

to be recorded, was mentioned by Mr. Alexander Drake of Albemarle. He stated that whilst on a visit to a neighbor, his attention was called to a large peach orchard, every tree of which was totally destroyed by the ravages of the worm, with the exception of three, and these were the most thrifty and flourishing peach trees he ever saw. The only cause of their superiority known to his host was an experiment made in consequence of observing that those parts of worm-eaten timber into which the worms had fallen were the most thrifty and flourishing peach trees he ever saw.

The last annual report of the Massachusetts Commission on the dollar contains the following: One dollar will buy twenty pounds of flour in Boston, one or two pounds more in European ports, but the same or considerably less in a majority of the places where it is sold. In Boston one dollar will buy five pounds of fresh beef, roasting piece. In no place in England will it buy so much by a pound or more, and in Europe still less. Copenhagen being the only place given where it will buy more. But averages are a poor standard. The dollar in Europe than here, because less by more than that, except in a few spots. As for potatoes, they are cheaper here than in England, and dearer than in Ireland or Germany. Seven or eight pounds of pork for a dollar in Europe than here, because less by more than that, except in a few spots. As for potatoes, they are cheaper here than in England, and dearer than in Ireland or Germany.

How to Manage Cuttings.
In selecting a cutting a great deal depends upon a judicious choice; if the slip is too young and tender, it will not root, and if it is too old, it will not root either. It is best to select a cutting that is about the size of a pencil, and that has a few leaves on it. The cutting should be taken from a healthy plant, and it should be taken from a part of the plant that is not too old and woody.

Bottled Chickens.
These are very dry and tasteless, and they are not worth the money that is paid for them. It is better to buy a fresh chicken, and to cook it at home. A fresh chicken will be much more delicious than a bottled chicken, and it will be much more healthy.

Books, Penknives and Diners.
The Hartford Courant remarks: "There is still a popular belief that it is less extravagant to spend $10 for a dinner than $1 for a book. A festive person out on a holiday will spend twenty-five cents for a quart of peanuts which he does not need, and which he eats up in an hour or two (to his inward damage), who would never think of buying for the same money some cheap edition of a standard book which would furnish him solid enjoyment for many days, and add materially to the value of his life. Such a reluctance is there to buy books that a whole neighborhood, eager, perhaps, to read a new work by a popular author (hungry for it), will wait for months to the day, and then purchase it for a dollar, rather than spend a half a dollar to own it and satisfy the intellectual appetite at once."

Pumpkin Seeds Kill Chickens.
These feeding pumpkins in the fall or winter to stock, will be careful not to let the chickens eat the seed, as it will make them sick, and generally kill them. I experienced this in the fall when I fed pumpkins to my chickens, and they would eat less corn, but I soon observed sick chickens about the place where I fed them. I tried to get them to eat less corn, but I did not know what the matter was, until one day a neighbor lady came to my house and told me that she had seen a chicken that had eaten a pumpkin seed, and that it was sick.

Pickled Tomatoes.
Slice thin one peck of green tomatoes into a wooden bowl, and stir in them four or five heaping table-spoonfuls of salt. Let them remain one night. Next morning pour over the liquor that has gathered; turn over them enough vinegar to cover the whole. To each quart of vinegar add one heaping table-spoon of ground pepper, cloves and allspice; also two ounces of white mustard seed, and two onions chopped fine. Put the whole mixture, after straining it well together, into a porcelain kettle, and let it boil just two minutes. Keep cooking and add two or three roots of horse-radish, sliced lengthwise to the top of the pickles. This will prevent all the pickles from moulding. In a week it will be fit for the table.
