Prune shrubs, roses, and vines. Those which flower from young wood, cut in severely to make new growth vigorous. Tea, China, Bourbon, Noisette roses are of this class. What are called annual flowering Roses, as Prairie Queen and so on, requires lots of last year's wood to make a good show of flowers, hence, with these, thin out weak wood, and leave all the

To make handsome, shapely specimens of shrubs, out them now into the forms you want, and keep them so by pulling out all shoots that grow stronger than the others during the summer season.

Do not transplant extensively till the ground is warm and the buds are about to push. Many things die by exposure to winds for a few weeks before they have warmth to push roots and leaves into growth.

The rule for pruning at transplanting is to cut in proportion to apparent injury to roots. If not much the werse for removal, cut but little of the top away. Properly pruned, a good gardener will not have the worst case of a badly dug tree to die under his hands. In a nursery, where these mat-ters are well understood, trees "never die," Box edgings lay well now. Make the ground firm and level, plant deep, with tops not more than two inches above ground. Roll the grass well before the softness of a thaw goes away. It makes all smooth and level. Graft trees or shrubs where changed sorts are desirable. Any lady can graft. Cleft grafting is the easiest. Split the stock, cut the scion like a wedge, insert it in the split, so that the bark of the stock and scion meets; tie a little bast bark around it, and cover with Trowbridge's grafting-wax, and all is done: very simple when it is audorstood, and not hard to understand Chrysanthemums are not indispensable for autumn decoration of the flower garden.

Now is the time to procure a supply. They do well in any rich garden soil that is not too dry. The Lillipution or Pompone class are still popular conservatory or pot culture, but the large flowering kinds still remain the gems of the open ground.

Hyacinths, tulips, liliums, and other hardy bulbs set out in the fall, and covered through the winter, should be occasionally examined, and when they show signs of active growth, must be uncovered; in this latitude this is not safe until towards the end of the month. Most things have been pruned, but roses are always left to "see what damage the winter may do." In the summer" roses, or those which bloom only once in the season, the rule is to thin out the weak shoots and leave the stronger ones, merely short-ening their tops. If pruned severely in the usual shortening style, they will not bloom freely. The hybrid perpetual roses, if wanted for early flowering, should also be served much in the same way ; but as their chief value is as fall flowers, a severe pruning new produces a vigorous autumn growth, bearing large and luxuri-ous blooms. The Tea, China, Bourbon, and Noisette roses which flower best on young wood, should be well cut in.

RENOVATING OLD ORCHARDS, -Several modes are recommended how this can be successfully done, but we do not see how it can be more effectually done than by the one have frequently recommended. That is to cut out all the dying wood and threefourths of the suckers, scrap the trunks of the trees completely, removing all the old hard, broken bark ; wash with a prepation of whale oil, soap and water, a pound of the soap to a bucke of water and give the orchard, not merely under the trees, but every part of it, a heavy top-dressing of good barnyard manure. If there is any life or productiveness life in the trees this will bring it out. The suggestion that the trunks of the trees should be shorn of all the boughs and allowed to sucker, and some of these when large enough grafted, will prove a failure. The grafting of the ordinary suckesrs growing from the trunks of old trees can rarely be done with suc-cess. We tried this several times, and the grafts all died at the end of the second or third year. Far better to graft the old trees whenever there is any smooth-darked wood mear enough to a main bough. They will not only grow but in most cases fruit the second year, and always the third year. -Germantown Telegraph.

Horse Radish for Animals.—Horse radish is an excellent condiment to mix with the food of cows, to give them an appetite, and make them look sleek and thrifty. It should be fed freely to all animals that are not well and animals that are not well and the stem to break out in a more aggravated form, and perhaps after Marriage. CACRLING .- Fool as a ben proves herself to be when she cackies, because she has laid an egg, she is not half such a fool as when she sits upon eggs and hatches flucks, and does not know that they are not chickens until they take to the water, and to eating garbage, and is not sure of it then. Her folly begins when she dosn't know the difference between her own shapely white eggs and the pale green aquat ones of the duck; it increases to temporary insanity when she clucks about with pride and scratches for the sustenance of a lot of flat-footed, spoon-billed creatures, with as much resemblance to chickens as the slender silvery salmon bears to the slimy broad headed codfish, and it de-scends into absolute idiocy, when she flies to an island stand to guard her spurious hicks from the dangers of the mill-pond. Mankind furnish examples of such fifty and madness when they brood over and hetch schemes which, blinded by the pride of supposed materatty, they do not recog-nize as not their own until the cyll which is in them begins unmistakably to show itself, and makes manifest their real nature. If it were not for the warning cache of languistic land would be overrun with fewls. If it were not for the warning cache of men a breed of monsters might be hatched which would overrun and disturb the

For restoring Gray Hair to its natural Vitality and Color.

A dressing wnich is at once agrecable. healthy, and effectual for preserving the hair. Faded or gray hair is soon restored to its original color with the gloss and freshness of youth. Thin hair is thickened, falling harr checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use. Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed. But such 'as remain can be saved for usefulness by this application. Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sedi-ment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness. Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations daugerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it. If watted merely for a
