I deem it my duty to submit to Congress a series of resolutions adopted by the Legis-lature of Virginia on the 19th lustant, having in view a peaceful settlement of the existing questions which now threaten the Union.---They were delivered to me on Thursday, the 24th inst., by Ex President Tyler, who has left his dignified and honored retirement in the hope that he may render service to his country in this its hour of peril. These resolutions, it will be perceived, extend an invitation to all such States, whether slaveholding or non slaveholding, as we are willing to unite with Virginia in an enrest effort to adjust the present unhappy controversaries in the spirit in which the Constitution was originally formed, and consistently with its principles, so as to afford to the people of the slaveholding States adequate guarantees for the security of their rights, to appoint commissioners, to meet on the 4th day of l'ebuary next, in the city of Washington, similar commissioners appointed by Virginia, to consider, and, if practible, agree upon some suitable adjustment. I confess I hall this this movement on the part of Virginia with great satisfaction. From the past history of this ancient and renowned commonwealth we have the follest assurance that what she has undertaken she will accommplish, if it can be done by able, enlightened and persevering efforts. It is highly gratifying to know that other patriotic States have appointed, and are appointing commissioners, to meet those of Virginia in council. When assembled, they will constitute a body entitled, in an eminent degree, to the confidence of the country. The General Assembly of Virginia have also resolved that ex-President John Tyler is hereby appointed, by the concurrent vote of each branch of the General Assembly a commissioner to the President of the United States, and Judge John Robison is hereby appointed by a like vote, a commis-sioner to the State of South Carolina and the other States that have secreded, or shall secode, with instructions respectfully to request the President of the United States and the authorities of such States to agree to abstain, pending the proceedings contemplated by the action of this General Assembly, from any and all acts calculated to produce a collision of arms between the States and the government of the United States .-However strong may be my desire to enter into such an agreement, I am convinced that I do not possess the power. Congress, and Congress alone, under the war making power, can exercise the discretion of agreeg to abstain from any and all acts calculated to produce a collision of arms between this or any other government. It would therefore, he a ursurpation for the executive to attempt to restrain their hands by an agreement in regard to matters over which he has no constitutional control. If he were thus to act they might pass laws which he should be bound to obey, though in conflict with his agreement. Under existing circumstances, my present nctual power is confined within narrow limits. It is my daty at all times to defend and protect the public property within the seceding States, so far as this may be practicable, and especially to employ the constitutional means to protect the property of the United States, and to preserve the public peace at this the seat of the Federal government. If the seceding States abstain from any all acts calculated to produce a collision of arms, then the danger so much to be deprecated will no longer exist. Defence, and not aggression has been the policy of the Administration from the beginning -But whilst I can enter into no engagement such as that proposed, I cordially commend to Congress, with much confidence that it would it be just to say that those of the will meet their approbation, to abstain from other section should not do what is right to passing any law calculated to produce a coldisabnse their minds. In the course of his sedings con tenplated by the action of the General Assembly of Virginia, I am one of those who will never despair of the Republic. I yet cherish the belief that the American people will perpetuate the Union of the States on that Rheit had alleged that Mr. Hamlin was some terms just and honorable for all sections of the country. I trust that the mediation of Virginia may be the destined means under Providence of accomplishing this inestimable benefit. Glorious as are the memories of her past history, such an achievement, both in relation to her own fate and the welfare of the whole country, would surpass them all.

A MAN KILLED BY A LION AT ASTLEY'S THEATRE - A Thrilling Scene - On the 7th theater, in London, and owned by Mr. Crockett, escaped from their den. The London south?

Several men who were at work in the building were startled by the loud roaring of the lions, and in a few minutes they were horrorstruck at beholding one of the lions strugeling with a man named Jarvey, a yardper in the establishment. On the arrival as Mr. Crockett he rushed on the stage, where the lion was running about with the running away, he turned round, and seemed inclined to spring upon his master. Another powerful blow, however made the enraged snimal turn, and run away. Medical aid was immediately brought for poor Jarvey, but on the arrival of the surgeon, life was found to be extinct. After the body of Jarvey had of the lions, who were now roaming about the theatre. One was seen running at a remote corner of the stage, another was in the arena, and the other could not be seen.

On socing Mr. Crockett, the lioness made a 1000 pounds, and raising with the nit saless. dash through the pit saloon, whence she rushed up the box stair case and entered one was succeeded by Thompson, who commenced the private boxes, and took up a most ing with the last lift of the Dector, then went threatening attitude.

From the private box playing on the stage with a quantity of ribbons and stage properties, and, with compa-ratively little difficulty, it was placed again in the cage—and, after a few minutes search, the third was recaptured. At half past seven yesterday morning, the watchman of the theatre, who is on duty all night, left, at which hour, he sayr, all was perfectly quiet and safe. In consequence of the large lion being unwell, it had been parted from its companions, and, it is supposed, that in endeavoring to join it, one of the three lions in the other compartment of the care must have the other compartment of the cage must have broken down the partition and thus displaced the iron bars. The greatest excitement and consternation prevailed for some time in the theatre, and it required Mr. Cockett's utmost persuation to convince the attendants that no further danger need be apprehended.

SKETCH OF MR. ETHERIDGE'S REMARKS. Mr. Etheridge, of Tennessee, said if a jury of twelve honest men could be sworn to try the issue joined between the two contenden factions, and belonging to no political party. with no motive but to subserve the country, he could submit the case to them without argument, and have a unanimous verdict. But unfortunately a disinterested jury cannot be procured, and the people are silly enough to appeal to this tribunal for peace. There are two bundred and thirty-six members of the Honse but an accord number of as wise men House, but an equal number of as wise men can be found in any Congressional district in the country, and yet we are told that because this Congress, elected without reference to the present issues, will not instantly stay the tide of revolution, therefore there is no hope for a free people.

He proceeded to show the the madness and folly of subverting the government to secure any right without, that may not be enjoyed in the Union. The personal liberty bills are not without excuse, but it was due to the truth to express his belief that they would be soon swept from the statute books, and, if unconstitutional, they are already null and void. If constitutional, there is no right to complain. As to the fagitive slave law, from the commencement of the present century till now not one dozen slaves have been rescued from the State authorities. Why, Mr. Orr himself, of the kingdom of Carolina [laughter] said it was strong as anybody wished to make it, and would the Fugitive Slave law be any more stringent, and the people more willing to execute it out of than the Union? The northern people have always, and will ever be opposed to slavery, and you can make no man in the north a pro slavery man. The strongest slavery men in the south are Yankees, and they no sooner go south than they marry a negro. [Laughter.] He begged pardon, they marry a woman with negroes, and then they commence to talk about the rights of slaveholders. There was not a man iu this body who claims to be an abolitionist.

As an evidence of his disposition for peace he would submit eight years longer to the Administration of President Buchanan. to the Crittenden, or the Border States' Compromise, or the resolutions which he had himself sought to introduce here. He would go for the recommendation of the Select Committee of Thirty-three, before he would go out of the Union. Failing in this, he would meet the disunionists with a torch in one hand and sword in the other; and so long as the stars and stripes wave over Ten. nessee, he would never submit to disunion. Applance | He proceeded to show that very slave act of Congress which has excited public notice and discussion has been dictated by Southern statemen, or advocated by them In every instance where southern statesmen emanded concession and guarantees, the north has been yielding everything that was demanded, though it might be reluctantly.-He referred to the acquisition of Louisiana and Florida a few years ago. In 1819 before he lived even the clamor was so great that the Federal Government had to purchase that territory, because the penicsula must not be in the hands of a foreign power. I cost five millions originally, and fifty millions more were spent to suppress I hostilities and millions more to build fortifications guard our commerce. After all, Florida, with not half as many people therein as were in his district-which can't muster enough men to destroy her alligators—assume to separate from her sisters. She walks out of the Union not only with our fortifications and public That is not the worst. She leaves no prestige of the unity of the States. Why Florida cannot protect berself from alligators without the Federal government. [Laughter] Mr. Etheridge said it was known that the people of the South are like a tempest. They were insone, and in the language of Scripture he would answer them as he would a fool. New York and Middle Coal Field Rail "according to their folly." If the people of Road and Coal Company. one section are misled, in the name of Heaven remarks, he read an article from the Montgomery Mail, in which the editor says that the policy of the Republicans is to turn the negroes loose and compel them to intermarry with the poor whites, etc. Was it not true a mulatto? And did not Memminger an nounce on the Pine hills, to persons high and low degree, including "philosophers" and "short boys," that Mr. Hamlin was really a mulatto?

It is well known that throughout the South where the disunion sentiment predominates, there exists a reign of terror. conventions are in session in Charleston, Montgomery and elsewhere; while men are deliberating on the fate of an empire, the ORDERS FROM THE SOUTH,-The Boston Journal states that orders continue to be received in Lynn from prominent merchants of Charleston, S. C., and Augusta, Ga., for goods upon the old terms, six months' credit. Last week a prominent dealer received orders for shoes from a Charleston firm, who, like his brother merchante in Georgia, said not a word about secession, the dissolution of the Union and civil war. The manufacturer very naturally returned an answer to the effect that if the cash, or its equivalent in a respon-sible draft was sent, the goods would be ship-

NATIONATION OF THE MISSISSIPPL.-The New York Times says :- "There is great excite ment at the West consequent on the erec tion at Vicksburg, by the Governor of Mississippi, of batteries commanding the pas-sage of the Mississippi river at that point, with orders for the detention and examina-tion of all Northern vessels. This high handed proceeding is an outrage on Western rights which will arouse universal indignation up the river, and be likely to provoke a signal chastisement. The Western people regard the free navigation of the Mississippi as an indefeasible right bestowed on them by the hostile occupation by their own valor, and on lar and ice house under it, and other outbuildings their own responsibility. their own responsibility.

"If the South provokes a contest of this stream, by the frequent boiler explosions, make river steamboats a terror to underwriters. An army of Western pioneers, with a strong infusion of those dare-devils-and the Mississippi boatmen are themselves an army-would be, by all odds, the uglist customer the Southern rebels could deal with. And the upper valley of the Mississippi is as formidable by its numbers as by the character on its population. It could pour soldiers down the river like an inundation, which would sweep and lay waste all before it.
