The Sunbury American. H. B. MASSER, Editor & Proprietor SUNBURY, PA. SATURDAY, JUNE 29, 1807. FOR SUPREME JUDGE HON. HENRY B. WILLIAMS. Of Allegheny County. 1-37" JURY COMMISSIONER. -- We observe that Jacob Seasholtz, Esq., of Lower Augusta, has been recommended as a proper person to discharge the duties of, this new office. The incumbent should be a man well acquainted, throughout the county, with the people. Mr. Seasholtz has all the requisite qualifications, and would make an excellent officer for that position. THE REPUBLICAN STATE CONVEN TION, held at Williamsport on the 26th inst., nominated the Hon, Henry H. Williams, of Pittsburg, on the 9th ballot - the vote standing as follows: Henry H. Williams, M. Russel Thayer, Judge Lynn, Judge Williams has the reputation of being the ablest man on the bench in Allegheny county, and will be elected without doubt. Now we have no obligation to same one cotting a balance in the south. But Congress set aside no objection to any one getting a living in an honorable way. But when the gentleman alluded to makes statements derogatory to the Miltonian and which he knows to be false, for the purpose of inducing one of our patrons to withdraw his patronage from this paper and bestow it upon the "martyr" sheet, we think it high time to caution our friends against giving aid and assistance to the undeserving representative of a rival town, who seeks in such an underhanded way to injure this paper. We give the young man alluded to due notice that we shall permit no attempted infringements of our rights to go unrebuked, nor shall we longer quietly submit to the "martyr" dodge nor "three fourths the Republican patronage" boasting A wanderer on the political sca, the "martyr" craft came into the port and met with kindly greetings as long as its log book showed a clear record. [From the New York Tribune.] Interview of a Southern Editor Interview of a Southern Editor with Hon. Thaddens Stevens. [From the Union Springs (Mis.) Time.] I visited Lancaster, and in the forenoon of Friday, the 33d inst., obtained an audience. Mr. Stevens was in his fine library, quite feeble physically, but intellectually more vigorous, prompt, and lucid than is sual in men seventy-four years old. He is tall, and has the bones of a large man, but is now very thin in fiesh. The face and beard are both good—the eyes uncertain; the mouth, with its thin, closed line, and the strong jaw. THE FRIENDS OF THE SOUTH. In view of the immense mischief which has been done to Southern interests since the close of the war, through the ill-timed and injudicious advice thrast upon the Southerners by a portion of the Northern press, and the unwise policy pursued by men from whom better things were to have been expected, the people of the late Rebel States may well exclaim, "Save us from our friends !" With the down-fall of the Rebel-lion there came to the minds of our con-quered countrymen s conviction that the cause for which they had risked everything and desperately fought during four long years was hopelessly lost. The series of disasters and defeats which culminated in Lee's surrender to Grant left them entirely prostrate, and in the crowning victory of the Federal arms, they saw the assured THE FRIENDS OF THE SOUTH both good—the eyes uncertain; the mouth, with its thin, closed lips, and the strong jaw, tells the secret of the bitterness and love of despotic power and revenge that fills his heart and keeps the man alive. Upon first entering the room, by a door which gave me a full view of the man, there was something so like a smile on his face, that I thought his heart and his speeches, his conscience and his words, were not in harmony. This soon flitted, and from that time to the close the Federal arms, they saw the assured establishment of that power which they had defied and vainly attempted to overthrow— the national will as embodied in the Fedeof the interiew, the whole countenance-from the grand arched forehead to the hard ral Government, paramount, supreme, and unquestionable. They accepted the situa-tion, and had they been left to themselves would have bowed submissively to the ar-bitrament of arms. But defeat in the field was more assilt to be borne then discomfichin-was the very ideal of cold, pitiless intellect. I told him who I was, the views entertained, and requested that he would say nothing to me which he desired kept secret. As he had been talking a great deal and was quite exhausted, I was forced to was more easily to be borne than discomfiwas more easily to be borne than discomfi-ture in the arena of politics; or, rather, the men who had fought in the field more cor-rectly appreciated that altered position of affairs following the triumph of the North than they who had their being and breath in political turmoil and party warfare.
