By reference to the apportionment bill in another column, as it passed the Legislature, it will be seen that Union, Snyder and Northumberland counties compose the 27th Senatorial district. Strong efforts were made to connect this county with Montour and Columbia, which were only frustrated by the Hon Charles S. Wolf, member of Union county, who saved the Republicans of this county from an irredeemable Democratie district. We certainly feel grateful to Mr. Wolf for his recognition and untiring efforts, and congratulate him upon his success in having the district formed as it now is, in opposition to both our members and Senator, who were aided by a few professing Republicans desiring to have this Senatorial district Democatic, from selfish motives. While Mr. Wolf was always active in protecting the interests of his constituents, the Repubcans of this county are greatly indebted to him for his watchfulness over their interests during the past two years in the Leg-

Half took the street cars and the other half plodded their weary way on foot.

It is singular how little a thing makes or mars the happiness of the denizen of Gotham. In this matter of transportation, for instance, anything that interferes with curious topic of study. One hundred years ago people of Anglo-Saxon stock drank ore or less, nearly all cleared and in good state coarse, alcholic drinks to the most beastly of cultivation, on which are crected a two-story excess. The habit was universal, and Log Dwelling House, practiced openly and without disgrace. Men of all degrees literally wallowed in Bank Barn, Wagou Shed, and outbuildings. There is also on said premises a variety of fruit drunkenness, and the number of bottles a trees and a never failing spring of water.

sound drinker could put under his belt and live was a matter of proud boasting. The refinement, and, it may be added, the hypocrisy, of modern society has changed all this, and made it disreputable to drink deeply, and, in many parts of our own country, to drink at all. But in fact, is there less consumption of alcholic drinks than went on a century ago? I believe the amount consumed will be found to be about the same per head, and that the sarious temperance movements have not essentially lessened the amount used. The way of using it has changed and what was formerly practiced openly is now done in secret, and orgies which would have set English society a blushing in the time of Georges, are now occurring under the safe roof of many a brown stone dwelling along the avenue. I know a lady-and she is not
