June 13, 1858.—19. On Wednesday morning last Jacob Woomer, who is employed at the jail, arreated syong man named Jeme Barnhart, who, it will be remebered, escaped from our county prison about four months ago, along with a prisoner named John O. Williams. Barnhart was inexperented at the time for assault and battery, and remained in jail about two months, when he made his escape. Sheriff Beckley offered a reward of $20 for the re-arreat of Barnhart and $40 for Williams. Barnhart, horing that a detective was on his track, came to town on Wednesday for the purpose of trying to have his ease settled, and was very properly "nabbed" by Woomer. He is now confined in a cell and beavity ironed, and stands every chance of getting the full possities of the law infiliated upon him, which he so righly deserves.
