TANST FOR BOTS IN HORSES .- A Washington

Review and Examiner correspondent of the department of agriculture says: It appears from remarks of different writers that none know of any certain remedy; I know of a remedy, that is safe and certain, discovered in the following way: About thir,y years ago a friend lost by bots a very fine horse. He took from the stomach 9.25 a m of the dead horse about a gill of bots and 12.55 p m | brought them to my office to experiment upon. 1.20 p m | He made preparations of every remedy he had 8.55 p m | heard of, and put some of them into each. Most 10.20 p m | had no effect, a few affected them slightly, but 11.50 p m | sage tea more than anything else; that killed 8.25 p m in fifteen hours. He concluded he could will 11.55 p m | them by putting them into nitric acid; but it 4.25 a m | had no more effect upon them than water; the 8.35 a m third day they were as lively as when put in. A 11.05 a m bunch of tansy was growing by my office. He 7.50 p m | took a hand of that, bruised it, added a little 7.40 a m | water, squeezed out the juice, and put some in ; 7.35 a m | they were dead in one minute. Since then I have 1.55 p m | had it given to every horse I have seen affected 3.15 p m | with bots, and have never known it to fail giving 4.30 p m entire relief. FODDER CORN .- There is a great deal of difference in many parts of the country between 6.15 p m | cornfodder and fodder-corn. In some cases we note that these seems are 10.50 p m | confused; one writer evidently understanding 2.25 a m one thing, and another the other, and this is 7.35 a m true we suppose of the reader. It is worth while to take note of the difference. > GREEN MANURING WITH BUCKWHEAT .- Buckwheat-is extensively employed in certain portions of the country for turning under as manure. It is more valuable for this purpose apon light, sandy soils, containing very little vegetable matter, than upon heavy clays. We have a field at this time covered with a fine growth of buckwheat, which will be turned under as soon down the 1st of September with timothy grass, and without grain being added, as is generally practiced. If we were to sow winter wheat of rye upon the land we should consider the buckwheat as beneficial, inasmuch as it would be equal to a light cressing of manure. You can of Western New York-is enthusiastic about orchard grass. He says he can keep a cow on a half acre through the summer and have some hay for winter use from the same plot of ground, Orchard grass starts earlier than any other feed, stands the drouth well, and not only bears but needs frequent cutting or cropping. Our friend's plan would be to pasture in sections, tying the cow to a stake through the day and letting her eat the grass in a small circle around it. As soon as any part of it becomes large enough to cut it should be mown, and either fed to the cow grass more than to let it get too large. The stalk becomes woody and the root is enfeebied.
