Mr. Evarts, on the part of the Government, said it was intended to proceed with the trial of Davis at some period during this term, but the public duties of Chief Justice Chase prevented his attendance, and he would name a day after Judge Chase's official duties in the Supreme Court has been concluded, and proposed that the first Wednesday in March be assigned for the trial.

Mr. O'Conor, for the defense, assented to this, but said it would cause the defendant inconvenience, and hoped the Government would arrange it positively for the day named. The majority of the Judiciary Committee, to whom the impeachment question has been referred, have, as you were informed by telegraph yesterday, reported in favor of impeachment and their report discloses the following facts, vis:

An unconstitutional usurpation of the power on the part of the President to organize and recognize civil State Governments; the denial of the right of Congress to control the work of organization, and the exercise of unconstitutional assumption of power to in possession of the Commissioner. unauthorized and illegal surrender and sale breach of the public trust, wherein the action of the President in relation to the Southern dence is given relative to the sale and surrender of railroads and rolling stock, and other property in which it is shown that all this property was turned over against the advice of the Secretary of War, and Quartermaster General. It is also shown that the President extended the time for the payment of installments of principal and interest on the railroads purchased by the rebel companies. The evidence further shows that at the same time these railroad companies had a sufficient amount of money on deposit to meet their indebtedness. By his connection with the Southern roads, it shows that he realized a profit of over eighteen thousand dollars. The other grounds of impeachment are the veto power; the abuse of the pardoning power; the surrender of property to rebels; the disregard of the rights of the property of refugees and freedman, and of the United States, and the unconstitutional and corrupt exercise of the appointing power. Under the latter head, a vast amount of testimony has been taken relative to the suspension and appointing of civil officers, and the cause therefor, in direct violation of the

The Counterfelt Seven-Thirtles and Five-Twentles.

DISCOVERY OF THE COUNTERPEITERS.

From the Newark (N. J.) Courier.1 At Washington some weeks since, it will be remembered, the discovery was made that the Seventy-thirty and Five-twenty Government bonds had been counterfeited, and large numbers of them put in circula-tion. Since that time, Mr. William P. Wood, Chief of the Secret Service Division of the Treasury Department, together with his subordinates throughout the country, has been diligently engaged in efforts to trace this gigantic fraud to its perpetrators. The attention of the Chief, previous to the discovery of these fraudulent bonds, had been especially called to counterfeit issues of $100 compound interest notes and $50 legal as to the source from whence these dangerous counterfeits came, he has been enabled not only to secure the parties who did that work, but penetrate the mystery which sur- annum to $8,000. rounded the great bond fraud, and arrest two of the principals in that gigantic enter-He learned, after weeks of the most adroit ly aided by U. S. Detective Nettleship of this city, that the $100 compound interest notes, and the $50 legal tenders, were engraved and printed at, and put into circulation from, the little village of Paulsboro', in Gloucester county in this State, one William Spencer alias William E. Brockaway, being the principal operator, with some six or seven confederates. His information in regard to this nefarious business was so complete, that he could have at once arrested all the parties, and ensured their conviction. But by comparing the work upon those counterfeits with that upon the fraudulent bonds, he became satisfied that the same accomplished artist who so successfully counterfeited the notes, had also engraved the plates upon which the Seven-thirties and Five-twenties were made. In this opinion he was sustained by experts in the art of engraving, to whose inspection the bogus notes and bonds were submitted. Acting upon this theory, which eventually proved to be the correct one, the detectives made no arrests at the time, but quietly and patiently proceeded, with this clue to guide them, in the more important work of securing evidence upon which to convict the offenders of the greater crime, and if possible restore to losers by these fraudulent issues, the large amount which it was naturally supposed the principals in the transaction had realized from their operations. On the 14th of the present month Mr. Wood, having gained sufficient information Labor-Baker, Illinois, Coinage, for his purposes, made affidavit before U. S. Commissioner Whitehead, in this city, that William Spencer, alias William E. Brockaway, and Hannah, his reputed wife, were the principals in this extensive fraud, and that they had been assisted by five other persons. The woman whose maiden name was Hannah Seymour, had been the wife of one Charles Weatherby, alias "Speck," who was sent to State Prison some years ago for crime, when she became the partner of Spencer, with whom she has since lived. Warrants were issued for their arrest, and they were taken in custody at St. James' Hotel in New York, on Friday evening last, and brought to Taylor's Hotel in Jersey City, where they were kept under a strong guard, the officers not being yet ready to give them an examination. When taken into custody they were about preparing to leave the country, for a tour in Europe. On Tuesday morning Spencer and his wife were brought to this city, and taken before United S. Commissioner Whitehead, where they were admitted to bail for examination next week, in the sum of $40,000, which amount Mrs. Spencer had secreted in power and omission of duties in support of her under-clothing in genuine bonds, and this usurpation and denial; the willful and | which she promptly produced and placed spend the operations of the acts of Con- cer is said to be the owner of a magnificent gress, and the corrupt, willful and uncon- residence in Philadelphia, and to be worth stitutional refusal to execute the laws; the some $200,000.
