THE OXYGENATING WATER ELEVATOR. - As various as are the means of elevating water by means of pumps and buckets, there are none that are no more or less objectionable. Perhaps one of the best methods of raising water is the old fashioned chain pump, as it is called, if it was more durable and mbetantial, and not so easily put out of repair. The Oxygenated Water Elevator has all the merits of the chain pump, with additional advantages, while it is free from its faults. It has no tubing to wear out or to become obstructed, while it elevates water more steadily and with less labor. It can be put into a well or removed therefrom by one person, in a few minutes, with little or no help. It is, in fact, an endless chain with a series of small iron buckets, that constantly take up and discharge water. Its simplicity, cheapness and durability, to say nothing of its value in purifying the water by constantly introducing fresh air into the body of water in the well, makes it, in our estimation, one of the most desirable means of raising water we have ever seen.

THE RUSH AT BECK'S .- The public are taking advantage of Beck's low prices, and are carrying his goods off, (after being made up into suits of all styles,) at a rapid rate. TARE VERY PARTICULAR NOTICE, that, to enjoy winter properly, you must be well guarded against the elements. When you go skating or sleighing wrap up warmly, while enjoying the exercise, and make yourself comfortable. against cold feet. BEAUTIFUL.-The beautiful specimens of the Photographic art, on exhibition at Byerly's Sallery, in Simpson's building. Market Square, tell the public, in unmistakable language, that Eyerly is a firstclass artist. Call up and get a life-like picture.

Sure, when I found I wasn't able to keep it myself, didn't I do well to tell it to somebody that could?" Some things should not be kept secret, for instance the fact that S. Faust, the fashionable Hatter, is manufacturing and selling goods very fast and very cheap, at his store, on Market Square.
