A CERTAIN DISEASE.

When the misguided and imprudent votary of pleasure finds that he has imbibed the seeds of this painful disease, it too often happens that an ill-timed sense of shaine, or dread of discovery, deters him from applying to those who, from education and respectability, can alone befriend him, delaying till the constitutional symptoms of the heaving till the constitutional symptoms of him, delaying in the constitutional symptoms of this horrid discusse make their appearance, such as alcorated sore throat, discussed nose, noctural pains in the head and limbs, diamens of sight, deafness, nodes on the shin bones and arms, biotches on the head, face and extremities, progressing with frightful rapidity, till at last the palate of the mouth or the bones of the nose fall in, and the vietlm of this awful disease becomes a horrid object of commiscration, till death puts a period to his dreadful suffering, by seading him to "that Undiscovered Country from whence no traveller returns."

It is a melancholy fact that thousands DIE victims to this terrible disease, through falling into the hands of Ignorant or makiliful PRE-TENDERS, who, by the use of that deadly Points and the control of the

BY JOHN O. WHITTIER.

My old Welsh neighbor over the way Crept slowly out in the sun of spring, Pushed from her ears the locks of gray, And listened to hear the robin sing.

Her grandson, playing at marbles, stopped, And cruel in sport, as boys will be, Tossed a stone at the bird, who hopped From bough to bough in the apple tree. "Nay !" said the grandmother, "have you not

Now trust in Providence is a proper feeling, but there is a good deal of of truth in the old adage that God will help those who will help themselves. Mis. Newton, on the contrary, had been brought up in a family which was compelled to be economical, and although she was not disposed to deny herself comforts yet she felt that it was desirable to procure

The time that this conversation took place was at the commencement of the second year of their married life. at least twenty-five dollars more than the The first step which Mrs. Newton took. on accepting the charge of the household expenses, was to institute the practice of paying cash for all articles that came under her department. She accordingly called on the butcher and inquired:

How often have you been in the habit Mrs. Newton, quietly.
'What did I understand you to say!' presenting your bills, Mr. Williams ? Once in six months, was the reply

'And I suppose you have somtimes bad 'Yes, one-third of my profits, on an avrage, are swept off by them.'
'And you could afford, I suppose, to sell mewhat cheaper for ready money?"

Yes, and I would be glad if all my cusomers would give me a chance to do so.

'I will set them an example then,' said Mrs. Newton, 'Hereafter whatever articles shall be purchased of you will be paid for on the spot, and we shall expect you to sell as reasonable as you can.'
This arrangement was also made with the others, who, it is scarcely needful to say were very glad to enter into the arrangement. Ready money is the great support of the trade, and a cash customer is worth two who purchase on credit.

Fortunately Mrs. Newton had a small supply of money of her own which lasted till the first monthly installment for her husband became due. Thus the was enabled to carry out her cash plan from the

Another plan which occurred to her is Another plan which occurred to her is tikely to save expense, was to purchase articles in larger quantities. She had soon saved enough from the money allowed her to do this. For example, instead of buying sugar a few pounds at a time, she purchased a barrel, and thus saved a cent or more on the pound. This, perhaps, amounted to but a trifle in the course of a year, but the same system carried out in regard to other articles yielded a result which was by no means a trifle. by no means a tride.

There were other ways in which a care-ful housekeeper is able to limit expense, Mrs. Newton did not overlook with an object in view she was always on the lookout to prevent waste, and to get the full value of whatever was expended. ADVERTISING SCHEDULE

The result was beyond her anticipation. At the closs of the year, on examining her bank book—for she had regularly deposited whatever money she had not occasion to use in one of these institutions—she found that she had one hundred and fifty dollars besides reimbursing herself for the money the first month, and having enough to last another.

'Well, Elizabeth, have you kept within your allowancu?' asked her husband at this time. "I guess you have not found it ous arrangements of the house that he had reason to be grateful for the prudence of his managing wife.

The Next Best Thing.

Stratagens and practical jokes between members of the same family by way of rebuke are sometimes more effectual than words, in the parties are good natured, but they are too dangerous agents to be safely used. Not many men would have put up with the loss of a dinner so quietly as the slack husband mentioned below, or stopped to think whether he deserved it: this time. "I guess you have not found it so easy to save as you thought for."
'I have saved something, however,' said his wife. 'But how is it with you?'
'That's more than I can say. However I have not exceeded my income, that's one good thing. We have liked to the same that it is not say.

'It's knack, Ezra,' said his wife smiling.
She was not inclined to mention how much she had saved. She wanted some time or other to surprise him with it when it would be of some service.

'She may possibly have saved up twentyfive dollars,' thought Mr. Newton, 'or some such trifle,' and soo dismissed the matter from his mind. I have no wood to burn to-day. What shall I do ?

'O, send Louisa round to pick up some,' said my grandfather.

'But she has picked up all she can find.'

'Then let her break up some old stuff.'

'But she has broken up everything already.'

'O, well, then, do the next best thing—I must be off,' said the farmer; and, no doubt, wondering in his heart what the next best thing would turn out to be.

Noon came, and with it came my grandfather and his four hungry laborers. My grandmother stood in the kitchen, spinning on her great wheel and singing little ditty. how she had succeeded, supposing, as be-fore, that it could be but a very small sum. However he had a piece of good news to communicate. His salary had been raised on her great wheel, and singing little ditty;

Louisa sat scouring tins in the back room, and the cat sat purring on the hearth before a black and fireless chimney, while the table sat in the middle of the room, spread from a thousand to twelve hundred dollars. He added: 'As I before allowed you one half my income for household expenses, it is no more than fair I should do so now. That will give you a better chance to save part of it than before. Indeed, I don't know how you succeeded in saving anything thus far.' for dinner, but with empty dishes. 'Well, wife, here we ure,' said my grandfather, cheerily.

My grandfather then stated, and my grandmother joined another roll to the yarn upon her distaff and be-gan another verse of her song. 'Why, woman, what does this mean?'

began my grandfather, indignantly. 'This dinner isn't cooked at all.'
'Dear me! is it not?' asked the good wife in pretended astonishment. 'Why, it has set in the sun this four hours."

'Set in the sun !'

'Yes ; you told me to try the next best thing to having a fire, and I thought setting my dinner in the sun was about that.'
My grandfather stood doubtful for a moment; but finally his sense of humor overcame his sense of injury, and he laughed aloud. Then picking up his hat, he said:

'Come, boys, we might as well start for the woods. We shall have no dinner till it necessary to employ the whole or not.

A discharged soldier who settled in Kansas writes to a Western paper some details of his experience, which will be of interest to those who wish to engage in farming where land is cheap. He located a homestead of 160 acres in Dickinson county, within fourteen miles of the Bansas Pacific railroad as good land, he says, as can be found in Kansas or in Kentucky. His home-stend cost him $18,50; he has to live on it five years, and at the expiration of that period, if he can prove he has not been absent from it more than six months at one time, he can get a patent for it from the Govern-ment, and it is then his to dispose of as ha thinks proper. But outside of railroad limits there is no such distinction. Water is found there by digging at an average depth of forty feet. Timber is scarce and lumber expensive. Horses are high, but Indian ponies can be bought at from $30 to $60 cach. They are good for herding or for common light service.
