, trata kung, Diggory kum, de kum de buo Tree-Tond Solo.

Tr-a-a to weet! Westerry des!

The effect was truly astonishing; the stars blinked, and the balmy zephyrs stooped to catch the enchanting melody.

A Gumorous Sketch.

NOT OBLIGED TO KILL ONE'S VOTE. The following capital story appears in the New York Spirit of the Times, and is supposed to be written by a "man from Arkan-saw," CLD LEVER WATCHES, full jeweiled, 18 karat case Usually sold for $35.

"About the year 1830 politics ran very high in Arkansas. Colonel A. H. Sevier SILVER LEVER WATCHES, full was a candidate for the office of delegate to Congress, and Ben Desha was his oppo-

Judge Andrew Scott was a warm friend SHAVER TEA SPOONS, per half doof Desha, and etterly hostile to Sevier. He had a neighbor, living about fifteen miles from him on the "far" side of Gallery creek, named Legan, commonly called ustnitering Jim Logan," who was exactly 'wice wersy' in his politics; and so frequent had been their encounters that the two neighbors had come cordially to hate each

One pleasant morning in the spring, when the sun shone out warmly, and all nature was green and fresh after a heavy rain of two or three days' duration, Logan was down from his house, through the little strip of creek bottom, to the bank of the creek, and sat himself on a "lick log," musing, perhaps, as Col. Jack. M'Carthy once said, on the evanethenthe of thublunary thingth?"

The creek was about twenty yards wide, and the rain had raised it, so that it was swimming, covered with foam, and running like a mill race with a full head of water .-Where the road crossed, on the edge of which Logan was sitting, was the only opening in the woods, which fringed the stream on each side. Above and below the trees leaned over, and their branches hung gracefully in the water, and swong to and fro in the swift current.

After Logan had set there a little while, Judge Scott came riding down the road on the other side, but halted when he reached the water's edge, and looked across, without saying anything, but looked as if he thought s , if it's swimming, why don't you say so ?" Logan took out his jack-knife, split a piece off from the lick-log and commesced whittling it, looking steadily across towards Scott all the while.

Logan was a large, stout, heavy looking man; Scott, small, wiry, passionate, petulent, and as arave as a ball-dog.

After waiting a moment- for each hated the other too much to speak-Scott tightened the reins and rode into the water. His horse had not taken more than six steps, before HAVE now on hand, and will be receiving daily flarough the senson. New Goods, direct from the European kerching! he plunged in over head and ears. In a moment more Scott was washed from his back; the rider went one way, the horse the other, and the saddlebugs a third. The horse turned towards the side which he went in. and got ashore some little way below, the saddlebags floated down the stream, and Scott managed to reach Logan's side of the creek, and caught hold of the swinging limb of a sycamore which dipped into the water. "Help, Logan, help!" cried Scott. "I shall be drowned! Help!" "S-s-s-say you'll v-v-vote for Sevier!" bawl. ed Logan.

"Help, Logan! Help! I shall drown!

"S-s-s-say you'll v-v-vote for Sevier ! again bawled Logan, not rising from the lick-log Just then the sycamore limb snapped, and that moment Scott sung out-"I'll see you h-d first, you infernal old eddying round in the concavity at the upper edge of a sand-bar, upon which Scott was flung, and scrambled out. He walked up the bank, and towards Logan, spattering with rage, and streaming with water. Luckily he had no weapons but a pistol, and that, of

It is a fact, perhaps not generally known to farmers, and which, at this season, is important, that there are two parts in the potate which, if a parated and planted at the same time, one will produce potatoes fit for the table eight or ten days sooner than the other. The small end of the potato which is generally full of eyes, is the part which produces the earliest; the middle or the body of the potato the late and larger one. This we learn from an exchange.

"Wife," said a tyrannical husband one morning to his abased consort, "I wish you woold make me a pair of false bosoms. "I HAMS AND SIDES, should think," replied she, "that one bosom | SHOULDERS, as false as yours is would be sufficient.
