

THE SUNDAY CARS.

EXTRACTS FROM THE OPINION OF HON. JOHN M. READ, OF THE SUPREME COURT OF PENNSYLVANIA, IN FAVOR OF THE FAREHOLDERS RAILWAY CARS RUNNING ON EVERY DAY IN THIS WEEK, INCLUDING SUNDAY.

It is clear that the fourth commandment, which is a positive commandment imposed upon all other nations by the Almighty for special and wise purposes, was not intended to place all the telegraph lines of Great Britain under the direction of the Post Office Department. Belgium, and other European Governments, have already made the telegraph lines a part of their Postal System, and it is a reproach that this great Republic should be among the last in a matter of this kind.

It is evident from these texts that the Apostle did not regard the fourth commandment as a part of the moral revealed law, but as a ceremonial or judicial law which was terminated by the coming of our Saviour and the completion of the Christian dispensation. It was part and parcel of the old dispensation fitted only for a small and peculiar nation and necessarily perished with it, the whole being supplied by the Christian dispensation embracing in its outstretched arms not a single people, but all the nations of the earth.

The fourth commandment was a positive statute, fixing the seventh day of the week as a day of rest, and is the day observed by the Jews and Christians of the world. The Sabbath or Sunday, therefore, is the day of the Lord's observance; and if we do so the reason ought to be not because Moses commanded it, but because nature likewise teaches us to give from time to time a day of rest, in order that the man may recruit his strength, and that we may go and hear the word preached.

There are now four passenger railways in Pittsburg, operating seventeen miles of road and passing in front of churches of every sect and denomination, and all running on Sunday, and used and patronized by divines, judges, and all the religious persons in the community. They are not only used for the purpose of conveying persons to and from church, but they are used for the purpose of conveying persons to and from the courts, and for the purpose of conveying persons to and from the places of public amusement.

duced to one of individual vocation to this amount of locomotion. The whole matter of the Christian Sabbath is a little perplexed to my mind. 1st. That our Lord says in the 4th commandment, 'Remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy.' 2d. The Apostles who enforce, and, as it were, re-enact every other commandment of the ten, never advert to this. 3d. Even to Gentile converts they lay no stress on this, which might be expected to come from the Jews, and the exercise of his civil authority, obtained as the Emperor Constantine the Great, in the following words: 'Let all judges, and people of the town rest, and all the various trades be suspended, on the venerable day of the sun (reuerabili die solis). Those who live in the country, however, may freely and without fault attend to the cultivation of their fields, (since the Sabbath being unaltered). It will be recollected, that during the trial of John H. Surratt, Mr. Bradley, his attorney, used language towards Judge Fisher unbecoming a gentleman and a lawyer, for which he was reprimanded, he (Bradley) having his Southern blood aroused, and writhing under the rebuke, attached Judge Fisher as he was leaving the bench, but was prevented from doing him bodily harm by the spectators. Bradley then sent the Judge a challenge. After mature deliberation and a full consideration of the facts, Judge Fisher very properly ordered Bradley to be committed to the jail, and to be kept there until he had given satisfactory evidence of his good character. Bradley tried to take it cool and received the sentence in the style usually assumed by rebels, but did it with a bad grace, as his language in retiring proved, viz: 'It was my purpose at an early day as practicable to retire from this bar; it is the manner of my taking off which affects me most.' And he desired to return your Honor thanks for having dismembered him from the bar.' The decision gives universal satisfaction and the rebels admit that a Judge must be respected in his position.

Last Wednesday night the Democracy of Washington had a grand celebration and gave a grand ball. The President Johnson in honor of the result of elections lately held in Pennsylvania, Ohio, New York, &c. To speak without prejudice, I must say the display was fine and the number in procession large, but judging from the people on the sidewalks not participating, I should say the party was not very large. The Republicans gathering out of curiosity, The crowd at the President's house was large in numbers, and it was with difficulty that one could keep their feet. I managed to get a good look at his wardrobe, but not liking the style of a square process, and the people being so boisterous, that it was impossible to hear Mr. Johnson, I climbed the iron railing and beat a hasty retreat to Pennsylvania Avenue, glad to escape Scott's. Several bands, belonging to the military, were out on the occasion and discoursed some very fine music, but in my opinion, being that of the Marine Band. It is usual, on the appearance of a dignitary, to salute him with a piece of music like 'Hail to the Chief,' but on Mr. Johnson's passing from the hall of the White House to the steps in front, the Marine Band struck up a march, and a lowly girl, with a melancholy air from the Bohemian girl, not very appropriate for a man whose feelings were supposed to be jubilant, particularly one who claimed that his policy was sustained by the people. The time, however, seemed in place, for Mr. Johnson wore a military uniform, and his hat was a military cap, and he was surrounded by military officers, and he was surrounded by military officers, and he was surrounded by military officers.

FROM WASHINGTON. Friend Wilson: The past week this city has been unusually busy, owing, I suppose, to the large increase of visitors and the necessary preparations being made for the meeting of Congress, which takes place on Thursday next, the 21st of the month. Quite a number of M. C.'s, are here already, and the most prominent being Hon. Charles Stevens. He is not in very good health, but improving, and there is no fear but that he will be in the Hall of the House of Representatives to answer his name at roll-call, take his seat and battle manfully for the right with the majority, and with his eloquence and strong reasoning be able to convince even those who have heretofore been opposed to the old Commodity.

The long talked of Fisher-Bradley case was disposed of in the Supreme Court on Saturday, Nov. 16, 1867. The case was argued by Mr. Bradley, and the opinion was delivered by Chief Justice Roger Taney.
