DEATH-HIS LAST WORDS.

DEATH-HIS LAST WORDS. WASHINGTON, Sept. 5, 1862.—The same hour that General Stevens was killed in battle, a number of prominent gentlemen, filling influential positions, were in consul-tation in this city and in other parts of the country, with a view of having him assigned to the command of the Army of Virginia. Successive manifestations of incapacity du-ring a year of war have caused thinking men to cast about for a leader. These mentionen had fixed upon General Istac I. The hor cast about for a peace. These gentlemen had fixed upon General Isaac I. Spendid conduct in the battles of Friday and Saturday had just directed attention to him; it was remembered that in pure capacity he had always been first, having taken the honors at West Point with scarcely an effort, and To AN APPRENTICE WANTED, - A boy resolved to ask that he be given a leading

The rioters in this case were arrested and punished. The exercise of mob authority was opposed by good citizens and was speedily reproved. At the same time the feeling was very general that the authority of government should be exercised to control-and if needful to suppress those public prints, and the number was very few, which thus penly aided the rebellion. In a few instances of the most aggravated character, not exceeding ten, the government did interhere for the suppression of such papers; and singularly enough in five instances, these were professedly religious periodicals. The papers thus suppressed were the Christian Observer, of Philadelphia, which was principully owned in Richmond, Va.; the Chris-tian Advisedte, of St. Louis; the True Pres-Interiora, and the Western Recorder, of Louisville-which were suffered to go on again after a short period on promise of better behavior, a promise which they violated ere long, and were again suppressed the War Bulletin, Minourius and Econing News, of St. Louis: the True American of Trenton, N.
