OF BEAVER COUNTY. For Surveyer General, ROBERT B. BEATH,

OF SCHUYLKILL COUNTY. IT is amusing to see the wire-pullers of the opposition, try to reconcile the disaffec tion in their ranks in this county. Every plan is being adopted to quiet those candidates who have been clearly cheated out of their nominations. It places the Democracy in a bad situation, and many, we have no doubt, would willingly recall the county, were they now willing to submit. But the matter has gone too far. The leaders of that party have given promises from year to year to keep that element with them, and occasionally given an office to prove their sincerity, now the tactics are to Pennsylvania, but is a high tribute to an being changed and that element has concluded they had lived long enough on promises, and they take charge of the offices of years past, he stands at the head of our and see whether their leaders are willing to live on promises for a while. But as some are not willing to adhere to such propositions, we find correspondents, claiming to be located in different parts of the county, pretending that all were satisfied in their locality, and willing to submit to the most glaring frauds ever perpetrated upon any party. One of these correspondents from a disaffected district says, "the political horizon seems to Pennsylvania, but throughout the Union, be cleared of those threatening clouds of having long been known as a true and faithnoted General, "all is quiet along the lines" at present." This is done to get other districts reconciled, for we are informed by the most prominent Democrats in that same Democratic party are opposed to the wholesale frauds by which the candidates are nominated, and will not submit to be ruled by the element in the coal region. We state these facts to show how well some of the leaders understand shutting the eyes of and at his request, we are called on to ansome of the more honest portion of their party, and as it is an old dodge, we have no coming Presidential contest; and to furdoubt that by the time election comes off ther assure those who value his opinions in doubt that by the time election comes off they will have most of them convinced, that the injudicious agitation of the subject of candidates at this time everything is fair and square, and all for forces him to break a silence which should the good of the party.

PRESIDENT AND VICE PRESIDENT .-The early movement in opening the Presidential campaign by the citizens of Maryland, is very significant, and the selection of Gen. Grant for President, and Gen. Cameron for Vice President, is beyond a doubt, the best and most popular selection that could have been made at this time. The movement is proper, and is made with exceeding good judgment.

Gen. Grant, it has long been conceeded, will receive a re-nomination for President. His administration has been one of unexampled and almost unexpected success. Having successfully battled through the troubles, disorders and difficulties, which pervailed when inaugurated into office, and ruled with a steady hand the general welfare and prosperity of the country, the people have gained confidence in him, and approved his course. They have tried him and have not found him wanting in essential particular as the head of the government of this great growing diversified napromises made to the Irish voters of the tion, and express themselves willing to trust him with the management of our national affairs for another term.
