N. E. Corner of 7th and Chestnut 32. Philadelphia THIS INSTITUTION, which was established in 1844, and is now consequently in the 18th year of its existence, numbers among its graduates, bun-dreds of the most successful Merchants and Business Men of our country. Men of our country.

The object of the Institution is solely to afford Common Secrets, coung men facilities for thorough preparation for Liquorice, young men facilities for thorough preparation for business.

The branches taught are, Book-Keeping, as applicable to the various departments of trade; Penmanship, both plain and ornamental; Commercial Law, Mathematics, Navigation, Civil Engineering, Drawing, Phonography, and Modern Languages.

The system of instruction is peculiar; no classes or cet lessons are made use of, but each student is taught individually, so that he may commence at any time, and attend whatever hours are most convenient.

Catalogues are issued annually after the 15th of April, containing names of the students for the year, and full particulars of terms, &c., and may be obtained at any time by addressing the Principal.

In extensive accommodations, wide-spread reputation, and the lengthy experience of the Principal, this Institution offers facilities superior to any other in the country, for young men wishing to prepare for business, and to obtain at the same time a diploma, which will prove a recommendation for them to any Mercantile House.

197 Crittenden's Series of Treatises on Book-Keeping, now more widely circulated than any other work on the subject, are for sale at the College.

THE NEW ORLEANS VICTORY. OFFICIAL DESPATCHES.

Despatch from Flag-Officer Farragut. UNITED STATES FLAG-SHIP HARTFORD,

At anchor off New Orleans, April 29, 1862. Sin: I am happy to amnounce to you that our flag waves over both Forts Jackson and St. Philip, and at New Orleans over the Custom House. I am taking every means to secure the occupation, by General Butler, of all the forts along the coast. Berwick's Statement of the Finances of Northumberland Bay and Fort Pike have been abandoned .-In fact, there is a general stampede, and I shall endeavor to follow it up. I am bringing up the troops as fast as possible.

We have destroyed all the forts above the city, four in number, which are understood to be all the impediments between this and Memphis.

I am, very respectfully, Your obedient servant, D. L. FARRAGUT, Flag Officer Western Gulf Block'g Squadron. To Hon. Gideon Welles, Secretary of Navy, Washington, D. C.

THE OFFICIAL ACCOUNT. Washington, May 9.—The Navy Department has received the following despatches: Reports from the Gunboat Cayuga.

UNITED STATES GUNBOAT CAYUGA, OFF NEW OBLEANS, April 25, 1862. FLAG-OFFICER :- Your boldly conceived $10 50 ing resulted in perfect success, leaves me 9 50 time to make up the report of my division.
56 00 You will find in Lieut. Commanding Harri11 00 son's report an accurate outline of the noble part taken by the Cayuga, under his command, and bearing my divisional flag. We led off at two A. M., in accordance with 70 00 your signal, and steamed directly up the 54 00 stream, edging a little to the starboard, in 52 00 order to give room for your division. I was
'11 50 followed by the Pensacola in fine style, the 27 50 remainder of my division following in reg-49 00 ular and compact order. We were scarcely above the boom when we were discovered, and Forts Jackson and St. Philip opened 24 50 upon us. We could bring no gun to bear, 42 00 but steered directly on. We were struck 69 50 from stem to stern. At length we were close up with Fort St. Philip, when we opened with grape and canister. Scarcely were we above the line of fire when we found ourselves attacked by the rebel flect of gunboats. This was hot, but more congenial work. Two large steamers now attempted to board our starboard bow, one on the stern and the other at our starboard beam. Militia. The nine-inch Dalhgress gun being turned on this fellow, we fired at a range of thirty yards. The effect was very destructive, and he immediately steered in shore and ran

19 42 aground and sunk. The Parrott gun on the forecastle drove off the one on the bow, while we prepared to repel the boarders, so while we prepared to repel the boarders, so close was our remaining enemy. About this time Boggs and Lea came dashing in a satisfied over to Fort Livingston, and when they anchored the fort made a finish of the rebel boats, eleven in all. In the gray of the morning we discoult the rebel flag flying.— Zymanskiz, and his command of five companies, arms and camp equipage. While engaged at this point we observed the engaged at this point we observed the Varana in conflict with a number of gunboats; she had been butted by one of them full of spirits. and sunk. But with his forward guns still above water, he was bravely maintaining the fight, driving off his enemies and saving his crew. Informing Capt. Lee, of the Oucida, who had also been engaged with the enemy, of the Varuna's situation, he instantly steamed up and made a finish of the rebel boats. The remainder of the fleet now came up. The Mississippi had been detained below with the Manassas and another iron-clad. After this everything passed under your observation. The pleasant duty now remains of speaking of the Cayuga, and her brave officers and crew. From first to last, Lieutenant Commanding M. B. Harrison displayed a masterly ability in steering his vessel past the forts, under a hurricane of shot and shell, and afterwards in manœuvring and fighting her among the gunboats. I cannot say too much for him. He was gallantly sustained by Lieutenant George W. Perkins and Acting Master Thomas H. Martin.— These officers have my unbounded admira-

I must, in conclusion, express the pleasure which I experienced in witnessing the seamanlike manner in which all the ships were handled. The reports of the divisional and Lieut, Higgins, together with the 238 42 captains will inform you of the particular part borne by each ship.

Despatch of Commodore Perfer-Infamous Conduct of the Rebel Navy. U. S. SHIP HARRIET LANE, April 29, 1862. Sin: The morning after the ships passed he forts, I sent a demand to Col. Higgins for a surrender of the forts, which was declined. On the 27th I sent Lieutenant Colonel Higgins a communication, herewith enclosed, sking again for the surrender. His answer is enclosed.

On the 28th, I received a communication from him, stating that he would surrender the forts, and I came up and took possession, drew up articles of capitulation, and hoisted the American flag over the forts. These men have defended the forts with a bravery worthy of a better cause. I treated them with all the consideration that circumstances would admit. The three steamers remaining were under the command of Commander J. K. Mitchell. The officers of the fort acknowledged no connection with them, and wished in no way to be considered responsible for their acts. While I had a flag of truce up they were employed in towing the iron floating battery of sixteen guns, a most formidable affair, to a place above the forts, and while drawing up the articles of capitulation, in the cabin of the Harriet Lane, it was reported to me that they had set fire to was reported to me that they had set fire to the battery, and turned it adrift upon us.

I asked the general if it had powder on board or guns loaded. He replied that he would not undertake to say what the navy officers would do. He seemed to have a great contempt for them. I told him we could stand the fire and blow up if he could, and went on with the conference, after directing the efficers to look out for their

When I had finished taking possession of the forts, I got under way in the Harriet Lane, and started for the steamers, one of which was still flying the Confederate flag I fired a shot over her, and they surrendered. There were on board of them a number of naval officers and two companies of marine artillery. I made them surrender uncondi tionally, and for their infamous conduct in trying to blow us up, while under a flag of truce, I conveyed them to close confinement as prisoners of war, and think they should be sent to the North, and kept in close con-finement there until the war is over, or they should be tried for their infamous conduct. I have a great deal to do here, and will send you all the papers when I am able to arrange

I turned over the forts to General Phelps. Fort Jackson is a ruin. I sm told that over eighteen hundred shells fell in and burst over the course of the fort. The practice was beautiful. The next work we go at we will settle sooner, as this has been hard to get at. The naval officers sunk one gun boat while the capitulation was going on, but I have one of the other steamers at work, and hope soon to have the other. I find that we are to be the hewers of wood and drawers of water; but as the soldiers have nothing here in the shape of motive power, we will do all we can. I should have de-manded an unconditional surrender, but with such a force in your rear it was desiraand splendidly executed plan of battle hav- ble to get possession of these forts as soon as possible The officers turned over everything in good order, except the walls and buildings, which are terribly shattered by the mortars. Very respectfully, D. D. PORTER, Commanding.

To Flag Officer D. G. Farragut. U. S. STEAMER HARRIET LANE, Mississippi River, April 29, 1862. Sin: I enclose herewith their capitulation of Forts Jackson and St. Philip, which surrendered to the mortar flotilia on the 28th day of April, 1862. I also enclose in a box I forwarded on this occasion, all the flags taken in the two forts, with the origi-nal flag hoisted on Fort St. Philip when the State of Louisiana seceded. Fort Jackson is a perfect wreck. Everything in the shape of a building in and about was burned up by the mortar shells, and over eighteen hundred shells fell in the work. It is proper to say nothing of those which burst over and around. I devoted but little attention to Fort St. Philip, know ing that when Fort Jackson fell, Tort St.

Philip would follow. The mortar flotilla is still fresh.
Truly, the backbone of the rebellion is On the 26th of the month I sent six of the mortar schooners to the back of Fort Jack-son to block up the bayous and prevent

To Hon, Gideon Welles, Articles of Capitulation. U. S. SHIP HARRIET LANE, FORTS JACKSON AND ST. PHILIP, Mississippi River, April 28, 1862.

By the articles of capitulation entered into on this, the 28th day of April 1862, between David D. Porter, Commander United States Navy, commanding the United States Mortar Flotilla, of the one part, and Brig. Gen. J. R. Duncan, commanding the coast defences, and Lieutenant Colonel Edward Higgins, commanding Forts Jackson and St. Philip of the other part, it is mutually agreed: First. That Brig. Gen. Duncan and Lieut. Col. Higgins shall surrender to the mortar flotilla Forts Jackson and St. Philip, the all the property that may be under their charge. Second. That Brigadier-General Duncan officers under their command, shall be per-mitted to retain their side arms, and that all their private property shall be respected.— Furthermore, that they shall give their parole of honor not to srrve in arms against the Government of the United States, until arms, munitions of war, and all the appur-tenancees thereunto belonging, together with regularly exchanged. Third. It is furthermore agreed, by Commander David D. Porter, commanding the morear flotilla, on the part of the United States Government, that the non-commissioned officers, privates, and musicians shall be permitted to retire on parole; their com-manding and other officers becoming respon-cible for them, and that they shall deliver up their arms and accoutrements in their present condition; provided, that the expen ses of the transportation of the men shall be defrayed by the United States. Fourth, On the signing of these articles by the contracting parties, the forts shall be formally taken possession of by the United States naval forces comprising the water fleet. The Confederate flag shall be lowered, and the flag of the United States hoisted on the flagstaffs of forts Jackson and St. Philip. In agreement of the above, we, the under signed, do herewith set our hands and seals.
