

SLANDERING SOLDIERS.

Our neighbor of the Breckinridge Democrat, has made the remarkable discovery that our soldiers have been awfully slandered, and volunteers his services to stand by them on their return home, although he failed most signally to stand either by them or with them, in their absence.

From North Carolina. RE-ENLISTMENTS—GEN. FOSTER'S ARMY. NEWBURN, N. C. May 29. On the 27th inst., Major-General Foster visited the camps of the nine months' men...

The desire of that portion of the 18th Army Corps, now in South Carolina, to return here under their old chief, where they can have active service, is arousing the sympathy of the whole Department in their behalf.

U. S. STRAIGHT FORWARD. FIGHTING ON THE 27th. DEAR FATHER: You will see by the above that this quiet fighting vessel, the flag-ship of Admiral Farragut, is still afloat, notwithstanding the numerous Rebel reports of her destruction and capture.

THE BOMBARDMENT OF VICKS BURG.

Around the Rebel Works.

NEAR VICKSBURG, May 29, 1863.—This is the fourth day the army of General Grant has laid around the intrenchments of Vicksburg. Within that time there have been daily battles and continual cannonade.

It was rumored yesterday that this morning Gen. Grant would order a charge simultaneously along the entire line of works.

Before we approached the city the General Commanding ordered all the women and children for miles around Vicksburg to come within the intrenchments, assuring them that in that way they would be safe.

PORT MORGAN CAPTURED.

NEW YORK, June 2. The steamer Creole, from New Orleans, with dates to the 25th ult., arrived this morning.

A dispatch in the Era of the 29th ult., dated Fort Hudson, 24th inst., states that General Augustus S. Johnston's division was engaged in a nine hours fight on Port Hudson.

The Rebels were thoroughly whipped. A report from Mobile, Ala., dated the 27th inst., says that a large force of the rebels were reported to have been engaged in a battle near that city.

Port Morgan, on the coast of Louisiana, was captured by the Union forces. The rebels were driven from their position after a fierce battle.

INTERESTING INDIAN NEWS.

We learn that official information has been received of the arrival at Fort Abercrombie, on the 19th ult., of Joseph Demeris, a son of the interpreter now at that post.

Standing Buffalo has gone on a mission to General Dallas, to see if he would allow him to come under his protection, as he don't want to be engaged against the whites and is fearful that he may be made to suffer with the rest.

Mr. Demeris reports that Little Crow had been engaged in a fight with Rees, and was defeated—they refused to join him. He had eight killed and several wounded.

Mr. Demeris also reports that Rattling Muskrat, with about fifty lodges, or seventy warriors, is encamped on the Shayenne river near Dog's Hill, about seventy miles from Abercrombie, but that he is soon going to join the rest at Devil's Lake.
