NEW METHOD OF RAISING FRUIT TREES.

The Patent Office is in receipt of information from England, in regard to raising fruit in what are termed orchard houses, by planting small trees in pots. The writer says that a few old sashes, some pots and weather boarding are all that is necessary to constitute a house for trying the experiment.

To PRESERVE PEPPERS IN SLICES.—Take the finest peppers, pare them, and cut them in slices a quarter of an inch thick, without taking out the cores; boil two or three lemons and slice them with the apples; take some weight of white sugar, (or refined brown sugar), put a gill of water for each pound of sugar, dissolve it, and set it over the fire; when it is boiling hot put in the slices, let them boil gently until they are all clear; then take them with a skimmer and spread them on flat dishes to dry, until the syrup until it is quite thick, put the slices on flat dishes, and pour the syrup over. There may be done a day before they are wanted; two hours will be sufficient to make a fine dish for dessert or supper.

To PRESERVE CRAB APPLES.—Take off the stem and core them with a paring knife, cutting them open; weigh a pound of white sugar for each pound of prepared fruit; put a teaspoon of water to each pound of sugar, and put it over a moderate fire. When the sugar is all dissolved and hot, put the apples in; let them boil gently until they are clear, then skin them out and spread them on flat dishes. Boil the syrup in whatever they are to be kept, and when the syrup is cooled and settled, put it carefully over the fruit. Slices of lemon boiled with the fruit may be considered an improvement; a lemon is enough for several pounds of fruit. Crab-apples may be preserved whole, with only half an inch of the stem on; three quarters of a pound of sugar for each pound of fruit.

CURING BACON WITHOUT SMOKE.

To smoke the best bacon fat your hogs early, and fat them well. By fattening early you make a greater quantity of fat, and the fat will allow, and salt soon as the animal is fat is gone, with a plenty of the purest salt, and about half an ounce of salt-petre to one hundred pounds of pork.

As soon as the meat is salted to your taste, which will generally be in about five weeks; take it out, and if any of it were covered with brine, let it drain a little. Then take black pepper, finely ground, and dust on the back and sides as much as will stick. Then hang it up in a good, clean, dry, airy place. If all this is done as it should be, it ought to be done now you will have no further trouble with it, for by fly time in the spring your bacon is so well cured on the outside that flies or bugs will not disturb it.

Curing bacon is like the Irishman's mode of making punch. He said: "Put in the sugar, then fill it up with whisky, and every drop of water you put in after that spoils the punch." Just so with curing bacon; if you allow direct water to touch it, the quality of smoke you put out it spoils the bacon.—Portage Democrat.

CHILI PEPPER.—A gentleman writing from Texas, to the Agricultural Department at Washington, gives an account of a pepper which grows in the State of Texas, and which is called the Chili pepper. When domesticated this pepper is said to improve in size and quality. It commences to ripen in July, and continues to do so until the first frosts kill its foliage. The seeds contain an average of twenty-five per cent of seed oil. Specimens of the seed, and also of the ground plant, accompanied the letter.

CURIOUS NEEBLES.—Dr. Fearing, of Nantucket, Mass., has taken from the stomach, abdomen and left side of a patient, named Jane James, sixty-two needles, and more remains. The patient, some years ago was damaged in mind, and fancied herself a pincushion, swallowing all the needles and pins she could lay hands on.

A COLORED D. D.—A colored man, on Staten Island, who pretends to have discovered a cure for hydrophobia, sports D. D. to his honor. Upon being asked why he added those letters, he said: "Kiss me, and I'll give my name in full.—San Francisco Daily Telegraph.

In one of the Detroit public schools, the other day, a rogue managed to slip some tar between another boy's pants and his seat. The attempt of the little fellow to rise from his seat occasioned unbounded merriment. One little fellow laughed so heartily that the teacher punished him, and for this injudicious treatment he was fined ten dollars.

Kassuth, according to reports, is preparing for revolutionary attempts in Europe as soon as the proper time may arrive. We may then look for a revival of the Kassuth hats and revolutionary fashions. But we doubt not the Philadelphia public, no matter what may be the changes in dress will continue to provide themselves with clothing from Rockwell & Wilson's cheap and elegant clothing store, No. 111 Chestnut street, corner of Franklin Place.
