With Spiral Flanges. This celebrated Lightning Conductor, owing to the material from which it is made and the monner of its construction, is the most complete protection against disaster by Lightning ever invented. This is conclusively shown by a practical test of over four years, during which time it has been in constant use, being erected upon many thousands of private and public buildings in all has cured the above complaints in thousands of the country; and although there have fallen upon it, in numerous instances, most terrific discharges of electricity, yet in no instance has a falled to conduct them harmlessly to the
