(From the American Agriculturist.)

We have not much too add to last month's suggestions. Many persons have applied to us to procure them a simple, low-priced mill for pressing out the juice on a small scale. We have spent considerable time with several mechanics, trying to contrive some simple apparatus, which could be sold for $12 to $15, and yet suffice to extract the juice from a few thousand canes. In this effort we have thus far been unsuccessful. A mill with iron rollers $3\frac{1}{2}$ inches in diameter was tried, but when these were brought together near enough to press out any considerable proportion of the juice, they would not feed or draw in the canes freely, and if they did this, it was next to impossible to turn the crank when a cane-HINTS CPON SYRUP-MARING, ETC. to impossible to turn the crank when a cane-joint passed in, even with a multiplying wheel to increase the power.

A somewhat larger mill, made at the Speedwell Iron Works, Morristown, N. J., which we found on sale at R. L. Allen's, in this city, was tried with unripe canes from our field. This has rollers 8 inches in diameter, with cogs working into each other at one ter, with cogs working into each other at one end, and a large cog, wheel, pinion and crank at the other, all set in a strong iron frame. This presses out the juice fixely, but it requires more force than man-power to work it. If attached to a horse-power, by a large bandwheel, as they are now being made, this is the best mill we have seen at so low a price as 875. For our own use, we have calculated that, in the end at will be cheapest to pur chase a regular sugar-cane mill, of large size, which can be used the present year, and if not wanted afterwards, he sold to some one going into the business largely, at the South if not North. We expect before closing this number to receive a description of a rude mill being erected in Ohio—if this arrives it will be given at page 237.

It will not be difficult to get up an extem pore wooden hand-press, where only a few dozens or hundreds of canes are to be tried, for the curiosity of the thing. We sugges the following: Take a round, smooth, hard-wood log, 10 or 12 inches in diameter, and saw off two rollers 10 inches long, set these saw off two rollers 10 inches long, set these between two planks supported or kept apart at each end by heavy blocks cut 10½ inches long, to allow an eighth of an inch play for the rollers. Hoop the rollers at each end with strong iron bands, put on like wagon tires, by the blacksmith. For axles, take an iron rod 16 inches long and at least 1½ inches in diameter, and drive it firmly through the former than rollers previously bored. centre of one of the rollers previously bored with an auger, letting the ends extend through the planks to form gudgeons. Put a similar rod through the other 10 ler. but let it extend 5 or 6 feet above the frame, and bend it over at right angles for a lever to turn with. The rollers being put in place, spike the planks firmly upon the 10 inch blocks at each end. To prevent the crank rod from turning in the roller, wedge a tightly, and also put a cross key or pin through it, at the points where it leaves the end of the roller, and drive these into the wood. Make a little duct in the lower plank to conduct the juice to one side, and into a vessel underneath To prevent the axles wearing into the wood, usil two or three pieces of fist iron around them upon the upper and lower sides of the plank frame. Any one, with a little assistance from a blacksmith, can construct a more than the state of the plank frame. simple apparatus like this is a single day, and the whole cost need not exceed five dollars. We recently conversed with Mr. A. Stoutenborough, of Dallas Co., Alabama., who and we give his experience, writing from memory. He planted several acres of Chiuese Sugar Cane, in drills, putting one seed in a place. Each seed produced one large central stalk with a number of suckers. The suckers not being so forward as the main stalks, he commenced cutting out and grinding the latter toward the close of August, or soon as the seed began to ripen. The suckers are to be pressed as they mature. He constructed two upright wooden rollers, of large size, putting an iron band around the ends of them, and fitting with wooden cogs to make them turn together. They were set into a strong frame, one of them were set into a strong frame, one of them projecting up for the attachment of a lever for driving by horse horse. With this mill he pressed out about 70 gallons of juice in the fore part of the pay, which was put into a 120 gallon cauldron, or iron kettle, and boiled down just as he would sap for maple sugar. The scum rising from time to time was skimmed off, and when it had become clear he added to it 14 or 15 tea-spoonfuls of slaked. added to it 14 or 15 tex-spoonfuls of slaked lime, first stirring it in water to the consistence of milk. The boiling was continued, skimming when needed, and with a slower heat towards the close of the process. The result was, 12 to 14 gallons of thick syrap of very superior quality from each 74 gallons of without previous experience in sugar-making, will be suggestive to others in like circumstances. In boiling down the juice, it is important to heat it soon after it is expressed. The heat should be kept just below boiling antil most of the scum rises when it may be taken off, the lime added as previously described, and the boiling he continued as long as desired, removing from time to time all scum that accumulates. The syrup will be simproved by letting it cool after boiling down, way one-half; then strain it through a woolen woth; stir in some whites of eggs; heat it eggin gradually and skim, and then complete the boiling.

THE MONTOUR WORKS. Speculation has been rife within the last week in reference to the suspension and probable future of the Montour Iron Works.—

I) uring the same time the Managers have been busy in making arrangments to settle up with the workmen and divise a plan for future action. The cause of the suspension is mainly attributable to the large importations of Radroad Iron which is now offered to Railroad turers in this country can give and consequent This excessive importations of foreign iron under the non-protective rates of duty to-gether with the general stricture in the money market has not compelled only the Montour Works, but many others all over the country to suspend operations for the present. But we are authorized to say that an arrangement has been concluded by which the fires will ere longer be kindled to the Rolling Mill and we shall again be cheered with the music of its'ma chinery. The works have been leased for five years to Messrs. H. M. Fuller, J. P. Grove, J. Grove and Thomas Chambers. The claims of the workmen against the Co. witl be paid immediately, and the Mills started as soon for her developement and our citizens will be glad to learn that they are in the hands of these gentlemen to whose energy enterprize Sunbury, Sept. 19, 1867, to and perservance, we will in a great measure and perservance, we will in a great measure, as a community, owe our future prosperity.—

The workmen have been very calm, quietly awaiting the result, thus exhibiting their confidence in thier employers. Better times we trust, will speedily realize their expectations.—Montour American, of the 29th Sept.

A NEW METHOD OF TREATING PAPER, giving it the tenacity of vellum, has been discovered by an English chemist. He has found that by a momentary immersion of paper in strong sulphuric acid, diluted with half its bulk of water, and, allowed to cool, and then washing it freely, first in water, and according it weak assembles, it becomes imbued with such extraordinary tenacity, that whereas

ONE GOOD RESULT OF THE PRESENT STRIK-ONE GOOD RESULT OF THE PRESENT STRINGENCY IN THE MONEY MARKET.—People are discovering that business matters in this country will proceed from bad to worse, until we establish some means to prevent excessive imports. If we had no foreign balances to settle, we should be in a healthy and prosperous condition. The condition of a whole country, in this respect, is in no sense different from that of an individual. If the balance of trade were not against as, we could have a ent from that of an individual. If the balance of trade were not against us, we could have a currency among ourselves, of gold or silver, paper or shells, or anything whatever to represent articles of commerce. In a word, when we took some pains to protect ourselves, foreigners were often obliged to send us gold, to pay for our cetton and breadstuffs. Instead of getting into debt, we were then laying up money. Facts are hard nuts to crack; but the kernel when reached is aweet.

AN IMPORTANT PURCHASE. - We learn of a contract made resterday in this city for 2000 barrels of flour, at $450, to be delivered in the month of October. The purchase itself is not a matter of much consequence, but the connections of the purchaser are such as lead to the supposition that it is for foreign account; and it indicates the beginning of a foreign demand, and confidence in an advance of prices.—Evansville (Ind.) Journal.

THE SAVED AND THE LOST .- The exact number of the saved and lost of the steamer Central America will probably never be known in this world. It is generally agreed that she had on board, on leaving Havana, nearly six hundred souls; and the lists of the saved vary from 166 to 183. In all of those lists, repetitions or other inaccuracies are apparent. Probably 170 is not far from

WHEAT DECLINISC IN ILLINOIS,-A fate Bloomington, Illinois, paper says: — Wheat declined to fifty cents per bushel in this masket, Thursday. The main cause of the rapid decline is, that in the present unsettled state of glairs east, the Chicago bankers refuse to discount the drafts of produce dealers, (or of anybody else, in fact.) many of whom are therefore unable to continue buying. At present rates, we presume farmers will generally withhold their grain from market."

EXCELSOIR SPRING BED.

(Gould's Patent, September 2d 1856.)

FOR which a diploma was awarded at the Eighth Exhibition of the Mass. Charitable Mechanic's Association.

This is an entirely new application of spiral springs to beds, making a more comfortable, neat-er, and cheaper spring ted than has been offered to the public, applicable to old as well as new

The peculiar position of the springs clevate the head slightly, saving the trouble of building up the head with extra bolsters.

The construction is so simple, and every part so exposed, that bugs have no hiding places, and the most inexperienced can take out each for washing, as they are only fastened by a button. The Springs used are made expressly for these beds on a Patent Spring Machine. The public need only see this bed to appreciate it.
