The new editor of the Cooperian, published at Dale City, is evidently of a belligerent disposition, as the first thing he done after taking control of that paper, was to "lay his head on it."

The Scientific American cautions people against the too frequent use of camphor as a medicine. It says the nature of camphor is that of a nervous stimulent similar to opium or alcohol, and when taken in large doses causes irritation of the nervous system, and produces convulsions, often fatal in their results.

On the 30th ultimo, a lot of boys were sliding down the hill at Manor Station, when one of them ran in front of a passing locomotive, which resulted in landing him some sixty feet or more from the track. He had some signs of life in him when picked up. He was carried to the house, when life was extinct.—Greensburg Argus.

A brother and sister named Bowers, who were confined in a small outbuilding adjoining the residence of their relatives, in what is known as the "Loop," Hollidaysburg were burned to death early of last week, in consequence of the building taking fire from an overheated stove. Notice.—Up to the present time the winter has not been severe enough to close up the creek and ponds in this vicinity, and the boys are beginning to fear that they will not be able to fill their ice houses before the cooling element. However, we are in hopes that a supply will be secured before the winter is over; if their fears should prove groundless, the northern markets will be called upon to furnish it.

The farmers on Saturday last. Captain Shaffer says: "There is a custom among the fellows of this territory, (New Jersey) that when any member of the band has been proven guilty of having his leg to be pulled to death." If this is carried into operation in this place, we know of a number of gentlemen who will be but few more left than there are now. We verily believe that Wendel Phillips, Henry Ward Beecher or any of the other eminent lecturers of our country, to lecture here, we would not be a number equal to a corporal to attend the lecture. On the contrary, if a "penny peep show" a "wax figure museum," or any similar fraud of the kind should visit the public, were to pitch its tent in town it would be crowded.

About the 1st of April Mr. Jacob Keohler and several other gentleman will commence at Bens Creek, on a very extended scale the manufacture of cheese. The necessary buildings have been secured, the requisite machinery will arrive in a few days. Mr. Koehler recently made a tour of the Ohio cheese manufacturing district and took careful notice of all the latest improvements requiring to be made in the business. An arrangement has been made by which the milk of seventy cows will be procured regularly, and at the head of the firm expert to make about 150 pounds of cheese per day.—Johnstown Tribune.

A Thought on Love.—If a gentleman marries a wife he wears a ring on the first joint of the left hand; engaged, on the second joint; if married, on the third, and the fourth he never intends to marry. The same rule applies to ladies. When a gentleman presents flowers or a present to a lady with his left hand it is an evidence of regard; should she receive it with her left hand she accepts his esteem, but with the right hand it is a refusal of his offer.

John H. Uhl of Somerset Pa, has a large farm near Shanksville, containing 280 acres. Two houses, a large bank barn and other outbuildings thereon erected, which he offers for sale. There are about 150 acres cleared, the balance has pine timber upon it, sufficient, when cut, to pay for the farm. A large orchard of apple and pear trees, 25 acres in meadow. Farmers wishing to buy a desirable property will call on him at his office in Somerset. If it is desired he will go upon the premises to show the lines &c., and will sell as a whole or in pieces to suit puchasers.

Capt. Samuel Adams of Beaver delivered two lectures in the Court House on Friday and Saturday evenings of last week, on his explorations in the canyons and valleys of the Colorado. The first part of his lecture, delivered on Friday night was very interesting, but owing to ill health, the Captain was unable to do justice to himself or his subject. On Saturday evening, however, Captain Adams had apparently recovered from the effect of his chill, and delivered his lecture in good style. Among other interesting items, he gave a description of the numerous Canyons of the Colorado river and of the habits and customs of several tribes of Indians living in Colorado and New Mexico. He spoke of one of the halls of the Montezumas, which was in a goood state of preservation and which was at least 400 years old. Capt. Adams lecture is possessed of more than ordinary interest, and he speaks as one knowing whereof he affirms. We regret exceedingly that so few of our people were in attendance, and can assure all who were not present that they missed the most interesting lecture ever delivered in Somerset.

The oldest medical practice is that of the family. Long before doctors or even priests were intrusted with the care of the sick, the parent performed that office, and to this day, the first and often most important medicine is given by the head of the family. The father or mother first notices the invasion of disease—the headache, chill, pain or hoarse cough, or other symptoms which indicate the presence of the enemy, and they too give the first medicine. Now to do this wisely and successfully is to arrest the disease and save the patient. If unskillfully or at random, you not only do not benefit but injure. Humphrey's Homeopathic Specifics are intended to meet this want. In each family case is a Book of Directions, which fully instructs the parent as to what the disease is, provides the remedy for it, and show how to give it. With such a simple case, costing but a few dollars, a family is provided for emergencies, and will save largely in sickness, suffering and expense.—Exchange.

We did not learn until a few days ago of the death of Jacob Deboj, a resident of Barr township, near St. Nicholas, who was perhaps the oldest man in the county, and whose funeral took place on the 17th of December. He was a Frenchman by birth, and as near as we can learn came to this country about forty years ago. He claimed that he was 108 years old previous to his death. He was unquestionably a soldier under Napoleon Bonapart in his first memorable campaign in Italy, when that greatest of all modern generals was only 26 years of age. Napoleon began his march into Italy in April, 1796, almost seventy-eight years ago, and Deboj served as a conscript under him and was doubtless present at the battles of Montenotte and Mondovi and at "the terrible passage of the Bridge of Lodi." At that time he must have been between the age of 20 and 25, and at the time of his death was at least 100, or it may be, as he always claimed, fully 108. He had no children, but his second wife survives him. We never saw him in our town, nor do we know one of the citizens who ever did, so closely did he content himself at home. He enjoyed uniform good health and was accustomed every Sunday to walk to the Catholic church at St. Nicholas, a distance of almost a mile. He has passed away far from his native land and further still from the stirring and eventful scenery of his early manhood. Peace to his ashes.—Cambria Freeman.

On Wednesday of last week a most distressing accident took place at the railroad depot in this place, by which Mr. A. B. Carver, an employee of the Pennsylvania railroad company lost his life. The accident occured at the freight depot, at about 9:30 a. m. the time at which the Dunnings Creek Branch train is due. Carver was walking down the main track towards his house, which is situated on the corner of Richard street and the railroad, at the time the engine struck him. Mr. Thomas Wolfkill, the engineer, saw him, but as Mr. Carver was in the habit of being about the track in the yard every day, he supposed he would step to one side as he saw the train approaching. But fearing that he might not be fully warned of the presence of the train, Mr. Wolfkill took precaution to sound the whistle to clear the track, while the fireman, Mr. Saxton rang the bell. Either Mr. Carver did not hear, or did not heed both, and was struck by the engine and was thrown with great violence against the local freight train which was standing in the yard at the time. When picked up it was found that the side of his lower jaw was broken, and a terrible gash was cut on the top of his head. He died at about 4 o'clock of the same day. His funeral took place on Friday.—Bedford Gazette.

It is the policy of the people in every community to sustain their own town by encouraging home industry. We frequently hear some of our citizens say that the next time they go to Philadelphia, they intend purchasing certain articles. Sometimes a hat or a coat, a carriage, household furniture, or something that can be manufactured just as good at home. These persons are generally engaged in different branches of business in our town, relying upon the public for support. Now, we desire to say a few plain words to all such short sighted tradesmen. Suppose your customers should supply their wants in the larger cities if there was a possibility of saving a few cents, at a risk of being badly cheated with an inferior article? You would soon be obliged to close up and leave the place, would you not? If this suicidal policy is pursued to any extent, it soon settles the fate of any town or community, for its enterprise and prosperity is dependent upon the amount of trade it can sustain within itself, and all that is drawn away from it is like taking the life-blood from the human frame—it weakens its energies and consequently impairs its growth. Have you ever seriously thought of this? If you are a merchant, you cannot expect to dispose of your merchandise to your fellow tradesmen unless you deal with them in return. By patronizing home industry and enterprize, we are almost certain of returning the money to our pocket, when otherwise it would go to the benefit of a foreign community. The protecting and sustaining of home industry is productive of the same results the world over, whether its application is directed to a nation or community.

This is the season when nearly every paper we take up relates some horrible casualty from the explosion of a kerosene lamp, or the like, and women or children are either killed outright or terrible burned and scarred for life. A simple knowledge of the inflammable nature of the fluid would probably put an end to nearly all the accidents. First, no lamp should ever be filled after dark by the light of a candle. Always do this work after the breakfast dishes are put away, and then, not only fill them, but wash the chimneys, for if they are dim and smokey, you cannot expect to have a bright light. Take the chimney in one hand, and breathe through it, then draw a large whisp of paper up and down it, and all the blur will be removed. If the chimney is blackened with lamp smoke, turn warm water through the tube, and then wipe out with paper in the same style as before. If the lamps are glass and they become clouded with a deposit from the kerosene, take lime water that is milky with the lime and shake it up in the lamp. Do this with two different washings, and all the deposit will be removed. A little chloride of lime, dissolved in warm water, and left in a lamp or can which has held kerosene, will deodorize it very soon. Lamps must be filled every morning. This is an imperative duty for every house-keeper to see performed, for as the oil burns down in a lamp, there is created a highly inflammable gas, which gathers imperceptibly over the surface, and as fast as the oil is consumed this gas increases, so that when the oil is out of the lamp, the slightest jar of the table will set the gas on fire; an explosion follows instantaneously, and a bonishell would not be more destructive, for its touches are deathly. But if the oil is burned only half way down in your lamp, the gas is not of a sufficient power to do any injury; therefore, never defer the operation of lamp-filling to another day, but see yourself that it is done.

Tribute of Masonic Affection.

At a special meeting of Lodge No. 358, A. Y. M. the following preamble and resolutions on the death of Henry G. Baer, were unanimously adopted.

Whereas, An Allwise and Inscrutable Providence has called from our midst, our esteemed and worthy brother Henry G. Baer, and

Whereas, It is always befitting to recognize the hand of God in all his providential callings with us, and especially when called upon to pass under the rod of bereavement, therefore,

Resolved, That though smitten with profound grief at this dispensation, which has bereft us of one whom we all loved, we bow in humble resignation to the sovereign will of him who doth all things well.

Resolved, That we cherish the memory of his many virtues, and the noble qualities of head and heart, which endeared him to all who knew him, and especially to the Masonic brotherhood.

Resolved, That in his death we are again reminded of the brevity and uncertainty of life, and the necessity of being always prepared for the final change that awaits us all.

Resolved, That we find consolation in his patient and humble submission to the will of God during his affliction, and the assurance he had of a higher and better life beyond the tomb.

Resolved, That we tender our heartfelt sympathies to the friends of the deceased, and especially to the bereaved wife and children, whom we commend to the mercy of him who has promised to be a husband to the widow and a father to the fatherless.

Resolved, That in token of our esteem and brotherly love, for our departed brother, the hall of this Lodge be draped in mourning for 30 days.

Resolved, That these resolutions be printed in all the county papers, and a copy be transmitted to the family of the deceased, and one deposited in the archives of this Lodge. Fraternally submitted, Centaur Liniment.

There is no pain which the Centaur Liniments will not relieve, no swelling they will not subdue, and no lameness which they will not cure. This is strong language, but it is true. They have produced more cures of rheumatism, neuralgia, lockjaw palsy, sprains, swellings, caked breasts, scalds, burns, salt-rheum, ear-ache, &c., upon the human frame, and of strains, spavin, galls, &c., upon animals in one year than have all other pretended remedies since the world began. They are counter-irritant, an all healing pain reliever. Cripples throw away their crutches, the lame walk, poisonous bites are rendered harmless, and the wounded are healed without a scar. It is no humbug. The recipe is published around each bottle. They sell as no article ever before sold, and they sell because it does just what they pretend to do. Those who now suffer from rheumatism, pain or swelling deserve to suffer if they will not use Centaur Liniment. More than 1,000 certificates of remarkable cures, including frozen limbs, chronic rheumatism, gout, running tumors, &c., have been received. We will send a circular containing certificates, the recipe, &c., gratis, to any one requesting it. One bottle of the yellow wrapper Centaur Liniment is worth one hundred dollars for spavined or sweenied horses and mules, or for screw worm in sheep.—Stock owners—these liniments are worth your attention. No family should be without them. "White wrapper for family use;" Yellow wrapper for animals. Sold by all Druggists. 50c per bottle; large bottles $1 00. J. B. ROSE & CO., 53 Broadway, New York.
