THE JACKSON STATUE.

gives an entertaining history of the Jackson statue erected in that city on the 8th of January. Mr. Mills, the artist, is a self made man and like all of his class has had to battle against prejudice, ignorance, pride and envy, but like a true man has triumphed over all. His work is wonderful, and is the only piece of colossal bronze casting of a horse rampant, in which the animal is unsupported by anything extraneous. The one at St. Petersburgh has a serpent gracefully wreathed round the body and without that, would fall, while Mills' statue of Jackson is sustained solely by the hind feet of the animal.

The artist was originally a poor plasterer, and attained proficiency in sculpture through industry and application, uninstructed, He finished his model amid diffliculties, and the statement below will show what he had to encounter, and what he overcame, after his The next day, while Mr. and Mrs. Williams model was made. He confined the calorie, and found that, with comparatively little fuel, and in a very small space, he could generate the most intense heat. He found, also, that he had increased the hardness, and therefore improved the quality of the metal by his furnace. He informed the Government of his discovery thinking it would be very important in the manufacture of cannon. He proposed to cast a cannon and have it tested by a board of competent officers. The Board of Ordnance treated his they could not entertain such a proposition from him." Such are the difficulties which notwithstanding has succeeded thus far. He

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS. CURE OF A DISORDERED LIVER AND BAD Copy of a Letter from Mr. R. W. Kirkus, Chemist, 7, Prescot Street, Liverpool, dated 6th June, 1851.

6th June, 1851.

To Professer HotLoway.

Sin.—Your Pills and omtiment have stood the highest on our said list of Proprietary Medicines for some years. A castomer, to whom I can refer for any enquiries, desires me to let you know the particulars or her core. She had been troubled for years with a disordered liver and had digestion. On the last occasion, however, the virulence of the attack was so obtaining, and the indistribution set in acceptable to hear up under it; fortunately she was indirect to try your Pills, and she informs me that after the first, and each sheep show in the enjoyment of perfect health. I could have sent you many cases, but the above from the sixularity of the attack, and the strumy cure, I think, speaks under its favor of your est unding Pills.
