ORGANIC WEAKNESS,
Impotency, Loss of Power, Immediately Cured and Full Vigor Restored.
This Distressing Affection—which renders life miserable and marriage impossible—is the penalty paid by the victims of improper indulgence. Many persons are too apt to commit excesses from not being aware of the dreadful consequences that may ensue. Now, who that understands the subject will pretend to deny the power of procreation is lost even by those falling into improper habits than by the prudent? Besides being deprived the pleasures of healthy offspring, the most serious and destructive symptoms to both body and mind arise. The system becomes deranged, the Physical and Mental Functions weakened, Loss of Procreative Power, Nervous Irritability, Dyspepsia, Palpitation of the Heart, Indigestion, Constitutional Debility, Watery of the Frame, Cough, Consumption, Decay and Death.
A CURE WARRANTED IN TWO DAYS.
Persons ruined in health by unlearned pretenders who keep them trifling month after month, taking poisonous and injurious compounds, should apply immediately.
DR. JOHNSON,
Member of the Royal College of Surgeons, London, Graduated from one of the most eminent Colleges in the United States, and the greater part of whose life has been spent in the hospitals of London, Paris, Philadelphia and elsewhere, has effected some of the most astonishing cures that were ever known; many troubled with ringing in the head and ears, who, as they grew nervousness, being alarmed at sudden sounds, bashfulness, with frequent blushing, attended sometimes with derangement of mind, were cured immediately.

TAKE PARTICULAR NOTICE.
Dr. J. addresses all those who have injured themselves by improper indulgence and unwholesome habits, which ruin and unfit them for either business, study, society or marriage.
These are some of the sad and melancholy effects produced by early habits of youth, viz: Weakness of the Back and Limbs, Pains in the Back and Head, Dimness of Sight, Loss of Muscular Power, Palpitation of the Heart, Dyspepsia, Nervous Irritability, Derangement of Digestive Functions, General Debility, Symptoms of Consumption, &c.

MATCHLESS! The fearful effects on the mind arising from this disease—Loss of Memory, Confusion of Ideas, Depression of Spirit, Evil-Foreboding, Aversion to Society, Self-Distrust, Loss of Solitude, Timidity, &c., are some of the evils produced.
THOUSANDS of persons of all ages can now judge what is the cause of their declining health, losing their vigor, becoming weak, pale, nervous and emaciated, having a singular appearance about the eyes, cough and symptoms of consumption.

YOUNG MEN
Who have injured themselves by a certain practice indulged in when alone, a habit frequently formed from evil companions, or at school, the effects of which are mighty evil, even when alone, and if not cured, renders marriage impossible, and destroys both mind and body, should apply immediately.
What a pity that a young man, the hope of his country, that descends to his parents, should be snatched from all prospects and enjoyments of life, by the consequence of deviating from the path of nature and indulging in a certain secret habit. Such persons must be before contemplating MARRIAGE, reflect that a sound mind and body are the most necessary requisites to promote conjugal happiness. Indeed, without these, the journey through life becomes a weary pilgrimage; the prospect hourly darkens to the view; the mind becomes shadowed with despair and filled with the melancholy reflections, and the brightness of another becomes blighted with our own.

A CERTAIN DISEASE.
When the misguided and imprudent votary of pleasure finds that he has imbibed the seeds of his ruin, that disease, that has ruined the health of his countrymen, that has so often broken the heart of the young man, and with an air of exceeding caution, before he has fairly in or at least has sat down, he has taken note of every article or person, though there may be a dozen vacant chairs in the room. He is not used to chairs, and like the Indian prefers more humble seats.

When I was employed by General Harvey last summer to take charge temporarily of the Indians that were gathered near Fort Randall, Dakota, to form a new reservation, one day a guide and trapper came to the general's headquarters. I told him to be seated. He sat down on the floor bracing his back against the wall. The general saw this and in vexation cried out: "My God! why don't you take a chair when there are plenty here unoccupied?" The man arose and seated himself in a chair, but in so awkward and uncomfortable a manner that he looked as if he might slip from it any moment. But when this uncouth person came to transact his business with the general he turned out to be a man of no ordinary abilities. His description of a route he took as guide and trapper for the Ogallalas, in bringing them from the Platte to the fort, was minute and exceedingly interesting. Every war party that crossed his trail he described with minuteness as to their number, the kind of arm they had, and stated the tribes they belonged to. In these strange revelations that he made there was neither importance nor supposition, for he gave satisfactory reasons for every assertion he made. I have hidden several hundred miles with an experienced guide and trapper, Hawk, whom I interrogated upon many points in the practice of his art. Nearly all the tracks I saw either old or new, as a novice in the art, I questioned him about. In going to the Niobrara river we crossed the track of an Indian party. My guide followed the track a few miles, and then said: "It is a stray black horse, with a long, bushy tail, nearly starved to death, has a split hoof of the left forefoot, and goes very lame, and he passed here early this morning." Astonished and incredulous I asked him the reason for knowing these particulars, that crossed his trail when he followed a party of the Niobrara, which he said he saw in a direct line, his tail was long for he

BALTIMORE LOCK HOSPITAL.

DR. JOHNSON,
Physician of this celebrated Institution, has discovered the most certain, speedy, pleasant and effective remedy in the world for all
DISEASES OF THE URINARY TRACT,
Weakness of the Back or Limbs, Strictures, Affections of Kidneys and Bladder, Involuntary Discharges, Impotency, General Debility, Nervousness, Dyspepsia, Prognator, Loss of Spirit, Confusion of Ideas, Palpitation of the Heart, Timidity, Tremblings, Dimness of Sight or Giddiness, Disease of the Head, Throat, Nose or Skin, Affections of Liver, Lungs, Stomach or Bowels, &c. These disorders, arising from the Solitary Habits of Youth—those secret and solitary practices more fatal to their vitality than the most violent and mercurial Venereal Disease, blighting the most brilliant hopes of anticipation, rendering marriage, &c., impossible.

YOUNG MEN
especially, who have become the victims of Solitary Vice, that dreadful and destructive habit, which annually sweeps to an untimely grave thousands of young men of the most exalted talents, and who, by the neglect of their health, have entranced listening Senators with the thunders of eloquence or walked to ecstasy the living life, may call with full confidence.
Married Persons or Young Men contemplating marriage, aware of Physical Weakness, (Loss of Procreative Power—Impotency), Nervous Excitability, Palpitation of the Heart, Nervousness, or any other Disqualification, specially referred to.
He who places himself under the care of Dr. J. may religiously confide in his power as a gentleman and confidently rely upon his skill as a Physician.

Select Poetry.

"I Have Drank My Last Glass."
No, comrades, I thank you—not any for me; My last chain is riveted—beneath me I'm free! I will go to my home and my children to-night With no fears of my own spirits to blight; And with tears in my eyes, I will beg my poor wife To forgive me the wreck I have made of her life! "I have never refused you before!" Let that pass. For I've drank my last glass, boys, I have drank my last glass.

Just look at me now, boys, in rage and disgrace, With my heavy, bagged eyes, and my red, hot nose, and my face!
Mark my faltering step, and my weak palsied hand, And mark the crown on my brow that is worse than Crow's brand.
See my marrowless old hat, and my elbows and knees— Alike warmed by the sun or chilled by the breeze. Why, even the children will not stand at my side, But I've drank my last glass, boys, I have drank my last glass.

You would hardly believe, boys, to look at me now, That a mother's soft hand was pressed on my brow— When she kissed me and blessed me, her darling and pride, Ere she lay down to rest by my dead father's side; But my eyes were in her eyes, she looked up to me, Bidding me meet her there, and whispered, "good-bye!" And I'll not let God helping! Your smile I'll pass; For I've drank my last glass, boys, I have drank my last glass.

Al! I needed home last night—it was not very late. For I'd spent my last sixpence, and landlords won't wait. On a stray dog's left eye I vent in their ill, On a stray dog's left eye, their collars to fill, On the torment I felt, and the pang I endured! And I begged for one glass—just one would have cured!
But they kicked me out doors! I let that to pass: But I've drank my last glass, boys, I have drank my last glass.

At home, my pet Susie, with her golden hair, I saw through the window, just kneeling in prayer. From her pale bony hands her torn sleeves were strangling down. While her feet, cold and bare, shrank beneath her scant gown: And she prayed—for bread, just a poor crust of bread! For one crust—on her knees my pet darling I plead. And I heard with no penny to buy one, alas! But I've drank my last glass, boys, I have drank my last glass.

For Susie, my darling, my wee six-year-old, Though fainting with hunger and shivering with cold, There, on the bare floor, she'd God to bless me! And she said, "Don't cry, mamma! He will; he will for you see!" "Believe! what I asked for!" Then sobered, I creep Away from the house: and that night when I sleep, Next my heart lay the prayer! You smile! let it pass: For I've drank my last glass, boys, I have drank my last glass.

My darling child saved me! Her faith and her love Are able to my near-sighted mother above! I will make her worst true, or I'll die in the race, And I sober! I'll go to my last resting place; And she shall kneel there, and weeping, thank God! Not a drop more of poison my lips shall e'er pass: For I've drank my last glass, boys, I have drank my last glass.

How Indians Track a Trail.
A Dr. Hauschildt gives an interesting account of the extraordinary skill of Indian trappers. The Indian or trapper that is a shrewd trapper is a man of close observation, quick perception and prompt action. As he goes along nothing escapes his observation, and what he sees or hears he accounts for immediately. Often not another step is taken until a mystery, that may present itself in this line, is fairly solved. The Indian trapper is fast still for hours in succession to account for certain traces or effects in tracks and sometimes gives to the matter unremitting attention for days and weeks.

The trapper is not a graceful man. He carries his head much inclined, his eye is quick and restless, always on the watch, and he is practising his art unconsciously, hardly ever crossing the track of man or animal without seeing it. When he enters a house he brings the habits he contracted in the practice of his art with him. I know a trapper soon as he enters my room. He comes in through the door softly, and with an air of exceeding caution. Before he has fairly in or at least has sat down, he has taken note of every article or person, though there may be a dozen vacant chairs in the room. He is not used to chairs, and like the Indian prefers more humble seats.

Selected Poetry.

"I Have Drank My Last Glass."
No, comrades, I thank you—not any for me; My last chain is riveted—beneath me I'm free! I will go to my home and my children to-night With no fears of my own spirits to blight; And with tears in my eyes, I will beg my poor wife To forgive me the wreck I have made of her life! "I have never refused you before!" Let that pass. For I've drank my last glass, boys, I have drank my last glass.

Just look at me now, boys, in rage and disgrace, With my heavy, bagged eyes, and my red, hot nose, and my face!
Mark my faltering step, and my weak palsied hand, And mark the crown on my brow that is worse than Crow's brand.
See my marrowless old hat, and my elbows and knees— Alike warmed by the sun or chilled by the breeze. Why, even the children will not stand at my side, But I've drank my last glass, boys, I have drank my last glass.

You would hardly believe, boys, to look at me now, That a mother's soft hand was pressed on my brow— When she kissed me and blessed me, her darling and pride, Ere she lay down to rest by my dead father's side; But my eyes were in her eyes, she looked up to me, Bidding me meet her there, and whispered, "good-bye!" And I'll not let God helping! Your smile I'll pass; For I've drank my last glass, boys, I have drank my last glass.

Al! I needed home last night—it was not very late. For I'd spent my last sixpence, and landlords won't wait. On a stray dog's left eye I vent in their ill, On a stray dog's left eye, their collars to fill, On the torment I felt, and the pang I endured! And I begged for one glass—just one would have cured!
But they kicked me out doors! I let that to pass: But I've drank my last glass, boys, I have drank my last glass.

At home, my pet Susie, with her golden hair, I saw through the window, just kneeling in prayer. From her pale bony hands her torn sleeves were strangling down. While her feet, cold and bare, shrank beneath her scant gown: And she prayed—for bread, just a poor crust of bread! For one crust—on her knees my pet darling I plead. And I heard with no penny to buy one, alas! But I've drank my last glass, boys, I have drank my last glass.

For Susie, my darling, my wee six-year-old, Though fainting with hunger and shivering with cold, There, on the bare floor, she'd God to bless me! And she said, "Don't cry, mamma! He will; he will for you see!" "Believe! what I asked for!" Then sobered, I creep Away from the house: and that night when I sleep, Next my heart lay the prayer! You smile! let it pass: For I've drank my last glass, boys, I have drank my last glass.
