VOTERS should remember that their taxes must be paid thirty days before the election, and that Saturday next the 2d of October is the last day left for that purpose.

The New Constitution has changed the old law, and a tax receipt given after the third day of October will not avail them. Let no Republican lose his vote through failure to pay his taxes on or before Saturday next.

Tax Republicans in Missouri have declined to make distinctive nominations and have merged themselves in the "Independent movement."

This means defeat to the regular Democratic ticket, and the probable re-election of Carl Schurz, to the U. S. Senate for which, in view of his course in the last Presidential campaign, we do not feel particularly solicitous.

One of the most notable political events of the day, is the unusual re-nomination of Governor Dix and all the Republican State officers in New York, by a full convention, in which there was not a dissenting voice.

This not only proves the entire worthlessness of these officials, but shows the unanimity of the party in that great State, and gives assurance of a triumphant victory in November.

The Democrats of the First Congressional district, Maryland, have nominated ex-Governor Philip Frank Thomas as their candidate.

This gentleman has for many years been prominent in politics, but will be more generally remembered as the United States Senator elect, who, in 1869, was refused admission into that body on account of his extreme disloyalty.

When the throes of a second rebellion are upheaving southern bosoms, the fact that this man is again put forward for public positions, is but another indication that the old treason still rankles in the hearts of the southern Democracy.

How THIS FOR LATTA?—As Hon. R. Milton Spear, Democratic ex-member of Congress, from Huntington, was on his way home from the Democratic State Convention, recently held at Pittsburgh, he met, at Tyrone, several prominent Democrats of Clearfield, and naturally enough began talking about their candidates.

In speaking of their candidates for Lieutenant Governor—John Latta—Mr. Spear remarked that, "if it should come to pass that the Democratic ticket was elected this fall, and the Governor were to die, thus putting Latta in the chair as acting Governor, it would be an affliction of which God Almighty never dreamed."

THE REPUBLICAN CONGRESSIONAL AND SENATORIAL CONFERENCE FOR THIS DISTRICT ASSEMBLED AT BEDFORD TO-DAY (21st).

The Congressional conference for this county are John W. Beachy, E. M. Schrock and Oliver W. Knepper, and the Senatorial are M. A. Sauer and Hon. J. R. McMillan and W. H. Sanner.

This continued ascendancy of the Republican party was never more necessary to the country than now. The whole South is again in commotion, and the Democracy is almost everywhere putting forth the doctrine of reprobation.

If that party were to obtain a majority in Congress, practical rebellion in the form of Ku Kluxism would undoubtedly break the whole South; the national credit would be nearly destroyed; the crisis of 1873 renewed with tenfold force, and the country again thrown into confusion and turmoil. It is no time for taking chances; success must be made certain.

The New York Journal of Commerce, which has always been a Democratic paper, speaks thus of its own party—"A political organization is judged by its leaders, and this is why one of the great parties of this country has fallen into such bad repute. The prominent wire pullers or managers of the Democratic party have begun, and will, in a very few years, go to graves in Potter's field of delirium tremens. The terrible thing in all this is its secrecy. It has been done by either the husband or the children. Last Friday morning Mr. Belser had occasion to go to St. Petersburg with a load of lumber. Mrs. Belser appeared as usual throughout the day, and had been detected by either the husband or his children. OUR NEW YORK LETTER.

NEW YORK, September 20, 1874.

IT IS a terrible thing to see a fellow-grown man hopelessly under the influence of alcoholic stimulants: it is a thousand times more so, when the victim is a confirmed drunkard. But if it is so fearful for adults, what can be thought of it in the case of children? Drunkenness among children in this city is quite common now, and it is growing with fearful rapidity. One boy in Brooklyn died last week aged fourteen. A post mortem examination revealed the fact that death had been caused by the continual and excessive drinking of the vilest rum.

The medical testimony went to show that the child had been literally eaten away, that the liver was in an shocking state as if it had belonged to a drunkard of fifty years standing. The mother of the deceased boy stated to the coroner that he was at the table, but that he did not do anything but drink. He had not eaten any kind of solid food for a considerable time before death.

I saw, yesterday, from my window, a boy and a girl not over twelve years of age—the girl could not have been ten at the latest—lying side by side in the gutter, both in a state of beastly intoxication. Ragged and dirty, unkempt and unshaven, their faces blazhing with the lurid light of the street lamps, they were the only figures in the crowd of long standing. Of course they will keep on as they have begun, and will, in a very few years, go to graves in Potter's field of delirium tremens. The terrible thing in all this is its secrecy. It has been done by either the husband or the children. Last Friday morning Mr. Belser had occasion to go to St. Petersburg with a load of lumber. Mrs. Belser appeared as usual throughout the day, and had been detected by either the husband or his children. Last Friday morning Mr. Belser had occasion to go to St. Petersburg with a load of lumber. Mrs. Belser appeared as usual throughout the day, and had been detected by either the husband or his children.

There is an unsettled and angry feeling still prevailing at New Orleans, which nothing but the presence of Federal troops, and of a mass of war in the harbor, prevents from again breaking out into bloodshed. The White Leagues still preserve their arms and their organization, are daily drilled and recruited by their leaders, and there is a general dread of renewed violence. It is evident that the Leagues do not propose to give up the conflict, and that while they carefully abstain from coming into contact with the National authorities they will strike at the State Government the first opportune moment. They boldly declare that any other conflict will ensue if any of their leaders are prosecuted for treason, and they audaciously demand virtual control of the approaching election, so that they may place their myriads in power, through the instrumentality of the ballot box. At any hour between this and the evening of the election we may hear of another outbreak, and of more bloodshed, if not in the city of New Orleans, in the country parishes, where there are no Federal troops to protect Republicans in the exercise of their civil rights.

The prompt and energetic action of the President in suppressing the insurrection in New Orleans meets the hearty approval of all good citizens. Later events show that if he had hesitated or temporized not only the State of Louisiana, but probably all the States of the extreme South would have again broken out in open rebellion. The "White Leaguers" are an organization composed of the worst remnants of the rebellion, and intended to exterminate the negroes or reduce them again to a state of serfdom—were spreading fast throughout the Southern States, and arming and drilling for active warfare and so confident were they in numbers that they undertook to depose the State and Federal authorities in Louisiana. Had they not been so promptly met by the Federal authority in New Orleans, we now in all probability would have been in the midst of another war. In the first exultation of apparent success, the old rebellious spirit flashed out all over the South, and the tone of many of the Democratic papers of the North, clearly shows as a party the Democracy—as in the late rebellion—stood ready to give aid and comfort to the insurgents.

These occurrences must convince all who choose to see and reflect that should the Democratic party, as at present constituted and led, again regain control of the National Government, that not only would the late war have been fought in vain, but that all the guarantees secured by the amendments to the Constitution would be disregarded—There is no safety for the Nation except in the continued ascendancy of the Republican party.

Milton Spear, Democratic ex-member of Congress, from Huntington, was on his way home from the Democratic State Convention, recently held at Pittsburgh, he met, at Tyrone, several prominent Democrats of Clearfield, and naturally enough began talking about their candidates.
