THE NEWSBOY'S DEBT. "Sir, if you please, my brother Jim— The one you go to the hill, you know— He couldn't bring the money, Sir. Because his back was hurt so."

THE NEWSBOY'S DEBT. "I confess I was but a poor counselor under such circumstances; still I loved her very truly—she was all most as my own daughter, for I was a childless widower, and I would have given my life to save her. But it was impossible, and to-morrow would seal her fate."

THE NEWSBOY'S DEBT. "I followed him through the little crowd of passengers and porters, accompanied by a policeman in uniform. As we passed, we heard fragmentary observations of the most pleasing kind."

THE NEWSBOY'S DEBT. "I took it and said: 'The young lady looking very ill, dressed in black silk mantle, white straw hat, and white gloves. She is to be detained at the station till the arrival of the officer by the afternoon mail. She is seated in the middle compartment of the third-class carriage from the end of the train.'"

THE NEWSBOY'S DEBT. "I saw it, it was no use to struggle; when the officer came down he would explain the mistake. 'I shall remain with Clara; you had better go and say we are coming shortly.'"

BY MARK TWAIN.

Samuel McFadden was watchman in a bank. He was poor, but honest, and his life was without reproach.

One night a happy thought struck him; a gleam of light burst upon him; some gleam of the dim vista of years went before his eyes all blinded with joyous tears, he saw himself rich and respected.

Before he drove away in his carriage that night, it was all fixed that he would have half a million of dollars.

McFadden was not a man who was easily satisfied with his lot. He had a habit of looking at the other side of the coin.

Heads are of different shapes and sizes. They are full of notions. Large do not always hold the most.

REORGANIZING HIS WIFE. I never attempted to reorganize my wife but once, confessed Artemus Ward.

THE DEEPEST WELL. The deepest well ever sunk is supposed to be that in the village of Sprenburg, about twenty miles from Berlin, Prussia.

THE RICHEST MAN. The richest man in Virginia is A. D. Williams, a Richmond real-estate agent.

TWO SOVEREIGNS-SPOKING AND JO-KING. While there's a bite in the air no one ought to starve.
