SPRING IMPLICATED IN THE MURDER

On Saturday, developments were made which seem to fasten the guilt of the Rink murder upon Author Spring, Senior. An umbrella was found in the store of the late Mr. Rink, and latterly the presumption has arisen, that as the day upon which his assassination took place was one of the stormiest of the past winter, it might have been left there by the murderer. Mr. William Byrne the officer of the Court, to whom young Spaing made the first disclosures with regard to the Federal street tragedy, has for some time been under the impression that Spring was also the perpetrator of the Rink murder. He had an interview with Mr. Ragan, in whose employ Spring was at the time of the Rink murder, but he was unable to say with any certainty where Spring was on that day, but inclined to the belief that he was at work in his cellar. Mr. Byrne, not satisfied with this, induced the brother of Mr. Rink to call upon Mr. Ragan with the umbrella found in the store, and the result has been, that both Mr. and Mrs. Ragar, have identified it, the former by a piece of wire, and the latter by three patches upon it, made by themselves to repair damages. The recognition of the umbrella brought to the mind of Mr. Ragan several circumstances that had previously escaped his recollection. He now declares that about the time of the Rink murder, Spring had been indulging in drink and was cross and irritable. A small amount of money had been missed from his desk, and though he suspected Spring of the larceny, he said nothing, from a dread of his violence. On the afternoon of the day that Rink was murdered, Spring borrowed the umbrella from Mr. Ragan, who having a curiosity to know where he could be going, amid such a storm, followed him as far as Thirteenth and Market streets, and saw that he was going down towards Chestnut street.

The above developments will Joubtless confirm the impression that has for some time been gaining ground in the pubic mind that the author of the Federal street tragedy and the Rink assassination, was one and the same person. It is now supposed that Spring alluded to the Rink murder, when he spoke to his son of having killed a man, in the expectation of getting a large sum of money and being disappointed The money stolen from Mr. Ragan's desk, the latter is now convinced, was spent by Spring in the purchase of the knife with which the bloody transaction, and identify the purchaser in 000. Spring. The complete development of all the facts relating to the Rink murder, is most important, as it will release from cuson the charge.

XXXII CONGRESS -Second Session.

THE GAUGE LAW. The repeal of the guage law by the leislature, to which our friends in Erie were so strenously opposed, seems to have been received by them as philosophically as if they expected nothing else. It was, perhaps, a wise policy so far as certain local interests were concerned, to pass such a law, but as a general principle, it was neither wise or liberal. The Pennsylvania guage is 4 feet 81 inches-the Ohio 4 feet 10 inches. Some of our friends of the Sunbury Erie Road, think it would be a wise step to construct that road with the Ohio guage, which would give us a continuous line of the same guage from this place, through Pennsylvania, Ohio and Indiana, to Chicago, Ill. For comfort and o'clock. convenience of passengers, the six foot guage of New York is, no doubt, the best, but perhaps not the most economical. It is now thought, by many Engineers, that a guage of 54 feet is, taking all things into consideration, the most advisable.

WASHINGTON, April 9th. The crowd of office beggars has somewhat disappeared; but new levies are from time to time pouring in, to take the place of the killed and wounded. The slaughter has been tremendons; but it is difficult to understand the principle which governed the action of the administration in regard to it.

It is only certain that the out and out Union men have been overslaughed all over the country, and that Secessionists and Free Soilers have been richly rewarded for their opposition to the compromise. This is in mitation of the policy of China, where many a section was quelled by a general amnesty, and the promotion of the chiefs to a manderinship of the blue button. It is difficult to make appointments that shall be universally popular; but it is always possible to maintain a principle.

The appointments of Jefferson Davis Soule, Campbell, of Alabama, &c., have provoked the Union men of the South, who are openly vowing to preserve their organization. If they succeed in preserving it this fall, they may succeed in forming a par-

PRENCH MARRIAGE BROKERS.

A late Paris letter says-

I have wondered how matrimonial agents -those people that advertise desirable hus pands and wives, comfortable settlements in life, dowries, and amiable tempers-manage to make both ends meet. A commissary of police has just arrested an extensive dealer in this way, and the secret has leaked out .-He advertised himself as corn doctor to all the crowned heads, and sold patent medicines. He was also an agent for marriages, and had a fine let of young ladies, with dowries, varying from 20,000f. to half a million. He had upon his books the names of daughters of members of the Academy and Senate, of a marshall of France, and sundry German princes. Gentlemen that applied for wives paid an entrance fee, and in the course of the negotiation sundry other claims, in all a considerable sum. When it became necessary to bring the affair to a conclusion, a quantity of faded lovettes with a parcel of elderly females acting as their mothers, were introduced, and the applicant was only too glad to make good his escape. He generally abstained from making the swindle public for fear of being laughed at. The investigations that have been commenced will probably lead to the breaking up of all the matrimonial offices in Paris.

WHISERY VS WATER .- At a municipal election in Louisville, Ky., last week, a majority of 215 was given in favor of licenses for the sale of spirituous liquors, and a majority of 777 against establishing city water works. Communication.

For the Sunbury American Mt. Comfort, Shamokin tuesp. April 7, 1853.

H. B. Masser, Esq. :- A few weeks since communication appeared in the 'Sunbury Gazette" in which a list of interrogatories were presented for me to answer: I passed hem over in silent contempt, as I never have acknowledged that distinguished writer my quistor General, or Father Confessor. But in said "Gazette," of the 26th o March last, another one appeard dated "Rush March 26th 1853," signed "Tom," which would be treated with the same contempt as the other if the writer had not stooped to slander and falsehood, in which he says I with many others met at John B. Packer's office previous to the opening of the Court House door and made arrangements" for appointing the officers disturbing the meeting,

Now the fact of the matter is when we ar ived in Sunbury, another person and myself drove directly to Weitzel's hotel, and there put up, and we both remained there without eaving the house, until the Court House bell had been rung a considerable time. I was engaged in making notes of an address which May 5, expected to deliver (as I had been informed while on the road to Sunbury that I must represent the Shamokin township delegation.) This said person and myself walked from the Hotel straight to the Court House; and we had not seen or spoke to John B. Packer, or any other subscription man. All of the above I am well able to prove.

I am at a loss to conceive what motive the writer could have had to induce him to mingle falsehood and slander with his tissue of nonsense, unless it be to raise the wind, two mills for every delivery from his office and induce the good people of this County to to a subscriber of each newspaper not elect him their Auditor. I am neither a Prophet or a son of a Prophet, but I will inform this young comet which has arisen above the horrizon since the 5th of last March, that he may be used as a "cat's paw' for certain purposes, but the people of this county will elect no persons to the smalles office in their gift unless he be capable and

I contend that any person who will belie and slander a respectable civizen, under a talse and assumed name, and by stratagem and other kinds of Castings for repairing. The endeavour to throw his guilt upon some innocent person in "Rush," should be held by

The day of reckoning is approaching, when many hidden things will come to light, and "Tom" personally will appear before the bar of his country to answer for his crimes. As to my tenets which has been a subject of say it is the same it ever has been and consonant, I presume, with the large majority of this County, to wit : that the Commission-Susquehanna Railroad, without the consent of their constituents, and then it should have been done Jackson-like, openly and fearless.
