Does it not seem, dear reader, as though

Is it not generally known that there are beings in the world known as summer friends? Transcient indeed is their friendship, and from all such may we be preserved. While prosperity blesses, they cling to one and are never more friendly and pleasant, but let adversity hover over and around one, their friendship flees away and they prove themselves fickle and inconstant. We have found many new friends; friends who have indeed been kind and true; friends who can and do sympathise with one in trouble and sorrow; whose helping hands have kindly been extended to alleviate one's suffering; whose hearts are full of sympathy for the afflicted and sorrowing; friends whose love exists not only during the summer of prosperity, but through the spring, summer, autumn and

It is a blessed comfort to have good, kind, substantial friends. How double welcome they are when sickness overtakes one. What a halo of brightness their presence sheds around and about the room. How they draw at one's heart-string as they minister to your wants, smooth the pillow, bathe the fevered brow and in a hundred ways express their friendship. Yes! they come to us even more welcome than the spring sunshine. God bless them. How many prayers ascend from stricken ones for friends. May they, when life's pilgrimage is forever ended, obtain an abundant entrance into the Heavenly Kingdom, and may the loving voice of the Master welcome them with the works He spake to those of old, "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these My brethren, ye have done it unto Me." The first course was served at half-past four and was the most elaborate of the series. Every luxury of the 'Melican man's market,' as the interpreter expressed it, was served upon this table for the purpose of tickling the palates of the American guests. Turkey, chicken, quail, goose, duck, pigeous, prairie chicken; deer, antelope and numberless other game was served, together with the usual allowance of champagne and a dozen other varieties of imported and California wines. In the upper room, where the principal banquet was progressing. fifteen round tables were spread, with twelve Chinamen at each table. In a sort of alcove leading from the main room, a long table was spread in magnificent style for fifteen American guests. During the course an orange was laid at the plate of each guest. The orange itself seemed like any other orange, but on being cut open was found to contain within the rind five kinds of delicate jellies. One was first puzzled to explain how the jellies got in, and giving up that train of reflection, was in a worse quandary to know how the pulpy part of the orange got out. Colored eggs were also served, in the inside of which were found nuts, jellies, meats, and confectionary. When the reporter asked the interpreter to explain this legerdemain of be glad if I was dead; but I can't die now, Petaluma, was going to his work in the ty laugh, and shook his head and chuckingly said, 'Melican man heap smart ; why

The bright spots of a man's life are few enough without blotting any out; and since for a moment of mirth we have an bour of sadness, it were a sorry policy to diminish existence. Life is an April day-sunshine and flowers. The heart, like the earth, would cease to yield good fruit were it not watered by the tears of sensibility, and the shine of smiles.

And follow in the wake : Bards, martyrs, patriots, sages, The noble of all ages, And time's great volume make. I live to bail that season. By gifted minds foretold, When men shall live by reason, And not alone by gold-

As Eden was of old. I live to hold communion With all that is divine, To feel there is a union 'Twixt nature's heart and mine, To profit by Affliction Grow wiser from conviction.

And every wrong thing righted,

When man to man united,

And fulfill each great design. I live for those who love me, For those who know me true. For the heaven that smiles above me, And awaits my spirit, too; For the wrongs that need resistance For the cause that locks assistance,

For the future in the distance,

And the good that I can do. Cales und Sketches.
