The Halifax steamer America, and the Bremen steamer Washington, both arrived yesterday, the latter at New York. The news they bring is highly important. It tells of the destruction of Sebastopol by the Russians, after a terrible assault by the Allies, in which they were repeatedly repulsed, but the French finally effected a ledgement in the Malakoff, when the Russians evacuated the town, destroying everything in their retreat. The loss of the Allies is

THE NEWS BY THE WASHINGTON. New York, Sept. 27.—By the United States mail steamship Washington, Captain Connelly from Bremen and Southampton, we receive English despatches and newspapers to the 12th inst. She brings 320 passengers. The steamship America arrived at Liverpool on the 9th inst.

The Washington brings the important intelligence of the "Fall of Sebastopol!" On the 8th inst., the allied forces attacked the defences of Sebastopol, and the French succeeded in gaining possession of the Malakoff. The English, who attempted the Redan, were not successful. During the night, the Russians began to sink their ships, blow up their magazines, and burn their city, and on the following morning Schastopol was evacuated, and the communication between the north forts and the town broken off. The following telegraphic despatch, received by Lord Panmure from Gen. Simpson, appeared in the English morning journals of the 11th instant: "Schastopol is in posses-sion of the Allies. The enemy, during the night and morning, evacuated the south side. after exploding their magazines and setting fire to the whole of the town. All the men-of-war were burnt during the night, with the exception of three steamers, which were plying about the harbor. The bridge com-municating with the north side is broken. Gen. Simpson regrets that the casualties in the attempt on the Redan were somewhat heavy, but there was no general officer killed."

In a supplement of the Moniteur the following telegraphic despatch, received by the French government from Gen. Pelissier appears: Karabelnaia, the south part of Sebastopol, no longer exists. The enemy, perceived one solid occupation of the Malakoff, decided upon consuming the place after havall the defences. Having passed the night in the midst of my troops, I can assure you that everything in the Karabelnaia is blown up, and from what I could see, the same must be the case in front of our left line of attack. This immense success does the greatest honor to our troops. Everything is quiet on the

The assault on the Malakoff was at noon of the 8th inst. The redoubts and the Redan of Careening bay were carried by storm by the French soldiers, with admirable intrepid-ity to the shouts of Vive l'Empereur. The Hedan of Careening bay was not tenable, owing to the heavy fire of artillery which was poured upon the first occupiers of that work. On beholding the French eagles floating on the Malakoff, Gen. de Sulles made two at-attacked the Malakoff. The extreme right of the French made a diversion on the little Redan, and a united attack of the English, French and Sardinians was made on the Central Battery. All the attacks were made simultaneously with great spirit and energy; but the one which was most eminently successful, was led by Gen. Bosquet and Gen. M'Mahon on the Malakoff. Both the Redan and Central Bastion were at times in the hands of the storming parties, but so accurately did the guns of the Russians cover these, that as soon as the English had gained possession of them it was found impossible to hold them.

The tollowing despatch is from Prince Gortschakoff, and is dated the night of the 9th, "The garrison of Sebastopol, after sustaining an infernal fire, repulsed his assaults, but did not drive the enemy from the Malakoff Tower Our brave troops, who resisted to the last extremity, are now crossing over to the northern part of Sebastopol The enemy found nothing in the southern part but blood-stained ruins. On the 9th of September the passage to the northern side was accomplished with the loss of 100 men We left, I regret to say, 500 men previously wounded on the south side."

The intelligence of the fall of Sebastopol was received in London with demonstration of great joy. At the various theatres and places of public amusement, the fact was officially announced, and the bands at each place immediately played the national anthems of England and France, and throughout England the demonstrations were general. The English loss in the assault on the Redan is estimated at 5000 killed and woun-

[From the London Times of the 12th inst.] MILITARY CONSEQUENCES OF

THE VICTORY. The first question which presents itself to our consideration, after we have given utter-ance to those feelings of exultation and of gratitude which the glorious termination of the siege of Sebastopol excites at this mo-ment throughout the empire, relates to the military consequences of this victory, and to the strategical measures best calculated to bring the campaign and the war to a speedy and triumphant termination. A tremendous blow has been struck at the military power and fame of Russia, and her paval forces in the Black Sea have been annihilated. The courage, the perseverance, and the incessant labors of the Allied armies have already disposed of the arguments of those who conten-ded that Sebastopol was impregnable until it should be invested, and that the Russian coldiers were invincible within its redoubts It now appears from Admiral Bruat's despatch, that the mortar boats of both squdrons took part in the attack, and threw shells against the marine batteries, so that, from the heights of lukermann to Streletzka bay, the whole fortress was encompassed with a storm of fire, and an enormous number of

of Gen. Bosquet's division of the French army in the Malakoff Tower, Prince Gortschakoff instantly proceeded to execute a prearranged plan for the destruction and evacuation of the town. All that night the harbor was illuminated with the lurid glare of burning ships, and from time to time the explosion

Means of retreat had been secured by a long bridge of rafts across the great harbor, and for many hours large masses of troops were removed by this passage to the northern side; but at eight o'clock in the morning of side; but at eight o'clock in the morning of the 9th this communication was stopped, the whole of the works and town being then evacuated. If, as is propable, any of the Russians remained on the south bank after that hour, they must either have perished in the fire or fallen into the hands of the besie-gers. About 500 of the wounded, we know, remained in the Fort St. Paul, and for them an armistice was asked; but, with their ac mined to destroy the city rather than to capitulate, and they executed their design.

The position of Prince Gortschakoff sarmy, after the main body had effected its retreat across the harbor, was, therefore, as follows:

His extreme right, consisting of the corps most actively engaged in the defence of the Fort, and holds the Severnaia work, or Star Fort, and holds the strongly intrenched positions on the north shore, where, no doubt, considerable preparations have been made for this emergency. His centre covers the Belbek, and is protected in front by the field-works through the sides of Indexes Indexes the sides of Indexes Index said to be 20,000; the Russians 10,000.

The Russians now occupy the forts on the north part of the harbor, including Fort Constantine, at the mouth of the harbor, the Central Fort, Fort Catharine, and a number

The mere occupation of the north side of the port is a barren advantage, for, though it might hold a garrison, it cannot shelter a defeated army; and it is obvious that, after the failure of the main object, all the ability and generalship of the Russians will be re-quired to save the whole body of their forces in the Crimea from destruction. We there-fore infer that the northern forts will either be held for a time by a limited garrison, or, more probably, altogether abandoned, in the hope of saving the army.

Prince Gortschakoff's plan of campaign has long since been made ; judging, therefore from the accustomed tactics of the Russian army, as well as from the extreme difficulty of his present position, we incline to the opin-ion that he will adopt the course of a general and immediate retreat To hold the Crimea without Sebastopol, and even after the harbor of Sebastopol itself has been transformed by conquest into the base of operations of the invading armies, would be a bootless and unprofitable task, and the danger is greatly aggravated by the fact that the whole of the Allies, with unlimited means of naval transport at their command, will shortly be at liberty to advance upon any part of the Peninsula which is accessible from the coast. These immediate consequences of their own success in the siege operations must have been considered by the allied Generals, and the moment is now arrived when they may proceed to open the campaign of which the reduction of Sebastopol was the first preliminary. That field operations of this nature have long been contemplated by the allied Governments, is obvious from the large cavalry force they have continued to send to the Crimea. The British army alone can bring upwards of 3000 sabres and lances into the field, and the French cavalry is still more numerous and impatient of the inaction to which it has hitherto been condemned.

Fighting, as they are, in closed lists, without the means of escape, the defeated Russian army should be compelled to lay down its arms, or to fight a general action, which would crown the series of our successes by a still more decisive victory. The peninsula itself is besieged and well nigh invested by our fleets and armies, and if the command of a single road be lost, the whole line by which supplies and communications can reach the Russians, is gone. Such we take to be the relative position of the belligerents in the Crimea, and, with the means of action at the disposal of the French and English Generals, we have confident hopes of a glorious result. FRANCE.

On the night of the 8th inst., whilst the Emperor of the French was at the door of the tacks on the Central Bastion, but did not succeed. The French troops returned to the renches. The losses were serious.

The plan of the battle appears to have an individual who was standing in the trottoir write it." That should depend very much been as follows:—The place was attacked in four directions. The British troops attempted the storming of the Redan; the French The man, who had more the appearance of a maniac than an assassin, was immediately arrested. The name of the individual arrested is Bellemarre. He is about 22 years of age, and was born at Rouen. When 16 years of age he was sentenced to two years' imprisonment for swindling.

ET PEACHES .- We are indebted to a lady garden, a few days since, six of which weighed three pounds-one of them weighing nine free stone variety.

The Gazette is exceedingly anxious to underrate, and render Mr. Bergstresser unpopular with his whig friends. This will be up-hill work, as Mr. Bergstresser, when in the legislature, was one of the most popular members, with whigs and democrats that we have had for a long time. This is a fact well known and acknowledged by some of the codfish faction themselves.

The editor of the Gazette doubts our of the grave often covers up many defects of character that a truthful biographer would feel bound to narrate. A truthful biography is sometimes any thing but flattering.

The United and Junior Sons of America of this place, dedicated their new Hall, on Thursday last. A parade of the Orders in full regalia, accompanied by music, took place in the afternoon. The Journal says the whole number including all grog shops licensed and unlicen sed, amounts to eight hundred. These grogeries are mostly kept by foreigners.

The last attempt of the Gazette to excuse the swearing committee in appointing a foreigner who was not yet naturalised, as Judge of the Mount Carmel election, is upon the principle of representation-that there were a number of naturalized citizens in Mt. Carmel. Admitting this to be true, was it necessary to appoint an unnaturalized Judge to held the election? Perhaps the only excuse they could offer was that they could not find three men in the township, who would vote the codfish ticket, much less hold their

THE JANUS FACED DEMOCRATS.

of its defence or excuse for supporting the Know Nothing candidate for Senator, in opposition to Jesse C. Horton, the regular lemocratic candidate, asks if our assertion is any better than theirs. If it was not, it would be idle and useless in a man attempting to rely on his character for consistency and veracity. Any parrot can make assertions, but it is another to prove them. Unfortunately for the Gazette, our statements are generally fortified by the documents-evidence which the Gazette and the faction that control it, cannot and dare not deny. But what evidence can the Gazette and its faction produce in its defence? Nothing! literally nothing, but its plea of "not guilty," a plea that any culprit at the bar may put in, but which avails nothing without proof to sustain it. In order to screen himself and the swearing faction, for their opposition to the demo cratic ticket last fall, the editor of the Gazette finds it necessary and convenient to state that Jesse C. Horton opposed Gov. Bigler, and that too, in the face of all evidence to the down 90 loaded cars on the Reading road, contrary. In order to show what the real opinion of the Gazette and its faction was in route, owing to the ascending grade. regard to Mr. Horton, or rather, we should say, what one of their opinions was, (because they generally have several on the same subject,) we will quote an editorial extract from the Sunbury Gazette of July 6th, 1850. The editor in referring to the fact that Mr. Hor- Jowish Hospital at Jerusalem. ton declined being a candidate for Congress.

"Gen. Horton is one of the firmest democrats in the district, and has many warm and zealous friends, who were anxious to have an opportunity to exert themselves for the purose of placing him in nomination."

And now we ask what confidence can any one have in men who culogise and bespatter one have in men who culogise and bespatter a man with praise one day, and revile him the next?

that us Farmers are very ignorant, and don't know how to vote. I am an old line whig and remember how that paper used to ridicule and the next?

Is it any wonder that the party organization has been destroyed and degraded, in the hands of such leaders?

The Gazette makes another lame attempt to screen the codfish party in this place, for having boasted, and published to the world, that they all voted the Know Nothing ticket last fall-these same Know Nothings which they now denounce as the worst rascals living. The editor talks about | and then Mr. Youngman won't say how easy the dollars and cents that influenced the he can stuff the farmers of Lower Augusta actions of the opponents of the codfish faction-and whether it is any thing more than the "dollars and cents" of a certain aspirant friend for a basket of fine peaches. They were a red cheeked, yellow Major Dewart's small one. Gen. Cameron is able and can be made to pay any subscription he makes, and no one doubts his intention or ability But Major Dewart, says the Gazette, is President of the Sunbury port. Canal and Water Power Company. How patriotic and public spirited it is in the Major! If the public could only be satisfied that it was not the large number of "dollars and cents" that he receives for his little services, it would, perhaps, settle an exceedingly perplexing question.

> The swearing faction having been foiled in all their movements, are now directing Centre county, Pa., to Miss Louisa Dougals, their puny batteries against Gen. Cameron, daughter of Dr. Dougal, of Milton Pennsyland ask the support of democrats for their ticket because it is opposed to Gen. Cameron. Now this is certainly very modest. It is only a few years since as we have already shown, ret Mc Williams, of Moorsburg, Montour Co that the leading opponents of Gen. Cameron in this place toasted him and passed resolutions in his favor, and now because Major Dewart wants to go to Congress, and happens to dislike Gen. Cameron, every man who does not oppose him is denounced. The question is simply this, are the people to elect officers to suit themselves, or to suit Major Dewart and his swearing committee. Now as there is no regular democratic ticket in the field this fall, the people will be very apt to choose men who do not belong to the codfish faction.
