THE MYSTERY SURROUNDING THE MURDER OF CHARLES GOODRICH SOLVED. -Our readers will remember that some months ago Charles Goodrich, a well-to-do citizen of Brooklyn, was found murdered in one of the dwellings he was about having finished in that city. The murder caused great excitement at the time, and the detectives at once went to work to ferret out the guilty party; and although they made an arrest, and were on the track of others, they failed to get hold of the right system which on one hand makes million--one until last week, when Kate Stoddard, with a number of aliases, was arrested by a female who was in the employ of the detective department. The woman Stoddard had lived with Goodrich before his death, but nothing had been known of her since the murder. It seems now that she had shot Goodrich because he desired to separate from her, and she loved him so much that she could not bear to give him up. She says that at the time the murder was of all grades, and pay men liberally whose committed he was stooping to kindle a fire. daily duty it is to handle large revenues She was standing behind him, and called and perform important services there would him by name and as he turned towards her she fired into his head. HONEST VS. DISHONEST RAILROAD CONDUCTORS.-We fully endorse the following taken from the Harrisburg Journal of Monday last :

see that lately arrests have again been made of conductors charged with defraud-ing the companies for which they run trains. It is deplorable, at all times, to be compelled to regard any set of men as dis-honest, and there is no spectacle so full of misery as that of a man working for a fixed salary thrown from his situation because he is dishonest. The stain thus put upon his character poliutes his whole nature and disgraces all related to him. But we are firmly of the opinion that two out of every three conductors who are tempted to steal, would not do so if the salary paid them was adequate to their support. There is no class of gentlemen from whom so much is expected, whose labors are so onerous and so dangerous, and who secure such beggarly pay, as railroad conductors. We do not argue because this is the fact, the conductor should steal to make up the difference-but we do put it as a reasonable and irrefutable fact, that if railroad corporation paid their conductors' salaries more in just apprecia-

THE PAIS-KILLER
Is good for Scalds and Burns, ed his thoughts to dwell upon an accident THE PAIN-KILLER by which a man lost his life, until his mind had become affected, came to Quakake. Here he fell into the clutches of some train hands, who, perceiving his unfortunate THE PAIS-KILLER condition, resolved to take advantage of it for the purpose of having some sport. So they told him they would show him how to "get religion," and be saved eternally. The poor creature jumped at the offer and resigned himself into the hands of what he supposed were his friends. They took him and painted him, his body and face black, and his hair white! They then placed him beside a stove and kept him there until the paint dried thoroughly. They then var-nished him, leaving his face all streaked and hideous. Having had their fun they let him go. He went away and was subse quently found between Tamaqua and East Mahanoy Junction, dead. This is the story as told to us. We do not vouch for its truth. But we give it publicly as the surest and shortest means of securing a thorough investigation of the matter. We trust it may be found incorrect. If however, it should prove to be true, we are sure public sentiments will demand that the villians who perpetrated the outrage
