Mexicans-On placing my foot on the shores of my country, I salute them with the liveliest emotion. My heart has palpitated with tenderness from the time when my eyes commenced to discover around our coasts the lofty mountains which indicate the proximity of a land in which everything is dear to my heart, in which everything brings to me the dearest reminiscences.

You have called me, believing me useful to save you from the state of anarchy and superstition into which you have fallen, and I have not delayed in responding to your summons. You already have me on your soil, resolved to employ all my energies in an object of such essential importance. But if I have been quick to come at your call, it is from reckoning upon your efficacious operation. Of no use will be my firm resolution to consecrate myself entirely to the salvation of the country if every one of you do not assist me, co-operating with all his abitity to the attainment of these ends.

Far from me is the thought of avenging ancient grievances. Those who have been my enemics may dismiss all fear. Everything is forgotten; and in touching the shores of my country, I present to all the hand of friendship. Neither do I come to make any party prevail. I come not only to raise the sacred standard of union, summoning to follow it all Mexicans, whatever may be their opinions. Every man whose heart swells and is moved at the voice of his country, he is my friend, he is my companion.

Mexicans, too long have we permitted ourselves to be deceived by chimerical ideas. We have lost too much time in intestine dissentions. A sad reality has come to dreg us from such a deplorable deception. To what have we arrived at the end of thirty years of independence? Cast an eye over the map of your country, and you will find that a great portion of your territory has been lost. Examine the state of your finances, and you will meet nothing but disorder, abuse, rain. What is your credit abroad? What is the opinion which you enjoy in foreign nations? Where is that army in whose lines I have had the honor to serve, that army which gained your independence, in which I glory of having had no small partthat army which I lead through the deserts conquering difficulties which appeared insuperable, to the frontier of the Republic-at whose head I repelled an inimical invasion, and with which I fought-with little fortune, was occupied by the enemy.

Mexicans, let us become ourselves again. Let us improve the hard lessons of experience. Let us repair the errors we have committed. Here you have me to contribute and we may still have country, national honor, and a name which we will not be ashamed

*HEAVY ROBBERY OF GOLD DUST .- The police authorities of New York have been furnished with information respecting a heavy tobbery of gold dust on board the steamship Union, which reached that port on Wednesday night. Upon opening the wooden boxes, they were found to contain shot and iron with seals nearly as good as new, showing that the operators were skilled in their business. The amount of missing dust reaches nearly $20,000, the insurance of which falls upon two or three banking-houses in New York. The consignment to one firm is covered by insurance in London. It is thought that the robbery was committed at some point where the steamer touched during her homeward passage.

On Sunday afternoon Soley called for the latter, at his home, and they proceeded together to Jennings' tavern, on Bristol street, a road leading from the Germantown road to the Frankford road. about five miles from the city.

At the tavern they drank freely, and both became somewhat intoxicated. Soley was the most under the influence of liquor. The parties got to high words, and became excited; in the course of the quarrel O'Neal struck Soley, and drew blood; the latter said that he would have satisfaction from any man who drew blood from him. They then left the house, and blows again passed between them before they reached the gate

THE RINK MURDER.

SINGULAR DISCLOSURES OF ARTHUR SPRING -We learn that in the course of yesterday, the Grand Jury paid their official visit to the County Prison, and that Arthur Spring hearing of it, sent for the foreman, Andrew Mc-Makin, Esq., and made a voluntary statement to him concerning the Rink murder, with which he is now very generally charged. His story, is (and here we may remark that it is about as truthful as his story of the Federal street tragedy) that on the afternoon of the murder he was passing down Chesnut street, and on approaching the shop of Joseph Rink, he heard murder cried. He at once went in, and in doing so a man with bushy whiskers rushed out by him.

He went in and found Rink lying on his back on the floor, and he exclaimed to him affray O'Neal drew a three cornered dirk hurried out to pursue the murderer. He county. 11th district of Virginia TO PREVENT THE POTATO ROT.

WESTERN SARATOGA, P. O., Union Co., Ill., April 4, 1853. To the Editor of the New York Tribune :

Permit me, through your paper, to make known to the farming part of the community a perfect cure and preventive of the Potato with perfect success; while others in the same field, who did not use the preventive, lost their entire crop by the rot. It not only prevents the rot, but restores the potato to its primitive vigor, and the product is not only sound, but double the size, consequently producing twice the quantity on the same ground, and the vines grow much larger, and retain their freshness and vitality until the frost kills them. Aside from the care of the rot, the farmers would be more doubly compensated for their trouble and expense to the increase and quantity of the crop. It being of such vast importance for the farming part of A Bill has passed both branches of the Vir- the community to know the secret of the preone peck of fine sait and mix it thoroughly SALMON. with half a bushel of Nova Scotia pluster or gapsum, (the plaster is the best) and immediately after hoeing the potatoes the second time, or just as the young potato begins to set, sprinkle on the main vines next to the ground, a table-spoonful of the above mixture to each hill, and be sure to get it on the main vines, as it is found that the rot pro. ceeds from a sting of an insect in the vine. and the mixture coming in contact with the vine, kills the effect of it, before it reaches the potato. Farmers would do well to try it as they would be well paid for their trouble by the increase of their crop as well as the quality of the potato. Try it and see. I could, if necessary, furnish ample certificates to substantiate the above, but deem it unnecessary, as it needs only a trial to prove it. Yours, H. PENOYER.
