Select Poetry.

THERE IS LIGHT BEYOND.

Though you stand beneath the shadow, Oh, do not be dismayed,
But with bold, true heart press onward,
Through the darkness and the shade,
To the light beyond.

He who dwells deep in the valley, Only sees the tempest cloud That obscares the mountain summit With its thick impervious shroud, And the light beyond. Though your heart is bathed in sorrow And despair, look far above; You will see the justrons shining

Of the stars of Hope and Love In the light beyond. Through Deata's dark, mysterious shadow
We must pass, to teach heaven's light;
Then sad hearts, why still keep pining
To grope here in worldly night,
When there's light beyond?

The Science of Advertising.

Judicious advertising always pays. If you have a good thing, advertise it. If you haven't, don't. Large type isn't necessary in advertising.

Blind folks don't rend newspapers.

Don't be afraid to invest in printers ink, lest your sands of life be nearly run out. Never run down your opponent's goods in public. Let him know his own adver-

Let your advertisments have something of the dash in them, without great exaggeration. You can't eat enough in one week to last you a whole year, and you can't advertise on that plan either.

It's as true of advertising as of anything else in the world—if it is worth doing at all, it is worth doing well.

Hand bills and circulars are good of their George McEliece, Esq., Treasurer of Northum

Hand bills and circulars are good of their kind, but they cannot take the place of newspaper advertisements.

Injudicious advertising is like fishing where there's no fish. You need to let lines fall in the right place.

No bell can ring so loudly as a good advertisement. People will believe what they see rather than what they hear.

Small advertisements, and plenty of them, is a good rule. We were all babies once, yet we made considerable noise.

When you advertise, see that you do it on the same principal that you buy goods. becland County, in account with the Common-wealth of Pennsylvania, respecting Livenies, from the firm day of Juneary, A. D. 1871, to the Tet day of December, 1871, both days inclusive.

on the same principal that you buy goods. Get the most you can for the money. We don't recommend advertising as the best way to get a wife; but we know that it is the best way to get a good trade. People who advertise only once in three months forget that most folks can't remember anything longer than about seven If you can arouse curiosity by an adver-tisement, it is a great point gained. The fair sex don't hold all the curiosity in the

A constant dropping will wear a rock. Keep dropping your advertisements on the public and they will soon melt under it like rock salt. Quitting advertising in dull times is like tearing out a dam because the water is low. 600 00 Either plan will prevent good times from ever coming. "Dull times," it is said, "are the best for advertisers." Because when money is tight, and the people are forced to economize, they always read the advertisements to ascertain who sells the cheapest, and where they can trade to the best advantage.

According to the character or extent of your business, set aside a liberal percentage for advertising. Keep yourself un-ceasingly before the public; and it matters not what business of utility you may be engaged in, for, if intelligently and indus-trious pursued, a fortune will be the result. The man who advertises shows not only School Board, Supervisors of Roads and OverSchool Board, Supervisors of Roads and Su

Women as Special Correspondents. It is as special correspondents that women have won their chief success in journalism. There is scarcely a paper of weight and versatility which has not upon its staff. at least one feminine correspondent. Wo-713 95 tren is par excellence the letter-writer of her race. To every detail she gives a dainty charm-a certain quality that strikes one as the perfume of the sweet human flower. Every one who possesses the friendship of thoughtful, spirituelle women must feel the $3.087 64 regret that often comes to me-the regret that their personal letters, full of tact, vivacity, and humor, are not for the world's enjoyment. The captivating gossip of De Savigne, the modern graces of that most graceful writer, Kate Field, are daily rivalled in private letters which but one pair of eyes probably ever seans. Lord Chester-field's stately pintitudes, Walpole's haugh-ty ironies, Sydney Smith's sometimes vulgar wit, Charles Lamb's buoyant fun, bave for years and years been cited as models of epistolary excellence in men. I'd give them all for that one letter, so deliciously simple and naive, in which young Fanny Burney describes her dinner with the great > Newspaper correspondence makes a kind of literary seventh heaven for a clever and large minded woman. To find free space and appreciation for her written talk are inspirations in themselves. Her worst faults are haste and carelessness in transcribing her impressions—thus allowing sudden prejudices and preferences to stand above her name as well considered judgments. The characteristic womanly dislike to method, with the necessity for "regular" letters, must bear the blame of this. I must confess that the feminine newspaper letters are occasional ones. Men are much more even in correspondence, but what women lack in literary trustworthiness they more than make up in picturesqueness, naivete, clan—a vivid clasti-city that belongs to them and them alone. "Gush" is in correspondence an amiable fault. We can't afford to spare enthusiasm altogether, even if it does sometimes incautious praise or vague redundancy of expression. The modern journalist often sacrifices literary art to much less worthy > Grace Greenwood's droll and picturesqua sketches, and those of Kate Field, nearly always acute, vivacious, and suggestive, are examples of our best faminine newspa-per correspondence. The lasting success of a woman in this kind of work depends very much upon her avoidance of the of small personalities-a rock upon which correspondents less cultured than these are apt to be quickly wrecked .- Nelly Hutchinson in April Galaxy.

THE VILLAGE SHORMAKER .- Did you ever go to the village shoemaker's? If not go at once; it will pay the trouble. If you don't believe it, try it on. I have been. I was there to-day. I went to get my boot mended. If you have't any boots to mend, take the ax and cut a hole in one. The *19 00 first thing the cobbler does is to take the *64 50 boot in his hand and give it a critical examination. This takes several minutes. $3,472 52 $44,622 67 $2,262 95 He then asks you how it was done; if you cut your foot; how long it has been, etc. Then, if you are in a great hurry, he takes tain horse trade. Just then a couple of dogs commence fighting in the street and he goes out and stays half an hour. He loses a quarter, for which you rejoice. You then modestly intimate that you are in a hurry. He looks around, and says he can not fix it to day, and you go home.
