PEACH CHOP ESTIMATE. - As the peach season approaches the estimates of the brobable size of the crop become more immediately interesting. County Finances. It is really amusing to see the consistency and wonderful ability displayed by Mr. Hottenstein and Mr. Eichholtz in dissecting the County Auditors' Report of 1873. The comments on the do cument almost enables Mr. Eichholtz to dispense for a season with his 'Patent Outsides We shall note, as a matter of curiosity, a few of the leading points taken by Mr. Hottenstine in his first onslaught on the County Treasurer and Auditors. He undertakes to convince Mr. Eichholtz in 5 minutes time (provided, he Eichholtz, made no mistake in copy) that the late Treasurer, Mr. Cadwallader, went out of office with some $7,833 63 of public money in his pocket, and should be made to refund both principal and nterest to the county. He arrives at his figures in the following ingenious way: He takes the excess of receipts above expenditures $11,072 75 and subtracts the Treasurer's indebtedness on settlement $3,240 12 from said amount, which produces his figures $7,832 63. This sum, in his different communications, has been made to vary, sometimes higher and sometimes lower. Now let us apply Mr. Hottenstine's rule to the Audit of 1872, and we will find that the excess of expenditures above receipts was $816 64, and yet on settlement with the Treasurer, the Auditor's ound him indebted to the county $3,477 62. Then according to Mr. Hottenstine's method, Mr. Cadlively appearance, being lined with people for at | wallader should have received the $816 64 instead of paying in addition to that sum $3,477 62, consequently Mr. Cadwallader must have been wronged to the amount of $4,294 26. Now, does any sane person suppose that a man with the business qualifications of Mr. Cadwallader, a man who knew at the close of every day's transactions how he stood in account with the county would have submitted to such an act of injustice to himself? Yet, according to Mr. Hottenstine, that would have been the mode of settlement. The Board of County Auditors also fell under the ban of Mr. Hottenstine's displeasure, because they dared to make some explanatory remarks regarding extraordinary expenses incurred by the county during 1873. Those explanations were no part of the report, but simply attached after the signing of the certificate. He at once saw a terrible political bug-bear behind these explanations. He calls them absurd, bungling, contemptible, and seemed to exhaust his vocabulary of words to paint them in their hideons enormity. This seemed very unnecessary Point township, has been postponed until Mon- on the part of Hottenstein, when we reflect that we are living in an colightened age, when every tax-payer can read, and form his own opinions on such matters. Hottenstine and Eichholtz, well knowing the impossibility of convincing men against their will and interest, but simply to further explain to the public those points in the report which were attacked. Upon those explanatious being stone of these lands is of the first quality, and made, Mr. Eichholtz hurls particular thunder at for making explanations; Mr. Eichholts decounces them for not making more explanations

The County Auditors never laid any claim to infallibility; they are liable to errors with the rest of humanity-Messrs. Hottenstine and The correspondent of the Miltonian whose Eichholtz alone excepted. But in their late au- cheap. Collars and necktics of every description language in reference to the celebration in the dit they have given satisfactory proof to every Park on the 4th we copied erbatim, tries to play the role of innocence. Last week he wrote a communication to the Gazette and a letter to the Millonian, and we would not be surprised at all fully and investigation for the surprised at all fully and investigation for the surprised at all fully and investigation for the fully and investigation for the surprised at all fully and the surprised at all fully and investigation for the surprised at all fully and the surprised fully and impartially, is a very grave and one proving his innocence. He first says that Auditors, if required by law, and public demand, we "undertook to distort his language," and to publish every order issued by the County It would perhaps be a little difficult to explain the object of every order merely a joke, not knowing at the time that any granted to the satisfaction of some parties in the unty. They might perhaps demand to know the precise geographical locality where every ers granted an order on the Treasurer, &c ; but him to make him believe it was all a joke, thus in that way general satisfaction might perhaps ing such a report would be a triffe to good economists. We are certain by comparing annual reports with our sister counties, that Northumberland county reports are as full and complete as most respectable German citizens having asked any we see. Mr. Eichholtz can see nothing stine for information from the County Auditors which he or any other tax-payer had a right to ral sum of fifty cents. Our remarks were not make. We would ask any unprejudiced man to read the articles of Mr. Hottenstine, and if there is not malice or contempt in almost every sentence, we know nothing about the meaning of the to take umbrage at any of his waywardness English language. If this is gentlemanly language, ruflianism must be terrible when reduced to writing. If Mr. Hottenstine had been in quest few more such correspondents, Sunbury would of information regarding facts of the report beyond his comprehension, and had approached either of the auditors with common decency, they would no doubt have satisfied him to the joke, might have done well enough for Tom Col-line, but it is not in good keeping with Elders been in connection with the Board for seven years in succession, and for accuracy in accounts

TRIBUTE OF RESPECT.

At a regular stated meeting of Seven Point Council ditions were adopted.
WHEREAS, It has pleased Almighty God, in his all-wise rovidence, to remove from our midst by death, our early beloved Brother, Jonathan Wolf, one of our best d most energetic members. Whereas, Bro. Welf, in his connections with our ouncil as a charter member, has been eminently faith-al in the discharge of his duties, endearing himself all by his kindness, setting an example well worthy of sitation; therefore Revolved, That while we low with submission to that roothlener, which is too wise to err and too good to be inkind, we cannot but deeply mourn the loss sustained in the death of our Brother.

Resolved, That the memory of our esteemed Brother thall always occupy a prominent place in the memories of our Council, and that while sorrowing because of this our but partially realized loss, we are nevertheless compared by the thought that to him the call to his eternal the was not unwelcome; that to him death was no but gain; and that of him it could with truth b "None knew him but to love him, None named him but to praise, Resolved. That we tender our heartfelt sympathy to his afflicted Child, the only remains of our departed Bro-ther, and while she mourns the loss of a beloved father, we mourn the loss of a good and faithful member and Resolved. That we drape our Council Chamber for irty days.

Resolved, That these resolutions be published in the
