FLUID EXTRACT BUCHU,

BALTIMORE LOCK HOSPITAL Tales und Sketches. A HURRIED COURTSHIP.

I was a young man, possessed of suffi-cient means to enable me to live at my ease, and refrain from labor of any kind, when suddenly their came a blow that scattered my prosperity to the winds, and forced me to employ my labor and wits in the general straggle of gaining a living. The blow came in the shaps of the failure of a large firm in which all my capital was invested. invested.

invested. After scenring a clerkship in the house of a creditor of our iate firm, my first care was to look up a less expensive boarding house than the fashionable one in which I was living. I inserted an advertisement in several widely circulated city papers, asking for reasonable board in a strictly private family, and of course received a multitude of answers by next post. Out of this motley installment of epistles, there was but one which pleased me, and that one I decided to answer in person immediately. Grace Kingsley was the name of the favored landlady writing to me, and the let-ter stated that her house was entirely private, having no other boarders whatever. I was much pleased with the fair, delicate handwriting, and an idea took me that Grace was a young and fascinating widow. I was not disappointed when I reached the bouse, and my ringing at the door bell was answered by the lady herself. She invited me into the parlor in a manner so conrieous, and yet so modest, that I had fallen despe rately in love with her before I could cross the threshold. I enjoyed a very pleasant chat with Mrs.

Sielan.

Impotency, Loss of Power, immediately Cursid and full Vigor Restored.
This Distressing Affection—which renders Life miserable and marriage impossible—is the peakity paid by the viotims of improper indulgences.
Young persons are too apt to commit excesses from not being aware of the dreadful consequences that may ensue. Now, who that understands the subject will pretend to deny that the power of procreation is lost sooner by those falling into improper habits than by the prudent? Besides being deprived the pleasures of healthy offspring, the most serious and destructive symptoms to both body and mind arise. The system becomes de-ranged, the Physical and Mental Functions Weakened, Loss of Procreative Power, Nervous Irritability, Dyspepais, Papitation of the Heart, Indigestion, Constitutional Debility, a Wasting of the Frame, Cough, Consumption, Decay and Death. Kingsley. During the conversation she in-formed me that her late husband had been in a fair way of business, and that at his death, which occurred a year previous, had left her in pretty fair circumstances. They had but one child ; and this item of mortality I was most graciously permitted to look upon, as it lay peacefully sumbering in its cradle. J also learned that the lady was living in the house quite alone, and desired a male boarder more as a protection than as a source of revenue. In conclu-sion, the landlady looked so pretty (she was quite young, not more than two or three and twenty), and the board so mode-A CURE WARRANTED IN TWO DAYS. A CURE WARRANTED IN TWO DAYS. ments of the sex, if I had not engaged board on the spot. The next day I had my trunk removed to my new boarding place, and permanent-ly established myself there. Before leav-ing my former boarding house, a letter was handed me by the postman, but I did not find time to examine it until I was comfort-ably ensconced in the parlor of Mrs. Kings-

Kingsley returned, she might object to my claiming ownership in her child. Besides, to carry out my deception. I must find a wife as well as an infant, and Mrs. Kings-ley was the only one I could conveniently claim. The only difficulty was to get her consent to the deception, and that might be done if I could only secure a private couversation with her before I introduced her to my uncle : then it would be all right. I watched ny constrainty, and cannot I watched my opportunity, and gained an interview with her before she entered the room. I told her in a few brief and hurned words, the extent of my difficulty, and how I had taken the liberty of acting as papa for her little one. I then told her I must find a wife somewhere, and begged her to allow me to introduce her to my uncle in that capacity. She hughed very heartily at the suggestion, said she could comprehend my difficulty, and consented to my proposal, and very roguishly warned me not to presume upon the occurrence.

We then entered the parlor, and I intro-duced her as not better-half. My uncle was very much plasaced with her, and com-plimented me upon my good choice in the selection of a wife. Mrs. Kingsley, of course, colored most charmingly at this compliment, and I could plainly see that she could scarcely refrain from haughing. 'You have a fine boy here,' said my uncle to Mrs Kingsley, pointing to the cradle. 'Excuse me, sir,' said she, coloring up again ; 'it's a girl.' I was dumfounded. I was exposed in

Well, I always took it for a boy,' was my reply, putting on a bold face, 'but I suppose my wife knows best.' Here Mrs. Kingsley fairly screamed with arrested in his ascent, at a point two hundred feet above us, by an intervening rock, just too high for him to scale. what a pity that a young man, the hope of his country, the darling of his parents, should be enatched from all prospects and enjoyments of life, by the consequence of deviating from the path of nature and indulging in a certain secret habit. Such persons MUST before contemplating MABRIAGE, reflect that a sound mind and bedy are the most noncessary requisites to promote counublal happi-nees. Indeed without these, the journey through life becomes a weary pligrimage; the prospect hourly darkens to the view; the mind becomes shadowed with despair and filled with the melancholy reflection, that the happiness of another becomes blighted with our own.

A CERTAIN DISEASE. A CERTAIN DISEASE. When the misguided and imprudent varary of pleasure finds that he has imbibed the seeds of this painful disease, it too often happens that an ill-timed sense of shame, or dread of discovery, deticts him from applying to those who, fram-education and respectability, can alove befriend him, delaying till the constitutional symptoms of this horid discase much their aumatumes, such this horrid disease make their appearance, such as nicerated core throat, diseased nose, nectural pains in the head and limbs, dimness of sight, deafness, nodes on the shin bones and arms, blotches on the head, face and extremities, progreesing with frightful rapidity, till at last the palate of the mouth or the hones of the nosc fall in, and the victim of this awful disease becomes a horrid object of commiscration, till death puts a period to his dreadful suffering, by sending him to "that Undiscovered Country from whence

It is a melancholy fact that thousands DIE victims to this terrible disease, through falling into the hands of Ignorant or unskillful PRE-TENDERS, who, by the use of that deadly Polson, Mercury, &c., destroy the constitution, and incapable of curing, keep the unhappy sufferer month after month taking their norlous or lujurious compounds, and instead of being restored to a renewal of Life Vigor and Happiness, in des-pair leave him with ruled Health to sigh over

One day, however, about a year previ-ous, I received a letter from him which con-tained another topic besides those I have "Did you expose me ?" I inquired, anx-una in the device of the surface of t tained another topic besides those I have mentioned. My uncle made seme pressing inquiries respecting my matrinonial prospects, and stated that if I was not already married, I should immediately enter into the wedded state, and let him know it, or he never more would be an uncle of mine.

"What answer did you make him ?" I Now, as my uncle lived in Vermont and I in Philadelphia, and as I never antici-pated that the old man would pay me a viasked. it and discover the falsehood, 1 wrote and said : informed him that I was not only married, but also the father of a bouncing baby. This intelligence so pleased my uncle that he sent a gold goblet and a silver pap spoon to be presented to my child. I first sat down and wrote a very romantic letter to my uncle, thanking him for the presents, and then went to the nearest jewelry store and turned both goblet and spoon into cash, which I pocketed. I had received no further letters from my uncle until the one I read in Mrs. Kings ley's parlor. The postscript to this one not only astonished, but absolutely frightened me. I read as follows : "P. S.-I have never visited Philadel-phia, so I have decided to do so at once, We lost no time I assure you. I don't think Mrs. Kingsley ever got into her Sun-day clothes in such a hurry in her life beand get a look at you and your wife and fore, while I spoiled two pairs of suspendchild. "Good gracious !". My uncle is coming haste, and, at the conclusion of the cereto visit me," I exclaimed ; "and it is past the 10th of the mouth now ! I don't know mony, I would have forgotten to give him at what moment he may pop in. What am I to do for a wife and child ?"

At that moment there came a terrible pull at the door beil, and as if the man who pulled it imagined that he owned the house, and could make as much noise as he pleased. A sickening sensation took possession of me, for I had a misgiving that it was my uncle.

Now, as good fortune would have it. Mrs. Kingsley had gone out to a neighboring store for a few moments, and had requested me to have an eye on her child while she was gone, so it wouldn't fall out of the cradle and hurt itself. As I glanced at the ctadle, and thought of my uncle at the door, a bright idea entered my mind. 1 determined in case the visitor was my uncle, to claim the youthful occupant as my
