

EDITORIAL CORRESPONDENCE.

INTERNATIONAL HOTEL, New York, October 21, 1862.

The most exciting topic here at present, in the absence of any great movements in the army, is the approaching election in this State. The Union candidate for Governor, Gen. Wadsworth, is a gentleman of high character and standing, who formerly acted with a branch of the Democratic party in this State. His opponent is Ex-Governor Horatio Seymour, a Beckwithite Democrat, also a man of ability, but an unscrupulous and timeserving politician. Gen. Wadsworth's election is claimed by his friends by not less than 50,000. Ex-Mayor Fernando Wood is a candidate for Congress in this city, and may be elected. Ben. Wood, his brother, of lottery notoriety and other swindling operations, is also a candidate in this city for that office, to the great annoyance of the Ex-Mayor. They are both rebel sympathizers with secession. Fernando, who is as talented as he is unscrupulous, openly advised the secession of New York from the Union, when the Cotton States went out. Ben, who acted with Vallandigham and other traitors in Congress, has neither talent, character or honesty, to recommend him, but he has amassed great wealth by his lottery speculations, and paid $40,000 for his election, two years ago, and will do so again. I have heard citizens of New York, Democrats, complain of this degrading humiliation brought upon them by political hacks, who control the masses. They could tolerate Fernando, who is an able man, but Ben has not one single redeeming quality. But such is the patriotism of men, not only in New York, but elsewhere, who sink not only patriotism, but self respect, and vote for men devoid of talent or integrity, on party grounds.

A few days since, through the kindness of one of the builders, I paid a visit to several of the iron clad vessels, now in process of construction in this port. The "Kookuk," at the foot of 10th street, is an iron vessel shaped something like a whale at the bow, and has two turrets, but, unlike the Monitor, they do not revolve. The timbers are first covered with iron plates, nearly an inch thick. On this is placed iron bars, one inch in thickness and five inches wide, set on the edge, and then another covering of iron plates, weighing probably three or four tons each. But our mechanics at Philadelphia have succeeded in doing so. These plates, covered with coal tar, are put on with heavy bolts of galvanized iron, two inches thick, and perhaps thirty inches long. I then crossed over to Green Point, where the "Passaic" and the "Monitor," two iron-clad vessels, similar to the "Monitor," are nearly completed, under the direction of Captain Ericsson. The "Passaic" will be completed and ready for her guns in a few days. She has a revolving turret, with two port holes like the Monitor, excepting that the turret of the latter is formed of twelve layers of inch iron plates, instead of eight, making a solid wall of iron one foot thick.

The Pennsylvania Election.

The following is a corrected copy of the reported and official majorities received up to Wednesday night last:

REPORTED AND OFFICIAL MAJORITIES FOR GOVERNOR.

Table with 3 columns: Name, Reported Majority, Official Majority. Includes Allegheny, Beaver, Blair, Bradford, Chester, Crawford, Dauphin, Delaware, Erie, Indiana, etc.

REPORTED AND OFFICIAL MAJORITIES FOR SENATOR.

Table with 3 columns: Name, Reported Majority, Official Majority. Includes Adams, Bedford, Berks, Bucks, Carbon, Columbia, Clarion, Clearfield, Clinton, Cumberland, Fayette, Franklin, Fulton, etc.

The official returns come in so slowly, and the vote is so close, that we cannot with any degree of accuracy make known the final result.

The official vote for Auditor General in the counties already heard from compares as follows with the vote for Governor in 1860:

Table with 3 columns: Name, 1860, Auditor Gen'l. Includes Governor 1860, Auditor Gen'l, Curtin's maj., Democratic gain, etc.

The remaining counties voted in 1860 as follows:

Table with 3 columns: Name, 1860, Auditor Gen'l. Includes Curtin's maj., Democratic gain, etc.

THE DEPREDEATIONS OF THE ALABAMA.

Statements of Captains of Vessels Destroyed by the Pirate.

(From the N. Y. Post.)

We have received interesting statements from the captains of the whole ships Virginia and Elisha Dunbar, of New Bedford, two of the ten vessels which were recently destroyed at sea by the rebel privateer Alabama (299). These accounts confirm former reports of the wanton destruction of shipping by Semmes, the commander of the pirate, and shows that his ship is in the direct track of our vessels, and is likely to prove a dangerous craft if not summarily captured.

Captain Tilton, of the Virginia, says that he was overhauled by the Alabama on the morning of the 17th of September, in latitude 32 deg. 10 min. and longitude 34 deg. 20 min. The Pirate showed British colors, and when a quarter of a mile from the Virginia he fired a shot which disabled our armed boat crew aboard. Captain Tilton was informed that he was a prize to the Alabama, and was ordered to take his papers and go on board that steamer. The pirates then stripped the ship of all the valuable articles on board, and at 4 P. M. set fire to the vessel, and left her burning and drifting on board the steamer I asked the captain to release me, as I was doing no one any harm. His answer was: "You Northerners are destroying our property, and New Bedford people are leaving their war meetings, offering $200 bounty for volunteers, and Assistant Surgeon General, Capt. C. J. Bruner and Capt. J. B. Roney. A large crowd had gathered at the depot to witness their departure, to give them "good-bye," and to bid them "God-speed." The men mounted the cars and left in cheerful spirits. We publish in another part of this paper the names of those drafted in this county. In looking over the list we recognize many old acquaintances in high positions, whose services cannot be spared without serious loss to the country. Some of these men who have large families, who will be deprived of support and protection. In such cases we trust the charities of the people and the merits of the Government will both be extended. At no time in the history of this country have the people been called upon to make such sacrifices as are in the present, and while but a few men have a fancy for being drafted, it behooves all to yield cheerfully if they would show a disposition to defend their country, and to do their duty in a time of need. It is unreasonable that we should expect always to live happy in a country under whose laws we have been prepared and protected, without holding ourselves in readiness to protect and vindicate it in return. To do otherwise would be base ingratitude and unworthy of an American either by birth or adoption.
