

Gen. JOHN W. GEARY, Of Cumberland County.

FOR CONGRESS.

JOHN B. PACKER, Esq., of Sunbury. (Subject to decision of Conference Convention.)

FOR SHERIFF.

SAMUEL H. ROTHEMEL, of Berks. FOR PROTHONOTARY.

CHARLES J. BRUNER, of Sunbury.

AWAKE, FREEMEN!

ASSEMBLE IN YOUR MIGHT IN MASS MEETING,

AT SUNBURY,

ON FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 8, 1866.

Maj. Gen. J. W. GEARY.

our next Governor, will positively attend this meeting.

Governor A. G. CURTIN.

Gov. HAMILTON, of Texas.

Hon. SIMON CAMERON.

Col. JOS. FISHER.

and other eminent speakers from abroad have been invited to be present and address the meeting.

The friends of the Union, in Northumberland and adjoining Counties, are invited to attend and hear the Champions of the Right on the real issues of the day.

"THE BOYS IN BLUE."

are cordially invited to come in mass. They will receive a cordial welcome.

Notice is hereby given to the various Boroughs and Townships, to organize Clubs and attend by delegations, to join and participate in the parade on that day.

Bands of Music will be in attendance.

Masses or Leaders of delegations, from the several counties or districts, are required to report by mail, to the undersigned, not later than September 25th, 1866, the probable number who will attend.

E. WILVERT, Chairman, Ex. Com. of North D. Co.

Col. W. M'CLURE, Pres. Club of Boys in Blue, Sunbury, Sept. 6, 1866.

EDITORIAL CORRESPONDENCE.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 5, 1866.

Philadelphia has frequently been the focus of large political gatherings, but never before have so many people assembled in this city, for political or any other purpose.

What is also a matter of great moment, is the fact that the delegates assembled here, are among the best and more distinguished men in the nation, morally and politically.

Many of them are officers who distinguished themselves during the war. This applies particularly to the delegates from the Southern States. On Monday evening, after the great procession, at least five times as large as the so-called democratic procession on the 14th of August, large crowds were assembled before the Union League Building and other places, but a heavy fall of rain soon dispersed the assemblage.

Last night, however, they mustered in full force. The meeting in front of the Union League House, witnessed from the balcony above that of the speakers, with the thousands of jets of gas, which threw a broad glare over the multitude in the street, was one of the grandest sights of the kind I ever beheld.

Frequent calls having been made for Gov. Brownlow, of Tennessee, he came forward and said:

"Gentlemen, I am not physically able to make a speech, and if I were, I could not consent to do so to-night at the Congress occasion. I must uphold and maintain the dignity of the office of Governor of Tennessee. As such, I cannot go abroad stirring and making political speeches. (Cheers and laughter.) It will do for a man who is accidental President of the United States (Cheers), but not for the great State of Tennessee must not do anything of that sort. I have at my back the Hon. A. J. Fletcher, Secretary of the State of Tennessee; he lives in the town of Greenville, where Andy Johnson lived, and is better prepared to dissect him than any man I ever heard of. If you folks, which he never does, I have Judge Bell, also of Greenville, who can tell you of something of Mr. Johnson; and after this Convention is over, I propose, with the Tennessee delegates, to go stamping the North, after the President. (Cheers.)"

Mr. Fletcher was then introduced. He said that for the first time in his life he visited the North, and he declared that the tried Union men of Tennessee were heart and hand with the great Union party of the North; and he returned thanks to the great army of the North for a deliverance from a tyranny exceeding that ever before witnessed in the world. The Union men of Tennessee, and they look to the North for protection. (Cheers.) He should speak of Tennessee loyalty, and narrate only those things he had seen with his own eyes.

He said that for the first time in his life he visited the North, and he declared that the tried Union men of Tennessee were heart and hand with the great Union party of the North; and he returned thanks to the great army of the North for a deliverance from a tyranny exceeding that ever before witnessed in the world. The Union men of Tennessee, and they look to the North for protection. (Cheers.) He should speak of Tennessee loyalty, and narrate only those things he had seen with his own eyes.

He said that for the first time in his life he visited the North, and he declared that the tried Union men of Tennessee were heart and hand with the great Union party of the North; and he returned thanks to the great army of the North for a deliverance from a tyranny exceeding that ever before witnessed in the world. The Union men of Tennessee, and they look to the North for protection. (Cheers.) He should speak of Tennessee loyalty, and narrate only those things he had seen with his own eyes.

He said that for the first time in his life he visited the North, and he declared that the tried Union men of Tennessee were heart and hand with the great Union party of the North; and he returned thanks to the great army of the North for a deliverance from a tyranny exceeding that ever before witnessed in the world. The Union men of Tennessee, and they look to the North for protection. (Cheers.) He should speak of Tennessee loyalty, and narrate only those things he had seen with his own eyes.

He said that for the first time in his life he visited the North, and he declared that the tried Union men of Tennessee were heart and hand with the great Union party of the North; and he returned thanks to the great army of the North for a deliverance from a tyranny exceeding that ever before witnessed in the world. The Union men of Tennessee, and they look to the North for protection. (Cheers.) He should speak of Tennessee loyalty, and narrate only those things he had seen with his own eyes.

He said that for the first time in his life he visited the North, and he declared that the tried Union men of Tennessee were heart and hand with the great Union party of the North; and he returned thanks to the great army of the North for a deliverance from a tyranny exceeding that ever before witnessed in the world. The Union men of Tennessee, and they look to the North for protection. (Cheers.) He should speak of Tennessee loyalty, and narrate only those things he had seen with his own eyes.

He said that for the first time in his life he visited the North, and he declared that the tried Union men of Tennessee were heart and hand with the great Union party of the North; and he returned thanks to the great army of the North for a deliverance from a tyranny exceeding that ever before witnessed in the world. The Union men of Tennessee, and they look to the North for protection. (Cheers.) He should speak of Tennessee loyalty, and narrate only those things he had seen with his own eyes.

He said that for the first time in his life he visited the North, and he declared that the tried Union men of Tennessee were heart and hand with the great Union party of the North; and he returned thanks to the great army of the North for a deliverance from a tyranny exceeding that ever before witnessed in the world. The Union men of Tennessee, and they look to the North for protection. (Cheers.) He should speak of Tennessee loyalty, and narrate only those things he had seen with his own eyes.

He said that for the first time in his life he visited the North, and he declared that the tried Union men of Tennessee were heart and hand with the great Union party of the North; and he returned thanks to the great army of the North for a deliverance from a tyranny exceeding that ever before witnessed in the world. The Union men of Tennessee, and they look to the North for protection. (Cheers.) He should speak of Tennessee loyalty, and narrate only those things he had seen with his own eyes.

He said that for the first time in his life he visited the North, and he declared that the tried Union men of Tennessee were heart and hand with the great Union party of the North; and he returned thanks to the great army of the North for a deliverance from a tyranny exceeding that ever before witnessed in the world. The Union men of Tennessee, and they look to the North for protection. (Cheers.) He should speak of Tennessee loyalty, and narrate only those things he had seen with his own eyes.

He said that for the first time in his life he visited the North, and he declared that the tried Union men of Tennessee were heart and hand with the great Union party of the North; and he returned thanks to the great army of the North for a deliverance from a tyranny exceeding that ever before witnessed in the world. The Union men of Tennessee, and they look to the North for protection. (Cheers.) He should speak of Tennessee loyalty, and narrate only those things he had seen with his own eyes.

He said that for the first time in his life he visited the North, and he declared that the tried Union men of Tennessee were heart and hand with the great Union party of the North; and he returned thanks to the great army of the North for a deliverance from a tyranny exceeding that ever before witnessed in the world. The Union men of Tennessee, and they look to the North for protection. (Cheers.) He should speak of Tennessee loyalty, and narrate only those things he had seen with his own eyes.

He said that for the first time in his life he visited the North, and he declared that the tried Union men of Tennessee were heart and hand with the great Union party of the North; and he returned thanks to the great army of the North for a deliverance from a tyranny exceeding that ever before witnessed in the world. The Union men of Tennessee, and they look to the North for protection. (Cheers.) He should speak of Tennessee loyalty, and narrate only those things he had seen with his own eyes.

He said that for the first time in his life he visited the North, and he declared that the tried Union men of Tennessee were heart and hand with the great Union party of the North; and he returned thanks to the great army of the North for a deliverance from a tyranny exceeding that ever before witnessed in the world. The Union men of Tennessee, and they look to the North for protection. (Cheers.) He should speak of Tennessee loyalty, and narrate only those things he had seen with his own eyes.

He said that for the first time in his life he visited the North, and he declared that the tried Union men of Tennessee were heart and hand with the great Union party of the North; and he returned thanks to the great army of the North for a deliverance from a tyranny exceeding that ever before witnessed in the world. The Union men of Tennessee, and they look to the North for protection. (Cheers.) He should speak of Tennessee loyalty, and narrate only those things he had seen with his own eyes.

He said that for the first time in his life he visited the North, and he declared that the tried Union men of Tennessee were heart and hand with the great Union party of the North; and he returned thanks to the great army of the North for a deliverance from a tyranny exceeding that ever before witnessed in the world. The Union men of Tennessee, and they look to the North for protection. (Cheers.) He should speak of Tennessee loyalty, and narrate only those things he had seen with his own eyes.

He said that for the first time in his life he visited the North, and he declared that the tried Union men of Tennessee were heart and hand with the great Union party of the North; and he returned thanks to the great army of the North for a deliverance from a tyranny exceeding that ever before witnessed in the world. The Union men of Tennessee, and they look to the North for protection. (Cheers.) He should speak of Tennessee loyalty, and narrate only those things he had seen with his own eyes.

He said that for the first time in his life he visited the North, and he declared that the tried Union men of Tennessee were heart and hand with the great Union party of the North; and he returned thanks to the great army of the North for a deliverance from a tyranny exceeding that ever before witnessed in the world. The Union men of Tennessee, and they look to the North for protection. (Cheers.) He should speak of Tennessee loyalty, and narrate only those things he had seen with his own eyes.

He said that for the first time in his life he visited the North, and he declared that the tried Union men of Tennessee were heart and hand with the great Union party of the North; and he returned thanks to the great army of the North for a deliverance from a tyranny exceeding that ever before witnessed in the world. The Union men of Tennessee, and they look to the North for protection. (Cheers.) He should speak of Tennessee loyalty, and narrate only those things he had seen with his own eyes.

He said that for the first time in his life he visited the North, and he declared that the tried Union men of Tennessee were heart and hand with the great Union party of the North; and he returned thanks to the great army of the North for a deliverance from a tyranny exceeding that ever before witnessed in the world. The Union men of Tennessee, and they look to the North for protection. (Cheers.) He should speak of Tennessee loyalty, and narrate only those things he had seen with his own eyes.

He said that for the first time in his life he visited the North, and he declared that the tried Union men of Tennessee were heart and hand with the great Union party of the North; and he returned thanks to the great army of the North for a deliverance from a tyranny exceeding that ever before witnessed in the world. The Union men of Tennessee, and they look to the North for protection. (Cheers.) He should speak of Tennessee loyalty, and narrate only those things he had seen with his own eyes.

He said that for the first time in his life he visited the North, and he declared that the tried Union men of Tennessee were heart and hand with the great Union party of the North; and he returned thanks to the great army of the North for a deliverance from a tyranny exceeding that ever before witnessed in the world. The Union men of Tennessee, and they look to the North for protection. (Cheers.) He should speak of Tennessee loyalty, and narrate only those things he had seen with his own eyes.

He said that for the first time in his life he visited the North, and he declared that the tried Union men of Tennessee were heart and hand with the great Union party of the North; and he returned thanks to the great army of the North for a deliverance from a tyranny exceeding that ever before witnessed in the world. The Union men of Tennessee, and they look to the North for protection. (Cheers.) He should speak of Tennessee loyalty, and narrate only those things he had seen with his own eyes.

He said that for the first time in his life he visited the North, and he declared that the tried Union men of Tennessee were heart and hand with the great Union party of the North; and he returned thanks to the great army of the North for a deliverance from a tyranny exceeding that ever before witnessed in the world. The Union men of Tennessee, and they look to the North for protection. (Cheers.) He should speak of Tennessee loyalty, and narrate only those things he had seen with his own eyes.

He said that for the first time in his life he visited the North, and he declared that the tried Union men of Tennessee were heart and hand with the great Union party of the North; and he returned thanks to the great army of the North for a deliverance from a tyranny exceeding that ever before witnessed in the world. The Union men of Tennessee, and they look to the North for protection. (Cheers.) He should speak of Tennessee loyalty, and narrate only those things he had seen with his own eyes.

He said that for the first time in his life he visited the North, and he declared that the tried Union men of Tennessee were heart and hand with the great Union party of the North; and he returned thanks to the great army of the North for a deliverance from a tyranny exceeding that ever before witnessed in the world. The Union men of Tennessee, and they look to the North for protection. (Cheers.) He should speak of Tennessee loyalty, and narrate only those things he had seen with his own eyes.

He said that for the first time in his life he visited the North, and he declared that the tried Union men of Tennessee were heart and hand with the great Union party of the North; and he returned thanks to the great army of the North for a deliverance from a tyranny exceeding that ever before witnessed in the world. The Union men of Tennessee, and they look to the North for protection. (Cheers.) He should speak of Tennessee loyalty, and narrate only those things he had seen with his own eyes.

He said that for the first time in his life he visited the North, and he declared that the tried Union men of Tennessee were heart and hand with the great Union party of the North; and he returned thanks to the great army of the North for a deliverance from a tyranny exceeding that ever before witnessed in the world. The Union men of Tennessee, and they look to the North for protection. (Cheers.) He should speak of Tennessee loyalty, and narrate only those things he had seen with his own eyes.

He said that for the first time in his life he visited the North, and he declared that the tried Union men of Tennessee were heart and hand with the great Union party of the North; and he returned thanks to the great army of the North for a deliverance from a tyranny exceeding that ever before witnessed in the world. The Union men of Tennessee, and they look to the North for protection. (Cheers.) He should speak of Tennessee loyalty, and narrate only those things he had seen with his own eyes.

He said that for the first time in his life he visited the North, and he declared that the tried Union men of Tennessee were heart and hand with the great Union party of the North; and he returned thanks to the great army of the North for a deliverance from a tyranny exceeding that ever before witnessed in the world. The Union men of Tennessee, and they look to the North for protection. (Cheers.) He should speak of Tennessee loyalty, and narrate only those things he had seen with his own eyes.

He said that for the first time in his life he visited the North, and he declared that the tried Union men of Tennessee were heart and hand with the great Union party of the North; and he returned thanks to the great army of the North for a deliverance from a tyranny exceeding that ever before witnessed in the world. The Union men of Tennessee, and they look to the North for protection. (Cheers.) He should speak of Tennessee loyalty, and narrate only those things he had seen with his own eyes.

He said that for the first time in his life he visited the North, and he declared that the tried Union men of Tennessee were heart and hand with the great Union party of the North; and he returned thanks to the great army of the North for a deliverance from a tyranny exceeding that ever before witnessed in the world. The Union men of Tennessee, and they look to the North for protection. (Cheers.) He should speak of Tennessee loyalty, and narrate only those things he had seen with his own eyes.

He said that for the first time in his life he visited the North, and he declared that the tried Union men of Tennessee were heart and hand with the great Union party of the North; and he returned thanks to the great army of the North for a deliverance from a tyranny exceeding that ever before witnessed in the world. The Union men of Tennessee, and they look to the North for protection. (Cheers.) He should speak of Tennessee loyalty, and narrate only those things he had seen with his own eyes.

He said that for the first time in his life he visited the North, and he declared that the tried Union men of Tennessee were heart and hand with the great Union party of the North; and he returned thanks to the great army of the North for a deliverance from a tyranny exceeding that ever before witnessed in the world. The Union men of Tennessee, and they look to the North for protection. (Cheers.) He should speak of Tennessee loyalty, and narrate only those things he had seen with his own eyes.

He said that for the first time in his life he visited the North, and he declared that the tried Union men of Tennessee were heart and hand with the great Union party of the North; and he returned thanks to the great army of the North for a deliverance from a tyranny exceeding that ever before witnessed in the world. The Union men of Tennessee, and they look to the North for protection. (Cheers.) He should speak of Tennessee loyalty, and narrate only those things he had seen with his own eyes.

He said that for the first time in his life he visited the North, and he declared that the tried Union men of Tennessee were heart and hand with the great Union party of the North; and he returned thanks to the great army of the North for a deliverance from a tyranny exceeding that ever before witnessed in the world. The Union men of Tennessee, and they look to the North for protection. (Cheers.) He should speak of Tennessee loyalty, and narrate only those things he had seen with his own eyes.

He said that for the first time in his life he visited the North, and he declared that the tried Union men of Tennessee were heart and hand with the great Union party of the North; and he returned thanks to the great army of the North for a deliverance from a tyranny exceeding that ever before witnessed in the world. The Union men of Tennessee, and they look to the North for protection. (Cheers.) He should speak of Tennessee loyalty, and narrate only those things he had seen with his own eyes.

He said that for the first time in his life he visited the North, and he declared that the tried Union men of Tennessee were heart and hand with the great Union party of the North; and he returned thanks to the great army of the North for a deliverance from a tyranny exceeding that ever before witnessed in the world. The Union men of Tennessee, and they look to the North for protection. (Cheers.) He should speak of Tennessee loyalty, and narrate only those things he had seen with his own eyes.

He said that for the first time in his life he visited the North, and he declared that the tried Union men of Tennessee were heart and hand with the great Union party of the North; and he returned thanks to the great army of the North for a deliverance from a tyranny exceeding that ever before witnessed in the world. The Union men of Tennessee, and they look to the North for protection. (Cheers.) He should speak of Tennessee loyalty, and narrate only those things he had seen with his own eyes.

He said that for the first time in his life he visited the North, and he declared that the tried Union men of Tennessee were heart and hand with the great Union party of the North; and he returned thanks to the great army of the North for a deliverance from a tyranny exceeding that ever before witnessed in the world. The Union men of Tennessee, and they look to the North for protection. (Cheers.) He should speak of Tennessee loyalty, and narrate only those things he had seen with his own eyes.

He said that for the first time in his life he visited the North, and he declared that the tried Union men of Tennessee were heart and hand with the great Union party of the North; and he returned thanks to the great army of the North for a deliverance from a tyranny exceeding that ever before witnessed in the world. The Union men of Tennessee, and they look to the North for protection. (Cheers.) He should speak of Tennessee loyalty, and narrate only those things he had seen with his own eyes.

He said that for the first time in his life he visited the North, and he declared that the tried Union men of Tennessee were heart and hand with the great Union party of the North; and he returned thanks to the great army of the North for a deliverance from a tyranny exceeding that ever before witnessed in the world. The Union men of Tennessee, and they look to the North for protection. (Cheers.) He should speak of Tennessee loyalty, and narrate only those things he had seen with his own eyes.

He said that for the first time in his life he visited the North, and he declared that the tried Union men of Tennessee were heart and hand with the great Union party of the North; and he returned thanks to the great army of the North for a deliverance from a tyranny exceeding that ever before witnessed in the world. The Union men of Tennessee, and they look to the North for protection. (Cheers.) He should speak of Tennessee loyalty, and narrate only those things he had seen with his own eyes.

He said that for the first time in his life he visited the North, and he declared that the tried Union men of Tennessee were heart and hand with the great Union party of the North; and he returned thanks to the great army of the North for a deliverance from a tyranny exceeding that ever before witnessed in the world. The Union men of Tennessee, and they look to the North for protection. (Cheers.) He should speak of Tennessee loyalty, and narrate only those things he had seen with his own eyes.

He said that for the first time in his life he visited the North, and he declared that the tried Union men of Tennessee were heart and hand with the great Union party of the North; and he returned thanks to the great army of the North for a deliverance from a tyranny exceeding that ever before witnessed in the world. The Union men of Tennessee, and they look to the North for protection. (Cheers.) He should speak of Tennessee loyalty, and narrate only those things he had seen with his own eyes.

He said that for the first time in his life he visited the North, and he declared that the tried Union men of Tennessee were heart and hand with the great Union party of the North; and he returned thanks to the great army of the North for a deliverance from a tyranny exceeding that ever before witnessed in the world. The Union men of Tennessee, and they look to the North for protection. (Cheers.) He should speak of Tennessee loyalty, and narrate only those things he had seen with his own eyes.

He said that for the first time in his life he visited the North, and he declared that the tried Union men of Tennessee were heart and hand with the great Union party of the North; and he returned thanks to the great army of the North for a deliverance from a tyranny exceeding that ever before witnessed in the world. The Union men of Tennessee, and they look to the North for protection. (Cheers.) He should speak of Tennessee loyalty, and narrate only those things he had seen with his own eyes.

He said that for the first time in his life he visited the North, and he declared that the tried Union men of Tennessee were heart and hand with the great Union party of the North; and he returned thanks to the great army of the North for a deliverance from a tyranny exceeding that ever before witnessed in the world. The Union men of Tennessee, and they look to the North for protection. (Cheers.) He should speak of Tennessee loyalty, and narrate only those things he had seen with his own eyes.

He said that for the first time in his life he visited the North, and he declared that the tried Union men of Tennessee were heart and hand with the great Union party of the North; and he returned thanks to the great army of the North for a deliverance from a tyranny exceeding that ever before witnessed in the world. The Union men of Tennessee, and they look to the North for protection. (Cheers.) He should speak of Tennessee loyalty, and narrate only those things he had seen with his own eyes.

He said that for the first time in his life he visited the North, and he declared that the tried Union men of Tennessee were heart and hand with the great Union party of the North; and he returned thanks to the great army of the North for a deliverance from a tyranny exceeding that ever before witnessed in the world. The Union men of Tennessee, and they look to the North for protection. (Cheers.) He should speak of Tennessee loyalty, and narrate only those things he had seen with his own eyes.

He said that for the first time in his life he visited the North, and he declared that the tried Union men of Tennessee were heart and hand with the great Union party of the North; and he returned thanks to the great army of the North for a deliverance from a tyranny exceeding that ever before witnessed in the world. The Union men of Tennessee, and they look to the North for protection. (Cheers.) He should speak of Tennessee loyalty, and narrate only those things he had seen with his own eyes.

He said that for the first time in his life he visited the North, and he declared that the tried Union men of Tennessee were heart and hand with the great Union party of the North; and he returned thanks to the great army of the North for a deliverance from a tyranny exceeding that ever before witnessed in the world. The Union men of Tennessee, and they look to the North for protection. (Cheers.) He should speak of Tennessee loyalty, and narrate only those things he had seen with his own eyes.

He said that for the first time in his life he visited the North, and he declared that the tried Union men of Tennessee were heart and hand with the great Union party of the North; and he returned thanks to the great army of the North for a deliverance from a tyranny exceeding that ever before witnessed in the world. The Union men of Tennessee, and they look to the North for protection. (Cheers.) He should speak of Tennessee loyalty, and narrate only those things he had seen with his own eyes.

He said that for the first time in his life he visited the North, and he declared that the tried Union men of Tennessee were heart and hand with the great Union party of the North; and he returned thanks to the great army of the North for a deliverance from a tyranny exceeding that ever before witnessed in the world. The Union men of Tennessee, and they look to the North for protection. (Cheers.) He should speak of Tennessee loyalty, and narrate only those things he had seen with his own eyes.

He said that for the first time in his life he visited the North, and he declared that the tried Union men of Tennessee were heart and hand with the great Union party of the North; and he returned thanks to the great army of the North for a deliverance from a tyranny exceeding that ever before witnessed in the world. The Union men of Tennessee, and they look to the North for protection. (Cheers.) He should speak of Tennessee loyalty, and narrate only those things he had seen with his own eyes.

He said that for the first time in his life he visited the North, and he declared that the tried Union men of Tennessee were heart and hand with the great Union party of the North; and he returned thanks to the great army of the North for a deliverance from a tyranny exceeding that ever before witnessed in the world. The Union men of Tennessee, and they look to the North for protection. (Cheers.) He should speak of Tennessee loyalty, and narrate only those things he had seen with his own eyes.

He said that for the first time in his life he visited the North, and he declared that the tried Union men of Tennessee were heart and hand with the great Union party of the North; and he returned thanks to the great army of the North for a deliverance from a tyranny exceeding that ever before witnessed in the world. The Union men of Tennessee, and they look to the North for protection. (Cheers.) He should speak of Tennessee loyalty, and narrate only those things he had seen with his own eyes.

He said that for the first time in his life he visited the North, and he declared that the tried Union men of Tennessee were heart and hand with the great Union party of the North; and he returned thanks to the great army of the North for a deliverance from a tyranny exceeding that ever before witnessed in the world. The Union men of Tennessee, and they look to the North for protection. (Cheers.) He should speak of Tennessee loyalty, and narrate only those things he had seen with his own eyes.

He said that for the first time in his life he visited the North, and he declared that the tried Union men of Tennessee were heart and hand with the great Union party of the North; and he returned thanks to the great army of the North for a deliverance from a tyranny exceeding that ever before witnessed in the world. The Union men of Tennessee, and they look to the North for protection. (Cheers.) He should speak of Tennessee loyalty, and narrate only those things he had seen with his own eyes.

He said that for the first time in his life he visited the North, and he declared that the tried Union men of Tennessee were heart and hand with the great Union party of the North; and he returned thanks to the great army of the North for a deliverance from a tyranny exceeding that ever before witnessed in the world. The Union men of Tennessee, and they look to the North for protection. (Cheers.) He should speak of Tennessee loyalty, and narrate only those things he had seen with his own eyes.

He said that for the first time in his life he visited the North, and he declared that the tried Union men of Tennessee were heart and hand with the great Union party of the North; and he returned thanks to the great army of the North for a deliverance from a tyranny exceeding that ever before witnessed in the world. The Union men of Tennessee, and they look to the North for protection. (Cheers.) He should speak of Tennessee loyalty, and narrate only those things he had seen with his own eyes.

He said that for the first time in his life he visited the North, and he declared that the tried Union men of Tennessee were heart and hand with the great Union party of the North; and he returned thanks to the great army of the North for a deliverance from a tyranny exceeding that ever before witnessed in the world. The Union men of Tennessee, and they look to the North for protection. (Cheers.) He should speak of Tennessee loyalty, and narrate only those things he had seen with his own eyes.

He said that for the first time in his life he visited the North, and he declared that the tried Union men of Tennessee were heart and hand with the great Union party of the North; and he returned thanks to the great army of the North for a deliverance from a tyranny exceeding that ever before witnessed in the world. The Union men of Tennessee, and they look to the North for protection. (Cheers.) He should speak of Tennessee loyalty, and narrate only those things he had seen with his own eyes.

He said that for the first time in his life he visited the North, and he declared that the tried Union men of Tennessee were heart and hand with the great Union party of the North; and he returned thanks to the great army of the North for a deliverance from a tyranny exceeding that ever before witnessed in the world. The Union men of Tennessee, and they look to the North for protection. (Cheers.) He should speak of Tennessee loyalty, and narrate only those things he had seen with his own eyes.

He said that for the first time in his life he visited the North, and he declared that the tried Union men of Tennessee were heart and hand with the great Union party of the North; and he returned thanks to the great army of the North for a deliverance from a tyranny exceeding that ever before witnessed in the world. The Union men of Tennessee, and they look to the North for protection. (Cheers.) He should speak of Tennessee loyalty, and narrate only those things he had seen with his own eyes.

dent was doing all in his power to defeat his objects. The speech of Gen. Burnside was received with rounds of applause. The General is no orator, in the true sense of the word, but has an off-hand way of stating facts, with a little humor, and generally makes a very favorable impression. He spoke of his arrest of Vallandigham, who was using all his efforts to get his men to desert from the ranks. He was told that if he put him in prison they would tear up the very foundation walls. So he concluded to put Vallandigham in a room immediately above his own, and placed a guard over him, and told them he was willing to risk the wall. Mr. Nelson, of Tennessee, the man who killed John Morgan, also made a speech, relating many incidents of the sufferings of the Union people of that State.

About 11 o'clock a gentleman, who had arrived only a few hours before, from New Orleans, made a speech full of interest. He was present at the late butchery of the Union men at the convention in New Orleans. He said he had himself been opposed to the policy of holding a convention, but neither the President, or any living being, had a right to prevent them assembling, much less to aid the rebel police to murder them. He said that act of the President had converted thousands of conservatives into radicals.

At a number of other places large crowds had gathered. Governor Curtin addressed a large audience from the front of the Continental Hotel. The fact is, there never was such an outpouring of the people, and the cops already feel the pressure of defeat weighing heavily upon them.

There never was such a discordant party. The cops who have, for the last three years, abused President Johnson as one of the worst and meanest of living men, now say he has changed, but is the same he always has been. That some one lies is very evident. But the party is made up of just such discordant elements, the sole object of which is the spoils office.

P. S.—The assemblage before the Union League House, to-night, was the largest ever known in the city. From 40,000 to 50,000 is a fair estimate. There was almost a constant discharge of rockets and other fireworks. The procession, with banners and torchlights, took several hours to pass. The Johnson meeting was a mere fizzle compared to this, probably not one-tenth as large. All admit that it was the greatest demonstration ever made in this country.

Gen. Forrest, the author of the massacre at Fort Pillow, presided over the meeting held at Memphis, to ratify the Philadelphia Convention.

The Atlanta News Era thus hails with enthusiasm Mr. Johnson's latest denunciation of Congress:

The speech of President Johnson as reported by the telegraph on Sunday morning, is an advance movement. Opposed as Mr. Johnson has ever been to class legislation and sectional hierarchy, he has never expressed the ambitious and revolutionary leaders of that body which assumes to be the Congress of the United States. But this is the first instance in which he openly questioned the legality of its existence, or pointedly hinted that its proceedings are a nullity. The President emphatically stated by the action of the Union Convention, and is now willing to risk everything before the people. Under these circumstances, the Fall elections will be looked to by both parties with increased anxiety and solicitude.

If the assemblage "which has been called, or which has assumed to be the Congress of the United States," be not a Constitutional Congress, it follows, as a matter of course, that all its acts are illegal and void, then after it shall have been so pronounced by the Supreme Court, the Chief Executive officer of the Government is bound to see that all oppression and tyranny inaugurated by this illegal assembly, and is now willing to risk everything before the people. Under these circumstances, the Fall elections will be looked to by both parties with increased anxiety and solicitude.

It is important, then, that some test case be made touching the constitutionality of the laws enacted by Congress since December last, in order that the people may know to what extent their consciences are bound by its statutes.

The contrary, then, between the executive and legislative departments of the Government has at length reached that point which some of us foresaw in February last. It is, on the part of each, a contest for existence. Should the Radicals succeed before the people at the ensuing elections, nothing will be certain but that the President will be deposed. Should the Administration succeed, the Radical power will be overthrown, its acts pronounced illegal, and the body itself liable to dispersion as an illegal and edictious assembly. In either case it is not safe to predict that the controversy will be settled without an appeal to arms.

UNION VICTORIES.

THE GREEN MOUNTAIN BOYS

How They Stand by the Right.