A Fight in the Woods.

Some years ago, while in the northern part of Maine, I spent the month of Sep-tember and a portion of October, at a "hayfarm" on the borders of Chamberlain lake —lake Apmoogenegsmook, the Indians used to call it. The whole region was al-most an unbroken wilderness. Game was plenty, and by way of recreation from my duties of assisstant engineer, I had set up a "line of traps" for mick and sable-'saple' as old trappers say-along a small but very rapid, noisy stream called Bear Brook, which comes down into the lake through a gorge between two high, spruce-clad mountains.

After setting them, I shot a number of red squirries for a 'drag,' and thus connected the traps together. Perhaps I should explain that a drag is a bundle of squirrels or partridges newly killed and from which blood is dripping, are dragged along by a withe from trap to trap, to make a trul and scent, so that the mink and sable will follow it.

I had never seen one of these creatures. It had often heard hunters and trappers tell what pests they were—following them on their rounds, robbing and tearing up their traps almost as rapidly as they could set them. Indeed, I had read in Baird's evils produced. Surely, if there is a business in the world that demands patience and perseverance, it is trapping. At least it took about all I could summon, to go resignedly to work, make new spindles, catch fresh bait, and set the traps again, especially with the prospect of having the same task to perform the next morning. I went at it, how-ever, and by II o'clock had them all set save one, where the sable had been caught when, on approaching it through the thick spraces, I saw a large raceoon gnawing at the sable's head. The miasma of lates in the postules. The miasma of social pox is multiplied by heat, moisture and foul air. Thus, a small quantity of the malaria in a hot, damp, and filthy house, will increase so rapidly that the entire building will soon become a magazine of poison. The poison can not develop itself in a pure and dry atmosphere, hence, the first and most important preventive means of this loathsome disease is to remove all filth and moisture from dwellings. The second preventive measure consists in keeping the functions of the body active. This can be accomplished by avoiding excesses, by baths, a regular diet, and strict attention to cleanliness in every respect. Third, by vaccination when properly per-formed. The best lymph to be used in arm or calf of the leg. (not sufficiently to lowing it to remain until it is entirely dry. should be repeated every two or three Home. days. In order to have vaccination certainly protective against small pox it must produce the following constitutional sympoms :- light pain in the head; aching of the muscles; chilly sensations, and some fever, together with the development of a well defined pustule, which will appear first, as a small blister, then fill with grayish lymph, will dry and become of a mahogany color, and, upon scaling off, will leave a pit. Indomination may appear around the pustule, but as that occurs frequently as the result of the scarifying, it is not a positive indication that the vaccine disease has been perfectly developed. If the vaccination has been perfect the system is as much protected as it can be, and obser-vations prove that it is a preventive of Worthless Imposters advertising items alves as Physicians, trifling with and ruining the health of all who infortunately fall into their power, that Dr. Johyston deems it inscessary to say expecially to those unacquainted with his reputation that his Credentials or Diplomes always hang in his office.

MY WIFE'S BRIDAL TOUR .- When I married my second wife she was dreadful set about going on a bridal tour. I told her she'd better wait six months or a year, and I'd try to go with her; and she said she'd rather go alone—when a woman is traveling, a man is an out-and out humbug. So I gave her seventy five cents, and told her to go and have a good time. I never begrudge money when my wife's happiness is concerned. My first wife never could complain of not going anywhere—for I am dreadful to go off on a good time myself, and always was. I don't pretend to say how many times I took her out to see the sights; and there was no end to the free lectures I let her go to. The neighbors used to say: "It bents all how the Skinners do go!"

When the circus was in Skunkville the manager gave my wife a complimentary ticket. I not only sold that ticket for my wife, but gave her half the money. I don't boast of it; but I only mention it to show how much I thought of her happiness.

I don't think any man ought to get mar-ried until he can consider his wife's happiness only second to his own. John Wise, a neighbor of mine, did thusly, and when I got married I concluded to do likewise. But the pian didn't work in the case of my second wife. No-I should say not. I brouched the subject kindly.

lose them. I started out to tell you all about my wife's bridal tour; but the fact is, I never could find out much about it myself. I believe she had a good time. She came back improved in health; and I found out before she was in the house twenty-four hours that she had gained in strength also. I didn't say how I found out. I simply say I found out.

In conclusion, I would say to all young men, marry your second wife first, and out of debt by all means, even if you have the money to do it.

How GIRLS MAY BE HEALTHY.—Let a girl, during the years 12 to 18 spend but one hour daily in mental labor, taking up one study at a time, walk another hour, labor at some agreeable employment three or four hours, read an hour, sleep all she wants during the night, but never take daytime "naps," cat plain, nourishing food, mostly bread or boiled beef, and every day indulge in all the fun and frolic which her youthful spirits can devise, and she will become healthy, happy and intelligent. Then, from eighteen to twenty-one, she may attend college, and will find herself better able to carry off prizes than the girls who have been always at school. But she will not have developed wiry muscular strength equal to the young men of her own age, because nature has forbidden it. A girl is provided from birth with more adipose tissue than a boy, not as some suppose, to keep her warm, but to render her muscles more juicy, soft and yielding than his. The investigations of some anatomists have also proved that her body contains a much greater number of nerves and that her arterial system on approaching womanhood becomes more largely developed than his. I, therefore, cannot at all agree with the writer who says. "We see no way ou! of this difficulty but to commence with the cradle, and educate girls as pearly like boys as possible." A venerable deacon evidently absorbed
