NOVEMBER.

We have said a great deal to direct attention to the transplantation of trees-fruit and ornamental-embracing lists of the best, in our judgment, for that purpose. If it should be neglected this autume, as it was by so many last spring, it cannot be chargeable to any omission of duty by us. November is perhaps to be preferred to transplant in antumn; though December, if the ground is not frozen, can be used with safety. For Dwarf Pears we prefer spring; but as a rule it may be laid down, that in heavy soils, or grounds with clay subsoils, which are likely to retain water on or near the surface, during the winter, spring transplanting is decidedly the On the contrary, when soils are light. loamy, and dry, autumn may be the best .-As to evergeen trees, about which so much is said as to the time when they should be transplanted, it will be safest that they should As to evergreen frees, about which so that is said as to the time when they should be transplanted, it will be safest that they should come under the common rule of other trees—
Our aurseries are now teening with every variety of fruit trees, at reasonable prices, as well as with the choicest ornamental trees, decideness and evergreen, and as every farmer, particularly, is able, from the high prices be receives for everything he produces, to supply himself with a good stock of trees, the present opportunity should not be neglected, to precare them. Carefolly plant them, as we have a hundred times directed, and not one in fifty will fail to grow.

QUINCE TREES.

There is probably not a single Quince Orchard in Penesylvania, We have never chan el to see in any part of the State quin e trees, except in some obsure corner of the field or garden, entirely neglected, never pruned, matured or cultivated. A stranger aware of the fact that good quinces always sell readily in Philadelphia market, and at a comparatively higher price than other fruit knowing also that hundreds of barrels perhaps thousands, are brought here for sale in the fall of the year from north and east of us, would suppose our soil not adapted to quince raising. This is not the case. There is no froit which, in Pennsylvania, would pay better than the quince, if properly cultivated — They produce abundantly come into prefit in about three years after planting, are hardy, require but little attention, can be placed closer together than most other fruit trees, the fruit is more easily picked, and will better bear transportation. An idea is very prevalent that they do better in low moist ground. This is a mistake, originating from the fact that they will thrive in such situations when other trees will not. The quince will do as well on high dry ground as the pear tree .-To do it justice, it should receive every fall a good coat of barnyard manure well dag in, the bark should be cleaused occasionally with the lye mixture, as recommended for other fruit trees, and attention should be given to printing all decayed wood or drowded branch es, so as to give free access to the sun and air, and make a good symetrical head.

One of the best manures for the quines tree is salt, which shoule be strewn over the ground every spring in the proportion of two or three quarts to each tree. This has been fully tried, and found to increase the luxuriance never be omitted. The quince may be planted in rows ten feet apart, which will give four hundred trees to the acre. AYER'S PILLS.

A VER A New and singularly successful remedy for the cure of all Billions diseases—Costiveness, Indigention, Jaundice, Dropsy, Rheumatism, Fevers, Gout, Humors, Nervousness, Irritability, Inflammations, Headache, Pains in the Breast, Side, Back, and Limbs. Female Complaints, Ne., &c. Indeed, and Limbs. Female Complaints, Ne., &c. Indeed, and suffering might be prevented, if a harmless but effectual Cathartic were more freely used. No person can feel well while a costive habit of body prevails; besides it soon generates serious and often fatal diseases, which might have been avoided by the timely and judicious use of a good purpative. This is alike true of Colds, Feverish symptoms, and Billions derangements. They all tend to become or produce the deep scated and formidable distempers which load the hearses all over the land. Hence a reliable family physic is of the first importance to Dil space permit, we could give many hundred certificates, from all parts where the Pills have been used, but evidence even more convincing than the experience of eminent public men is found in their effects upon trial.

These Pills, the result of long investigation and study, are offered to the public as the best and most complete which the present state of medical can be had all winter: we adopt this mode and find it to be excellent. Celery can remain in the rows, well banked up until frost shall make it necessary to bury it for winter. This should be done by filling in, in a body, say between two rows, the stalk taken from the other rows, mixing in the dirt well, and making the whole firm. Then cap it with plenty of cornstalks, bent over in the form of a double pitch roof, and cover this with two or three inches of earth, well spanked with the spade, so as not to fall down by the action of frost or rains. If this is well done, ities of each substance employed are left behind, the curative virtues only being retained. Hence it is self-evident the effects should prove as they have proved more purely remedial, and the Pills a surer, more powerful antidote to disease than any other medicine known to the world.

As it is frequently expedient that my medicine should be taken under the counsel of an attending Physician, and as he could not properly judge of a remedy without knowing its composition. I have supplied the accurate Formulae by which both my Pectoral and Pills are made to the which both my Pectoral and Pills are made to the whole body of Practitioners in the United States and British American Provinces. If however there should be any one who has not received them, they will be promptly forwarded by mail to his address.

Of all the Patent Medicines that are offered, how few would be taken if their composition was known! Their life consists in their mystery. I have no mysteries.

The composition of my preparations is laid open to all men, and all who are competent to judge on the subject freely acknowledge their convictions of their intrinsic ments. The Cherry Pectoral was pronounced by scientific men to be a wonderful medicine before its effects were known. Many ceniment Physicians have declared the same thing of my Pills, and even more confidently, and are willing to certify that their anticipations were more than realized by their effects upon trial.

They operate by their powerful influence on the internal viscera to purify the blood and stimulate it into healthy action—remove the obstructions of the stomach, bowels, liver, and other organs of the body, restoring their irregular action to health, and by correcting, wherever they exist, such deraigements as are the first origin of disease.

Being sugar wrapped they are pleasant to take, and being purely vegetable, no harm can arise from their use in any quantity. The composition of my preparations is laid open their use in any quantity.
