

TERMS OF THE "AMERICAN."
TERMS—TWO DOLLARS per annum. $2 50 if not paid within the year. No paper discontinued until all arrearages are paid.

JOB PRINTING.
We have connected with our establishment a well selected JOB OFFICE, which will enable us to execute, in the neatest style, every variety of Printing.

BUSINESS CARDS.
G. W. ZIEGLER,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
North Side of Public Square, one door east of the Old Bank Building.
SUNBURY, PENN'A.

BRUNER & KASH,
Attorneys and Counselors at Law,
Chester Street, west of the N. C. and P. & E. Railroad Depot, in the building lately occupied by
F. W. M. Smith, Esq.,
SUNBURY, PENN'A.

G. W. HAUPT,
Attorney and Counselor at Law,
Office on south side of Market street, five doors east of the N. C. Railroad.
SUNBURY, PA.

H. B. MASSER,
Attorney at Law,
Office on North Side of Public Square, in the building lately occupied by
F. W. M. Smith, Esq.,
SUNBURY, PENN'A.

J. R. HILBUSH,
SURVEYOR AND CONVEYANCER
AND
JUSTICE OF THE PEACE,
Office in Jackson township. Engagements out-
side to be made by letter, directed to the above address.
All business entrusted to his care will be promptly
attended to.
April 22, 1867—ly

J. R. HILBUSH,
SURVEYOR AND CONVEYANCER
AND
JUSTICE OF THE PEACE,
Office in Jackson township. Engagements out-
side to be made by letter, directed to the above address.
All business entrusted to his care will be promptly
attended to.
April 22, 1867—ly

J. R. HILBUSH,
SURVEYOR AND CONVEYANCER
AND
JUSTICE OF THE PEACE,
Office in Jackson township. Engagements out-
side to be made by letter, directed to the above address.
All business entrusted to his care will be promptly
attended to.
April 22, 1867—ly

J. R. HILBUSH,
SURVEYOR AND CONVEYANCER
AND
JUSTICE OF THE PEACE,
Office in Jackson township. Engagements out-
side to be made by letter, directed to the above address.
All business entrusted to his care will be promptly
attended to.
April 22, 1867—ly

J. R. HILBUSH,
SURVEYOR AND CONVEYANCER
AND
JUSTICE OF THE PEACE,
Office in Jackson township. Engagements out-
side to be made by letter, directed to the above address.
All business entrusted to his care will be promptly
attended to.
April 22, 1867—ly

J. R. HILBUSH,
SURVEYOR AND CONVEYANCER
AND
JUSTICE OF THE PEACE,
Office in Jackson township. Engagements out-
side to be made by letter, directed to the above address.
All business entrusted to his care will be promptly
attended to.
April 22, 1867—ly

J. R. HILBUSH,
SURVEYOR AND CONVEYANCER
AND
JUSTICE OF THE PEACE,
Office in Jackson township. Engagements out-
side to be made by letter, directed to the above address.
All business entrusted to his care will be promptly
attended to.
April 22, 1867—ly

J. R. HILBUSH,
SURVEYOR AND CONVEYANCER
AND
JUSTICE OF THE PEACE,
Office in Jackson township. Engagements out-
side to be made by letter, directed to the above address.
All business entrusted to his care will be promptly
attended to.
April 22, 1867—ly

J. R. HILBUSH,
SURVEYOR AND CONVEYANCER
AND
JUSTICE OF THE PEACE,
Office in Jackson township. Engagements out-
side to be made by letter, directed to the above address.
All business entrusted to his care will be promptly
attended to.
April 22, 1867—ly

J. R. HILBUSH,
SURVEYOR AND CONVEYANCER
AND
JUSTICE OF THE PEACE,
Office in Jackson township. Engagements out-
side to be made by letter, directed to the above address.
All business entrusted to his care will be promptly
attended to.
April 22, 1867—ly

J. R. HILBUSH,
SURVEYOR AND CONVEYANCER
AND
JUSTICE OF THE PEACE,
Office in Jackson township. Engagements out-
side to be made by letter, directed to the above address.
All business entrusted to his care will be promptly
attended to.
April 22, 1867—ly

J. R. HILBUSH,
SURVEYOR AND CONVEYANCER
AND
JUSTICE OF THE PEACE,
Office in Jackson township. Engagements out-
side to be made by letter, directed to the above address.
All business entrusted to his care will be promptly
attended to.
April 22, 1867—ly

J. R. HILBUSH,
SURVEYOR AND CONVEYANCER
AND
JUSTICE OF THE PEACE,
Office in Jackson township. Engagements out-
side to be made by letter, directed to the above address.
All business entrusted to his care will be promptly
attended to.
April 22, 1867—ly

J. R. HILBUSH,
SURVEYOR AND CONVEYANCER
AND
JUSTICE OF THE PEACE,
Office in Jackson township. Engagements out-
side to be made by letter, directed to the above address.
All business entrusted to his care will be promptly
attended to.
April 22, 1867—ly

J. R. HILBUSH,
SURVEYOR AND CONVEYANCER
AND
JUSTICE OF THE PEACE,
Office in Jackson township. Engagements out-
side to be made by letter, directed to the above address.
All business entrusted to his care will be promptly
attended to.
April 22, 1867—ly

SUNBURY AMERICAN.

PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY MORNING, BY H. B. MASSER & CO., SUNBURY, NORTHUMBERLAND COUNTY, PENN'A.

NEW SERIES, VOL. 4, NO. 7.

SATURDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 30, 1867.

OLD SERIES, VOL. 28, NO. 7.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

The following are the rates for advertising in the AMERICAN. Those having advertising to do will find it convenient for reference:

Size	1st	2nd	3rd	4th	5th	6th	7th	8th	9th	10th
1 Square	$1.00	$1.50	$2.00	$2.50	$3.00	$3.50	$4.00	$4.50	$5.00	$5.50
2 " "	2.00	3.00	4.00	5.00	6.00	7.00	8.00	9.00	10.00	11.00
3 " "	3.00	4.50	6.00	7.50	9.00	10.50	12.00	13.50	15.00	16.50
4 " "	4.00	6.00	8.00	10.00	12.00	14.00	16.00	18.00	20.00	22.00
5 " "	5.00	7.50	10.00	12.50	15.00	17.50	20.00	22.50	25.00	27.50
6 " "	6.00	9.00	12.00	15.00	18.00	21.00	24.00	27.00	30.00	33.00
7 " "	7.00	10.50	14.00	17.50	21.00	24.50	28.00	31.50	35.00	38.50
8 " "	8.00	12.00	16.00	20.00	24.00	28.00	32.00	36.00	40.00	44.00
9 " "	9.00	13.50	18.00	22.50	27.00	31.50	36.00	40.50	45.00	49.50
10 " "	10.00	15.00	20.00	25.00	30.00	35.00	40.00	45.00	50.00	55.00

Ten lines of this sized type (minion) make one square.

Advertisements for Religious, Charitable and Educational objects, one-half the above rates.
Transient advertisements will be published until ordered to be discontinued, and charged accordingly.

T. H. PURDY, J. D. JAMES,
PURDY & JAMES,
ATTORNEYS AT LAW, SUNBURY, PA.
Office—Market street, 4 doors west of the railroad.
Will attend promptly to the collection of claims and other professional business intrusted to his care, in Northumberland and adjoining counties.
November 9, 1867.

C. A. REIMSNYDER,
ATTORNEY AT LAW, SUNBURY, PA.
All business entrusted to his care attended to promptly and with diligence.
Sept. 14.

S. S. WEBER, J. H. REYNOLDS,
THE UNION,
ARCH STREET, between Third and Fourth Street
PHILADELPHIA.
WEBER & REYNOLDS, Proprietors.
June 29, 1867.—ly

ADDISON G. MARE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
SIAMOKIN, Northumberland County, Pa.
All business attended to with promptness and dispatch.
Siamokin, Aug. 10, 1867.—ly

DR. CHAS. ARTHUR,
Homoeopathic Physician.
Graduate of the Homoeopathic Medical College of Pennsylvania.
Office, Market Square opposite the Court House—SUNBURY, PA.
Office Hours—7 to 9—morning; 1 to 3—afternoon; 7 to 9—evening.
May 18.

AUGUSTA HOTEL,
SAMUEL HANN, Proprietor.
(Formerly of the Mansion House, Malbone City, Schenectady county, N. Y.)
In Cook's Addition, near the Machine Shops,
SUNBURY, PENN'A.
Transient and permanent boarders will find this a most comfortable house and possessing the advantages of convenience to the railway and business part of the town. Being newly furnished with all the modern household improvements, there is every facility for the convenient accommodation of guests. Good stabling and experienced hostlers in attendance.
SUNBURY, June 22, 1867.

DR. J. S. ANGLE,
GRADUATE of Jefferson Medical College, with 5 years practice, offers his professional services to the citizens of Sunbury and vicinity—will attend to all cases promptly.
OFFICE over Teacher's Store, in Pleasant's building, Market Square.
Office Hours—From 8 to 10 A. M.
SUNBURY, April 27, 1867.

AMBROTYPE AND PHOTOGRAPH GALLERY
S. BYERLY, Proprietor,
Photograph, Ambrotypes and Miniatures taken in the best style of the art.
April 7, 1867.

UNION HOTEL,
CHAS. FETZEL, Proprietor.
In Cook's Addition to SUNBURY, near the Penn'a. Railroad Company's shops.
PERMANENT AND TRANSIENT BOARDERS, kept who will find ample accommodations. Good cooks and waiters, boarders can enjoy the quiet comfort of home with all the advantages of a first class hotel. His is the most desirable of the choicest hotels.
SUNBURY, June 8, 1867.

Mount Carmel Hotel
MT. CARMEL, Northumberland Co., Pa.
THOS. BURKET, PROPRIETOR.
This large and comfortable hotel is located near the depot of the Shamokin Valley and the Quakake & New York and Erie R.R. Trains arrive and depart daily. This house is located in the center of the Coal Region and affords the best accommodations to travelers and permanent boarders.
July 25.

GIRARD HOUSE,
CHESTNUT STREET, PHILADELPHIA.
THIS well known Hotel, situated near the corner of Chestnut and Market streets, Philadelphia, is one of the most superior locations and excellent accommodations, one of the best and most desirable stopping places in the city.
H. W. KANAGA, Proprietor.
February 16, 1867.—6m

BOOK BINDERY,
JOHN HERMAN
No. 212 North Second Street, Philadelphia, Pa.
Send to Bind Books, Papers, Magazines &c., in any style that may be desired, at cheaper rates than can be done in the city.
P. O. Orders left at this Office, will receive prompt attention.

Toys and Fancy Goods!
O. H. N. D. L.,
No. 22 Market Street, Philadelphia. Importer of German and other TOYS AND FANCY ARTICLES. Also, a variety of GAMES, &c.
Country Merchants will please examine my Stock.
October 5, 1867.—3m

HERDIC HOUSE,
E. A. FESON, Supr.,
WILLIAMSPORT, PA.
CLEANLINESS IS NEXT TO GODLINESS.
A FACT which is demonstrated at GUNNISON & CO'S.
First Class Shaving Hair Cutting and Shampooing Rooms.
Particular attention to cutting Ladies' and Children's hair. Give us a call at the New Rooms over the Post Office.
SUNBURY, August 2, 1867.—1f

SHOEMAKERS.
THE best quality of Sole Leather, French Calf and Morocco, Lining, Lasts, Nails, Pegs, Tools of all kinds, and every thing used by the Trade, for sale low by
J. H. CONLEY & CO

GROCERIES, Flour and Feed Store.
J. A. GUNNY & CO.,
In Walmer's Building, Water Street, near King st., NORTHUMBERLAND, PA.
Inform their friends and the public generally that they have a large assortment of Groceries, Provisions, &c., all fresh and of the best quality, consisting of Tea, Coffee, Sugar, and Spices. Dried and Canned Fruits, Preserves, Raisins, Cheese, and Crackers, and in fact everything usually kept in the Grocery line.
They would also call attention to their large and cheap lot of Good FAMILY FLOUR, Green Tea, and other articles, which are constantly kept on hand. Also, all kinds of Vegetables, &c., &c. Give them a call and see for yourself.
Northumberland, Sept. 28, 1867.

CARPENTERS.
WILL find in our establishment a superior stock of Planes, Saw, Augers, Hatchets, Hammer, File, Chisels, &c., &c., for sale by
J. H. CONLEY & CO

POETICAL.

WOUNDED.

Let me lie down,
Just here in the shade, this cannon-torn tree,
Here low on the trampled grass, where I may see
The surge of the combat, where I may hear
The glad cry of victory: "cheer upon cheer—
Let me lie down.

Oh, it was grand!
Like the tempest we charged, in the triumph to share!
The tempest—its fury and thunder were there,
On, on, o'er intrenchments, o'er living and dead,
With the foe under foot and our flag overhead—
Let me lie down.

Wearied and faint,
Prone to the soldier's couch, ah, how can I rest
With this shot-shattered head and sabre-pierced breast!
Comrades, roll-roll, when I shall be sought,
Say I fought till I fell, and fell where I fought,
Wounded and faint.

Oh, that last charge!
Right through the firing belt-rings of seraphim and shell,
Through without faltering, clear through with a
Right in their midst, in the turmoil and gloom,
Like heroes we dashed at the mandate of God.
Dying at last!

Some things are worth while, and some others so good
That nations who buy them pay only in blood,
For freedom and Union each man owes a part,
And here I lay my bones from my heart.
It is duty!

My mother, dear mother, with meek, tearful eye,
"Forever!" and God bless my eye,
Oh, that I now lay on your pillow'd breast!
To breathe my last sigh on the bosom first pressed!

I am so faint,
But, by your prayer, there's one that begins
"Our Father," and then says, "Forgive us our sins."
Don't forget that part; say that strongly; and then
I'll try to repeat it, and I'll try my Amen.
Ah, I'm so faint!

Mark, there's a shout!
Raise me up, comrades; we have conquered, I know!
Up on my feet, with my face to the foe,
Ah, there lies the flag, with its star and stripes bright—
The promise of glory, a symbol of Right!

I'm mused at last!
O God of our fathers! our freedom prolong,
And tread down rebellion, oppression, and wrong!
In land of earth's hope, in the blood of the righteous
I die for the Nation, the Union and God.
I'm mused at last!

TALES AND SKETCHES.
PLAIN GIRLS.

It is beyond all question the tendency of modern society to regard marriage as the great end and justification of a woman's life. This is perhaps the single point on which practical and romantic people, who differ in so many things, invariably agree. Poets, novelists, natural philosophers, fashionable and un-fashionable mothers, meet one another on the broad common ground of approving universal matrimony; and women from their earliest years are dedicated to the cultivation of those feminine accomplishments which are supposed either to be most seductive before marriage, or in a drawing room, or most valuable after marriage, in the kitchen and housekeeper's room. It is admitted to be a sort of fiction that its plots, its adventures, and its catastrophes should all lead up to the marriage of the principal young lady. Sometimes, as in the case of the celebrated Lily Dale, the public tolerate a bold excess of the ordinary rule, on account of the extreme piquancy of the thing; but no wise novelist ventures habitually to disregard the prevalent opinion that the heroine's mission is to come a wife before the end of the third volume. The one ideal, accordingly, which romance has to offer woman is marriage; and most novels thus make life end with what really is only its threshold and beginning. The Bible no doubt says that it is not good for man to live alone. What the Bible says, man, public opinion as unhesitatingly asserts of woman; and a text that it is not good for woman to live alone either, though not canonical, is silently added by all domestic commentators to the Scriptural original. Those who pretend to be acquainted with the order of nature and the just order of things, and who therefore assure us with confidence that all this is as it should be; that woman is not meant to grow and flourish singly, but to hang on man, and to depend on him, like the vine upon the elm. If we remember right Mr. Comte's entertaining opinions, which really come to pretty much the same thing, we must be maintained in ease and luxury by the rougher male animal, it being her duty in return to keep his spiritual nature up to the mark, to quicken and to purify his affections, to be a sort of drawing room religion in the middle of every day life, to serve as an object of devotion to the religious Comair, and to lead him through love of herself up to the love of humanity in the abstract. One difficulty presented by this matrimonial view of woman's destiny is to know what, under the present conditions which society finds itself placed in, is to be done. Her mission is a subject which no philosopher as yet has adequately handled. If marriage is the object of all feminine endeavors and ambitions, it certainly seems rather hard that Providence should have condemned plain girls to stand in the race at such a disadvantage. Even under Mr. Comte's system, which provides for almost everything, and which, in its far-sightedness and thoughtfulness for our good, appears almost more benevolent than Providence, it would seem as if hardly sufficient provision had been made for them. It must be difficult for any one except a really advanced Comtist to give himself up to the worship of a thoroughly plain girl. Filial instinct might enable us to worship her as a mother, but even the noblest desire to serve humanity would scarcely be enough to keep a husband or a lover up to his daily devotions in the case of a plain girl with sandy hair and a freckled complexion. The boldest effort to rectify the inequalities of the position of plain girls, has been made of late years by a courageous school of female writers of fiction. Everything has been done that could be done to persuade mankind that plain girls are in reality by far the most attractive of the lot. The clever authoress of "Jane Eyre" nearly succeeded in the former attempt for a few years; and plain girls, with volumes of intellect speaking through their deep eyes and from their massive foreheads, seemed for a while, on paper at least, to be carrying everything before them.

The only difficulty was to get the male sex to follow out in practice what they so completely admired in plain Broth's three-volume novels. Unhappily, the male sex, being very imperfect and frail, could not be brought to do it. They recognized the beauty of the conception about plain girls, they were very glad to see them married off in scores to heroic village doctors, and they quite admitted that occasional young noblemen might be represented in fiction as becoming violently attached to young creatures with inky fingers and remarkable minds. But no real change was brought about in ordinary life. Man, a plain man, read with pleasure about the triumphs of the same-haired girls, but still kept on dancing with and proposing to the pretty ones. And at last authoresses were driven back on the old standard of beauty. At present, in the production of both of masculine and feminine workmanship, the former view of their status and workmanship, if they are allowed, if thoroughly excellent in other ways, to pair off with country curates and with devoted missionaries; but the prizes of fiction, as well as the prizes of reality, fall to the lot of the fair and more forthrightly favored. Champions of plain girls are not, however, wanting who boldly take the difficulty by the horns, and deny in toto the fact that in matrimony and love the race is usually to the beautiful. Look about you, they tell us, in the world, and you will see often as not find beautiful, falling on the neck of a plain girl marrying on every side of them. And no doubt plain girls do marry very frequently. Nobody, for instance, with half an eye, can fail to be familiar with the phenomenon, in his own circle, of astonishingly ugly married women. It does not, however, follow that plain girls are not terribly weighted in the race.

There are several reasons why women who rely on their beauty remain, unmarried at the last, but the reason that their beauty gives them no advantage is certainly not one. The first reason is, that the world of letters is a wholesome protest against such exclusive jealousy. The real objection to literary women is that women, with a few notable exceptions, are not yet properly educated to write well, or to criticize well, or to others write. Remove this objection by improving the curriculum of the world of letters is a wholesome protest against such exclusive jealousy. The real objection to literary women is that women, with a few notable exceptions, are not yet properly educated to write well, or to criticize well, or to others write. Remove this objection by improving the curriculum of the world of letters is a wholesome protest against such exclusive jealousy. The real objection to literary women is that women, with a few notable exceptions, are not yet properly educated to write well, or to criticize well, or to others write. Remove this objection by improving the curriculum of the world of letters is a wholesome protest against such exclusive jealousy. The real objection to literary women is that women, with a few notable exceptions, are not yet properly educated to write well, or to criticize well, or to others write. Remove this objection by improving the curriculum of the world of letters is a wholesome protest against such exclusive jealousy. The real objection to literary women is that women, with a few notable exceptions, are not yet properly educated to write well, or to criticize well, or to others write. Remove this objection by improving the curriculum of the world of letters is a wholesome protest against such exclusive jealousy. The real objection to literary women is that women, with a few notable exceptions, are not yet properly educated to write well, or to criticize well, or to others write. Remove this objection by improving the curriculum of the world of letters is a wholesome protest against such exclusive jealousy. The real objection to literary women is that women, with a few notable exceptions, are not yet properly educated to write well, or to criticize well, or to others write. Remove this objection by improving the curriculum of the world of letters is a wholesome protest against such exclusive jealousy. The real objection to literary women is that women, with a few notable exceptions, are not yet properly educated to write well, or to criticize well, or to others write. Remove this objection by improving the curriculum of the world of letters is a wholesome protest against such exclusive jealousy. The real objection to literary women is that women, with a few notable exceptions, are not yet properly educated to write well, or to criticize well, or to others write. Remove this objection by improving the curriculum of the world of letters is a wholesome protest against such exclusive jealousy. The real objection to literary women is that women, with a few notable exceptions, are not yet properly educated to write well, or to criticize well, or to others write. Remove this objection by improving the curriculum of the world of letters is a wholesome protest against such exclusive jealousy. The real objection to literary women is that women, with a few notable exceptions, are not yet properly educated to write well, or to criticize well, or to others write. Remove this objection by improving the curriculum of the world of letters is a wholesome protest against such exclusive jealousy. The real objection to literary women is that women, with a few notable exceptions, are not yet properly educated to write well, or to criticize well, or to others write. Remove this objection by improving the curriculum of the world of letters is a wholesome protest against such exclusive jealousy. The real objection to literary women is that women, with a few notable exceptions, are not yet properly educated to write well, or to criticize well, or to others write. Remove this objection by improving the curriculum of the world of letters is a wholesome protest against such exclusive jealousy. The real objection to literary women is that women, with a few notable exceptions, are not yet properly educated to write well, or to criticize well, or to others write. Remove this objection by improving the curriculum of the world of letters is a wholesome protest against such exclusive jealousy. The real objection to literary women is that women, with a few notable exceptions, are not yet properly educated to write well, or to criticize well, or to others write. Remove this objection by improving the curriculum of the world of letters is a wholesome protest against such exclusive jealousy. The real objection to literary women is that women, with a few notable exceptions, are not yet properly educated to write well, or to criticize well, or to others write. Remove this objection by improving the curriculum of the world of letters is a wholesome protest against such exclusive jealousy. The real objection to literary women is that women, with a few notable exceptions, are not yet properly educated to write well, or to criticize well, or to others write. Remove this objection by improving the curriculum of the world of letters is a wholesome protest against such exclusive jealousy. The real objection to literary women is that women, with a few notable exceptions, are not yet properly educated to write well, or to criticize well, or to others write. Remove this objection by improving the curriculum of the world of letters is a wholesome protest against such exclusive jealousy. The real objection to literary women is that women, with a few notable exceptions, are not yet properly educated to write well, or to criticize well, or to others write. Remove this objection by improving the curriculum of the world of letters is a wholesome protest against such exclusive jealousy. The real objection to literary women is that women, with a few notable exceptions, are not yet properly educated to write well, or to criticize well, or to others write. Remove this objection by improving the curriculum of the world of letters is a wholesome protest against such exclusive jealousy. The real objection to literary women is that women, with a few notable exceptions, are not yet properly educated to write well, or to criticize well, or to others write. Remove this objection by improving the curriculum of the world of letters is a wholesome protest against such exclusive jealousy. The real objection to literary women is that women, with a few notable exceptions, are not yet properly educated to write well, or to criticize well, or to others write. Remove this objection by improving the curriculum of the world of letters is a wholesome protest against such exclusive jealousy. The real objection to literary women is that women, with a few notable exceptions, are not yet properly educated to write well, or to criticize well, or to others write. Remove this objection by improving the curriculum of the world of letters is a wholesome protest against such exclusive jealousy. The real objection to literary women is that women, with a few notable exceptions, are not yet properly educated to write well, or to criticize well, or to others write. Remove this objection by improving the curriculum of the world of letters is a wholesome protest against such exclusive jealousy. The real objection to literary women is that women, with a few notable exceptions, are not yet properly educated to write well, or to criticize well, or to others write. Remove this objection by improving the curriculum of the world of letters is a wholesome protest against such exclusive jealousy. The real objection to literary women is that women, with a few notable exceptions, are not yet properly educated to write well, or to criticize well, or to others write. Remove this objection by improving the curriculum of the world of letters is a wholesome protest against such exclusive jealousy. The real objection to literary women is that women, with a few notable exceptions, are not yet properly educated to write well, or to criticize well, or to others write. Remove this objection by improving the curriculum of the world of letters is a wholesome protest against such exclusive jealousy. The real objection to literary women is that women, with a few notable exceptions, are not yet properly educated to write well, or to criticize well, or to others write. Remove this objection by improving the curriculum of the world of letters is a wholesome protest against such exclusive jealousy. The real objection to literary women is that women, with a few notable exceptions, are not yet properly educated to write well, or to criticize well, or to others write. Remove this objection by improving the curriculum of the world of letters is a wholesome protest against such exclusive jealousy. The real objection to literary women is that women, with a few notable exceptions, are not yet properly educated to write well, or to criticize well, or to others write. Remove this objection by improving the curriculum of the world of letters is a wholesome protest against such exclusive jealousy. The real objection to literary women is that women, with a few notable exceptions, are not yet properly educated to write well, or to criticize well, or to others write. Remove this objection by improving the curriculum of the world of letters is a wholesome protest against such exclusive jealousy. The real objection to literary women is that women, with a few notable exceptions, are not yet properly educated to write well, or to criticize well, or to others write. Remove this objection by improving the curriculum of the world of letters is a wholesome protest against such exclusive jealousy. The real objection to literary women is that women, with a few notable exceptions, are not yet properly educated to write well, or to criticize well, or to others write. Remove this objection by improving the curriculum of the world of letters is a wholesome protest against such exclusive jealousy. The real objection to literary women is that women, with a few notable exceptions, are not yet properly educated to write well, or to criticize well, or to others write. Remove this objection by improving the curriculum of the world of letters is a wholesome protest against such exclusive jealousy. The real objection to literary women is that women, with a few notable exceptions, are not yet properly educated to write well, or to criticize well, or to others write. Remove this objection by improving the curriculum of the world of letters is a wholesome protest against such exclusive jealousy. The real objection to literary women is that women, with a few notable exceptions, are not yet properly educated to write well, or to criticize well, or to others write. Remove this objection by improving the curriculum of the world of letters is a wholesome protest against such exclusive jealousy. The real objection to literary women is that women, with a few notable exceptions, are not yet properly educated to write well, or to criticize well, or to others write. Remove this objection by improving the curriculum of the world of letters is a wholesome protest against such exclusive jealousy. The real objection to literary women is that women, with a few notable exceptions, are not yet properly educated to write well, or to criticize well, or to others write. Remove this objection by improving the curriculum of the world of letters is a wholesome protest against such exclusive jealousy. The real objection to literary women is that women, with a few notable exceptions, are not yet properly educated to write well, or to criticize well, or to others write. Remove this objection by improving the curriculum of the world of letters is a wholesome protest against such exclusive jealousy. The real objection to literary women is that women, with a few notable exceptions, are not yet properly educated to write well, or to criticize well, or to others write. Remove this objection by improving the curriculum of the world of letters is a wholesome protest against such exclusive jealousy. The real objection to literary women is that women, with a few notable exceptions, are not yet properly educated to write well, or to criticize well, or to others write. Remove this objection by improving the curriculum of the world of letters is a wholesome protest against such exclusive jealousy. The real objection to literary women is that women, with a few notable exceptions, are not yet properly educated to write well, or to criticize well, or to others write. Remove this objection by improving the curriculum of the world of letters is a wholesome protest against such exclusive jealousy. The real objection to literary women is that women, with a few notable exceptions, are not yet properly educated to write well, or to criticize well, or to others write. Remove this objection by improving the curriculum of the world of letters is a wholesome protest against such exclusive jealousy. The real objection to literary women is that women, with a few notable exceptions, are not yet properly educated to write well, or to criticize well, or to others write. Remove this objection by improving the curriculum of the world of letters is a wholesome protest against such exclusive jealousy. The real objection to literary women is that women, with a few notable exceptions, are not yet properly educated to write well, or to criticize well, or to others write. Remove this objection by improving the curriculum of the world of letters is a wholesome protest against such exclusive jealousy. The real objection to literary women is that women, with a few notable exceptions, are not yet properly educated to write well, or to criticize well, or to others write. Remove this objection by improving the curriculum of the world of letters is a wholesome protest against such exclusive jealousy. The real objection to literary women is that women, with a few notable exceptions, are not yet properly educated to write well, or to criticize well, or to others write. Remove this objection by improving the curriculum of the world of letters is a wholesome protest against such exclusive jealousy. The real objection to literary women is that women, with a few notable exceptions, are not yet properly educated to write well, or to criticize well, or to others write. Remove this objection by improving the curriculum of the world of letters is a wholesome protest against such exclusive jealousy. The real objection to literary women is that women, with a few notable exceptions, are not yet properly educated to write well, or to criticize well, or to others write. Remove this objection by improving the curriculum of the world of letters is a wholesome protest against such exclusive jealousy. The real objection to literary women is that women, with a few notable exceptions, are not yet properly educated to write well, or to criticize well, or to others write. Remove this objection by improving the curriculum of the world of letters is a wholesome protest against such exclusive jealousy. The real objection to literary women is that women, with a few notable exceptions, are not yet properly educated to write well, or to criticize well, or to others write. Remove this objection by improving the curriculum of the world of letters is a wholesome protest against such exclusive jealousy. The real objection to literary women is that women, with a few notable exceptions, are not yet properly educated to write well, or to criticize well, or to others write. Remove this objection by improving the curriculum of the world of letters is a wholesome protest against such exclusive jealousy. The real objection to literary women is that women, with a few notable exceptions, are not yet properly educated to write well, or to criticize well, or to others write. Remove this objection by improving the curriculum of the world of letters is a wholesome protest against such exclusive jealousy. The real objection to literary women is that women, with a few notable exceptions, are not yet properly educated to write well, or to criticize well, or to others write. Remove this objection by improving the curriculum of the world of letters is a wholesome protest against such exclusive jealousy. The real objection to literary women is that women, with a few notable exceptions, are not yet properly educated to write well, or to criticize well, or to others write. Remove this objection by improving the curriculum of the world of letters is a wholesome protest against such exclusive jealousy. The real objection to literary women is that women, with a few notable exceptions, are not yet properly educated to write well, or to criticize well, or to others write. Remove this objection by improving the curriculum of the world of letters is a wholesome protest against such exclusive jealousy. The real objection to literary women is that women, with a few notable exceptions, are not yet properly educated to write well, or to criticize well, or to others write. Remove this objection by improving the curriculum of the world of letters is a wholesome protest against such exclusive jealousy. The real objection to literary women is that women, with a few notable exceptions, are not yet properly educated to write well, or to criticize well, or to others write. Remove this objection by improving the curriculum of the world of letters is a wholesome protest against such exclusive jealousy. The real objection to literary women is that women, with a few notable exceptions, are not yet properly educated to write well, or to criticize well, or to others write. Remove this objection by improving the curriculum of the world of letters is a wholesome protest against such exclusive jealousy. The real objection to literary women is that women, with a few notable exceptions, are not yet properly educated to write well, or to criticize well, or to others write. Remove this objection by improving the curriculum of the world of letters is a wholesome protest against such exclusive jealousy. The real objection to literary women is that women, with a few notable exceptions, are not yet properly educated to write well, or to criticize well, or to others write. Remove this objection by improving the curriculum of the world of letters is a wholesome protest against such exclusive jealousy. The real objection to literary women is that women, with a few notable exceptions, are not yet properly educated to write well, or to criticize well, or to others write. Remove this objection by improving the curriculum of the world of letters is a wholesome protest against such exclusive jealousy. The real objection to literary women is that women, with a few notable exceptions, are not yet properly educated to write well, or to criticize well, or to others write. Remove this objection by improving the curriculum of the world of letters is a wholesome protest against such exclusive jealousy. The real objection to literary women is that women, with a few notable exceptions, are not yet properly educated to write well, or to criticize well, or to others write. Remove this objection by improving the curriculum of the world of letters is a wholesome protest against such exclusive jealousy. The real objection to literary women is that women, with a few notable exceptions, are not yet properly educated to write well, or to criticize well, or to others write. Remove this objection by improving the curriculum of the world of letters is a wholesome protest against such exclusive jealousy. The real objection to literary women is that women, with a few notable exceptions, are not yet properly educated to write well, or to criticize well, or to others write. Remove this objection by improving the curriculum of the world of letters is a wholesome protest against such exclusive jealousy. The real objection to literary women is that women, with a few notable exceptions, are not yet properly educated to write well, or to criticize well, or to others write. Remove this objection by improving the curriculum of the world of letters is a wholesome protest against such exclusive jealousy. The real objection to literary women is that women, with a few notable exceptions, are not yet properly educated to write well, or to criticize well, or to others write. Remove this objection by improving the curriculum of the world of letters is a wholesome protest against