as well as competent men, to fill even the smallest office in the gift of the people. I have been led into these reflections by reviewing the course pursued by our county superintendent of the public schools of Northumberland county, in his unwarantable at-tempts to side a little more public money into his pockets, without a valuable consider-ation, and thereby take from the juvenile class of our county just so much of that por-tion of the school fund which was intended for their benefit.

Unlucky man ! He seems to think, that if only those of his own party were at the head of the school department, he might have succeeded with his Ramp Convention, and pocketed the spoil, by only rendering an insignifi-eted the spon, by card whigs and Know But these sharp-eyed Whigs and Know Nothings detected him in his designs, and slipped his cable from under him. But we think the gentleman is mistaken, and slanders the democratic party by insinuating that they the democratic party by insinuating that they proceedings, and held valid a resolution-an amendment to the resolution-then an amend-ment to the amendment, which latter clause being the only one acted upon and carried by a majority of one vote, and that (we are informed) through an error, then adjourned sine die in disorder, not trusting to put the resolution, as amended, before the convention for their consideration, which was essential to its validity. I am led to believe that an undue anxiety for a little more of the needful must have materially swayed his judgment in this case, or his perceptive faculties must be nat-urally deficient. For him to suppose that t he action of said convention granted him one extra cent, is certainly, to say the least of it. ridiculous. Since every school boy who has ever attended a debating society, or ever went with his mother to church, knows otherwise.

Unfortunate man ! doomed to disappointment. Let him cease grumbling, and cease to cast reflections upon two large and respectable parties, because they have men among them ready to discountenance illegal acts. I was not aware of the fact that the school department had transferred itself into a political bazaar, until I saw our superintendent's extraordinary production, published in the American, to his fellow citizens, 1 am inclined to believe that the gentleman thinks his Bull will create a host of friends for him in the democratic party, and that they will set the Major aside and have com-passion on him, and send him to Washington as an honoroble gentleman. But I shall be much deceived in the wisdom of that great party if they suffer him to pull wool over their eyes to that extent. When he asserts that the prime movers were either Whigs or Know Nothings in getting up a remonstrance against the proceedings of his convention. I emphatically declare it a hoax, as I know many good and truthful democrats who were very much interested in bringing about the result he so much complains of. if the gentleman finds he had a hard bargain, the door is open for him to resign. The onvention took him at his own offer, in fact. they gave him fifty dollars per year more than he asked for. I have no doubt, had he been contented with what he then thought was an ample compensation, at the expiration of three years he could have been re-elected with a salary considerably increased. But really he reminds me mach of the fable of the dog, grasping for more, and in the end losing all. I am not of the opinion that he is the only competent man in the county. In conclusion, I would not advise him with all his chain of misfortunes, to leave the democratic party, but I do think he might shine among the dark lantern party, or cut a conspicaous figure in a Know Nothing lodge.

Yours Truly, Elysburg, Feb. 26, 1856.

8. A. B. February 23, 1856 .- 3m c ----THE BRITISH ENLISTMENT CORRESPON DENCE.

The publication of the correspondence up-on the enlistment question, by placing the facts of that controversy in a clear light, will tend to correct several material errors which seem to have added a feeling of bitterness in its discussion, which might eventually have led to mischief. In the first place, it will show the British people that this government has just grounds of offence in the course pursued by British agents in this country, and hence the charges so frequently and absurdly repeated by the London Times, that the ad ministration was agitating the question for political capital, are proved to be slanderous. In the next place, it shows that no proper apology has been offered for the violation of the sovereignty of the United States by such enlistments, for the apology was accompan-ied with the assertion of a claim which, if admitted, would at once neutralise the effect of our municipal enactments, intended to give force in our sovereign right.

The British government is or ought to be well acquainted with international law, and it is a settled principle of public law that no beligerent nation has the right to use the territory of another nation for belligerent purposes, without its conset. If it could do so, no nation would be able to preserve its neutrality. Offering inducements to persons within the United States to enter into the service of Great Britian, is recruiting, within the meaning of the prohibitory statute enacted by Congress, and the act was one of which Rossia might reasonably take offence, as a violation of our neutrality. Knowing that the United States did not permit such culistments within its territory, by any nation, the British government had no right to make the attempt. Doing so, it committed an act of national aggression, and by attempting to evade the municipal law, it added insult to the injury. The British government, while requiring assurances from our government that it would repress any attempts on the part of Russia to violate the neutrality of this country, should have met these assurances of our government in the same fair and candid spirit in which they were given But instead of this, we find that government engaged in divising a plan whereby the intention of our laws might be defeated, and at the same time the penalties for violating them might be evaded. We find British agents, men high in authority, no less personages than the representa-tives of Great Britian to this country, actually engaged at this work, and when detected in the act, and the guilt fastened conclusively upon them, the British government 'itself, though professing regret that anything in contravention of the laws of the United States should have been attempted, undertakes to give a construction to our law which would destroy its effective and restraining force, and allow the wrong that it first condemned to be perpetrated with impunity. A that is built. Our advantages, in the use of a justification which would impair the sover. Machine that will work a whole board into eignty of the United States as an independent nation, can never be admitted as an apology for the affront, of having actually outraged that local sovereignty. And we take it for granted that when these facts are laid before the British public, and are deliberately considered, they will come to the conclusion that their own government has blundered throughout this whole business, and that what this nation asks in the way of reparation and security is nothing more than justice demands. The course of our government, instead of being guarrelsome and ex-acting, has been one of unusual courtosy and forbearance.-Ledger.

forbearance.—Ledger. An Eastern Editor announces the death of a lady of his acquaintance, and touchingly adds—"In her decease the sick have lost an invaluable friend.
