He had come from England or a buffalo hunt in the Northwest, and took a nominal position upon General Sibby's staff to gratify his taste of adventure. Letter from the Sunbury Guards. KEY WEST, Fla., August 23, 1863.

DRAR WILVERT: Thanksgiving, or the day set apart by the President for prayer and to return thanks to Him who has the control of battles, was properly observed by the Army and Navy at this place. The proclamation of the President was read from the pulpits of the different churches on the Sunday evening previous, and invitation extended to all who wished to participate in the services on that occasion. General Woodbury issue, a circular requesting all of his command to observe the day in a becoming manner and to attend Divine service at their usual places of worship.— He ordered that all drills and policeing were at liberty to spend the day as their feelings best dictated. The invitation of the Clergy was accepted, and the Military, by companies attended church. Company C, headed by Captain Gobin and Lieutenant Oyster, marched to the Episcopal church, where an eloquent discourse was delivered by the Rev. Dr. Herrick, but owing to the great crowd many were compelled to retire, thus losing an intellectual treat that would have benefitted them more than the mere end gentleman of this church has been very kind to our regiment in reserving seats for their accommodation. A steam tug followed the party, having on board ladies, the committee and guests, who had a jolly time of it, and an opportunity of tripping the "light, fantastic "to the fine music of the 47th Band, lead by that excellent musician, Prof. Bush, Ounrtermaster Lock's schooner "Nonpariel" won the race, out distancing all its competitors. Of that fact I was certain, for how else could it be, when its name belongs to the "art, preservative of all arts"-printing.

Last Wednesday brought two-thirds of the "three years" of the "Sunbury Guards" to a close, when Lieut. Rees surprised the boys, agreeably, by giving them an enter-tainment. This little celebration had a good effect, for if there was any misunderstanding, previously, it is now settled, and no better conducted or well regulated family, where good feeling are exhibited, can be found among the soldiers of Uncle Sam. Our company is slightly envied on account of their good grab, but for this the boys should not be blamed, for Gobin, who has charge of the company savings, is continually hunting the market for the best it do their own cooking, washing, &c., and I affords, and Sergeant Piers and Johnny would not be surprised if all the negroes | Voonsch serve it up in their best style, provwere to leave their masters in this part of ing to others that soldiers can, if they good
