MISCELLANEOUS. LOCAL OPTION. THE LAW CONSTITUTIONAL—OPINION OF A MAJORITY OF THE SUPREME COURT SUSTAINING THE CONSTITUTIONALITY OF THE LAW DISSENTING OPINION OF CHIEF JUSTICE READ AND JUDGE SHARWOOD.

Supreme power of the State, commanding what is right and prohibiting what is wrong. Now I think no one would doubt if the Legislature were to submit to the people of a county or township, or ward, the question whether murder should be punished by imprisonment only and let the people vote "capital punishment" or "no capital punishment," that would be a law, and the Legislature would not delegate it to the people.

Supreme Court in Banc—Chief Justice Read, and Judge Agnew, Sharwood and Williams. This morning Judge Agnew delivered the opinion of the majority of the court in the Local Option cases.

A Young Lady Farmer. The Prairie Farmer says: "We lately had the pleasure of interviewing" a Miss A., of Illinois, who for some years past has been engaged in carrying on a farm of 120 acres; and, deeming her example worthy of imitation in these days of unhealthy and lackadaisical womanhood, we have written a few notes for the benefit of our readers.

DISSENTING OPINION. Chief Justice Read and Judge Sharwood dissented from the majority opinion, and the Chief Justice read an opinion, maintaining that the power of making laws was given to the Legislature, and by express words confined to that body; the correction of laws by another power, vested in the Governor; and the Legislature could no more delegate its functions than the judiciary.

YOUNG MEN. Who have injured themselves by a certain practice indulged in when young, and who are now suffering from the consequences, should be warned that the disease is not curable, and that the only hope is to be found in the use of a certain medicine.

CERTAIN DISEASE. When the misguided and imprudent votary of pleasure finds that he has imbibed the seeds of a certain disease, he should be warned that the disease is not curable, and that the only hope is to be found in the use of a certain medicine.

DR. JOHNSTON'S REMEDY. A remedy for all diseases of impuritude, discovered by Dr. Johnston, and which has cured thousands of cases.
