WE understand that the Democratic Congressional conferees met at Altoona, yesterday (13th), for the purpose of nominating a candidate to be beaten by Hon. S. S. Blair, and that Gen. A. H. Coffroth of this county will be urged for nomination.

IT is an interesting if not edifying fact that there are 30,000 individuals in New York city who live on other people's earnings, who are, in fact, professional thieves. These, with the beggars, make a rather large dependent community for any city. These facts are said to come from the police themselves, which does not speak well for the enforcement of the act against professional thieves.

THE New York Tribune, now the organ of the White Leaguers in the North, and the most subtile apologist for Southern terrorism, albeit it is the paper "founded by Horace Greeley," has interviewers at work in the South, painting everything in rose-colors. Thursday morning it had a long letter explaining that all is grace, mercy and peace in Sumter county, Alabama, and that though some prominent Republicans have been massacred, it was because they did not keep a civil tongue in their heads, and death was only too good for them.

THE fact that four former members of Congress were competing for the nomination, and that each had made for himself an excellent Congressional record, led to a protracted session of the conference. The contest was carried on with entire harmony, but the several conferees were tenacious and determined if possible to secure the selection of their own favorite, hence the delay in arriving at a conclusion. On the 217th, and last ballot, Mr Blair received three votes from his own county, two from Bedford and three from Somerset; thus effecting his nomination, which was afterwards made unanimous.

THE persistent industry with which Mr. LATTA is defended from charges no one ever made against him is amusing, but it is ineffective. LATTA is not charged with voting against the amendment abolishing slavery. But he is charged with being the creature of the railroad corporations while he was in the Senate, and of steadily voting for these powerful corporations and against the people, while a Senator. We particularly charged this crime on the employee of the railroads in the notable struggle to make corporations pay a fair share of taxes for the support of the State, and so relieve the farmers. OLMSTEAD struggled to tax the corporations, LATTA as faithfully struggled to let the corporations escape from taxation and to tax THE FARMERS. (See Legislative Record 1864, p. 913!)

THAT staunch old abolitionist and moral reformer, GERRIT SMITH, has written a vigorous letter relative to the present campaign in New York, the pith of which is as applicable in this State, as the locality for which it was intended. Speaking of the temperance question, he sharply says:

"My old temperance freinds complain that I do not advocate a temperance ticket. Whenever there is danger of the Democratic party coming again into power, as there was in 1872, when it cunningly nominated Greeley to catch reformers with, and as there is now, when, with hands dipped afresh in the blood of Southern Republicans, it is moving earth and hell to regain its lost ascendency, my first duty—nay, my only political duty—is to oppose the Democratic party. This abominable party is the murderer of the colored race, which my guilty country has so deeply wronged; and I would let all men become drunkards ere I would, directly or indirectly, join this murderer."

SAYS the Pittsburgh Commercial: The Republicans of Pennsylvania will do well to bear constantly in mind the fact that they are dealing with an enemy inspired by the conviction that another defeat will bring ruin and death. Should the Democratic party be beaten in the battles of this fall, it will hardly dare to go into a national contest. Every consideration, therefore, urges the members of that party to win, wherever it is possible to do so. They will make special efforts to carry our own State, since success here will animate them greatly elsewhere. Our friends must understand this thoroughly, and make up their minds for a very severe struggle at the polls. The Democracy care comparatively little about their State ticket, and will readily sacrifice it if they can obtain a majority in the Legislature and gain several members of Congress. To secure these ends they will strain every nerve, and against their efforts in these directions our Republican friends must be fully prepared. Forewarned is forearmed.

Now that our excellent county ticket has been supplemented by such acceptable district nominees, as Hon. S. S. Blair for Congress, and Col. E. D. Yutzy for Senate, we urge our party friends to go to work at once. Less than three weeks now remain until the election, and this brief period should be industriously improved by working for the ticket. Our friends must not rest content upon the fact that the county ticket is certain to be elected, and that we have an assured majority in both the Congressional, and Senatorial districts. We can command results only by organization and work, and there is every incentive to both in the soundness of our principles, and the personal worth of our candidates. We have nothing to fear from the Democratic party, our chief and only danger lying in our own apathy, and in over confidence. Go to work friends; the campaign must be short, sharp, and decisive. We should have a clear majority of not less than one thousand in either district, and we will have if the vote is brought to the polls. The well defined and well tried principles of the party require neither argument nor defense, all that is needed is to get the vote out, and let this be the aim of all Republicans from this until the day of election.

AFTER a prolonged but amicable contest the Congressional conferees of this district, on Thursday evening (8th inst.), on the 277th ballot, nominated Hon. S. S. Blair, of Blair county, as the Republican candidate.

Mr. Blair is a gentleman of most exemplary character, a lawyer in the first rank of his profession, a scholar of fine culture and large ability. He represented the former Somerset and Huntingdon district in the XXXVI and XXXVII Congresses, is well remembered and esteemed by the older politicians and voters of the district, and is in every way a most acceptable candidate. An anti-slavery Whig by conviction and education, his devotion to the principles of the Republican party cannot be questioned, while his early political training assures his soundness on the vital question of protection to American industry. In him we will have a representative of ability and experience, who will at once take position in the councils of the nation, and add strength and dignity to the party he represents.

We ask for Mr. Blair a full, clean Republican vote, and an emphatic majority. We owe it to him as a man of worth and ability, as an able exponent of the principles we select him to represent, and, we owe it, as a matter of pride, to the successful competitor of the popular candidate presented by this county. See to it, friends, that Mr. Blair receives a FULL vote. Our principles and our honor are both staked upon the result.

M'Candless the Patriot.

Col. M'Candless, the Democratic candidate for Secretary of Internal Affairs, has received a passing notice in our columns during this campaign. We showed at that time that on the day that Chambersburg was burned, he wrote his infamous letter in reply to the President who offered him a Brigadier General's commission in the army. We state, on good authority, that this commission was tendered him not on account of his superior services or ability as a soldier, but for the reason that for months he had begged and implored everybody whom he thought to have the least influence to secure it for him. He so desired the title of "General" that out of pity it was at last given him.

It is true that it was necessary to forget some portion of his record before this could be done, but even that was overlooked. His narrow escape from being court-martialed at Gettysburg for unsoldierly conduct, was passed by in silence. He was not the brave hero in that fight that the Patriot paints him, or if he was, it did not come immediately under the notice of those who were there and who can show honorable scars as the best evidence of their being present. There were hundreds of other Colonels far more entitled to wear "the star" than he. He may have been honest in wanting this commission when he first asked for it, but when it came he hastened to insult his loyal friends and and brother officers by announcing that he no longer and any sympathy with their cause and that henceforth he was opposed to the war.

M'Candless was hardly responsible for the course he pursued. He was surrounded by the worst copperheads and traitors in the State, and that he might stand well with them he followed their advice and deserted his old comrades in the Reserve Corps. What cared he for Union victories. His heart was with the foes of his country, and the groans of the "boy in blue," as he fell battling for Freedom and Humanity touched no sympathetic cord in his nature. He sneaked off to that "private station" he so fondly and so suddenly loved and there carefully scanned his morning paper for any news which might inform him of the defeat of those whose cause he had once thought was right. He has been permitted to occupy that "private station" ever since, save for a short time when he was sent to the Senate as a reward for insulting the President.

He was anxious to leave it in 1871, but the loyal people of Pennsylvania said by an overwhelming majority that they preferred Dr. Stanton who had been a Surgeon in the Reserve Corps, to a Colonel of the same Division, who had expressed sympathy with the rebellion. That "private station" is once more uncomfortable and he is asking to be elected to the important office of Secretary of Internal Affairs over a soldier whose record is without a blemish, and who for the last three years has faithfully discharged the duties of Surveyor General. Again will he fail, for Pennsylvanians will never honor with their suffrages the faithless M'Candless when the faithful Beath is a candidate. Defeat M'Candless this time and teach him and all men like him, that in this State there can be no reward for those who when their county is in danger believe that "the post of honor is the private station."—Chambersburg Repository.

OUR NEW YORK LETTER.

NEW YORK, October, 12, 1874.

POLITICAL.

It is hardly to be considered as among the possibilities, but it is possible that Governor Dix may carry the city of New York this fall. Dix has administered his office in a wonderfully level-headed manner, and he certainly will take the entire decent vote of the city. This would not elect him, but the fact is he is going to get a very large share of the indecent vote. The part Tilden took in bringing Tweed to his present quarters embittered the Boss against him furiously, and though it was impossible for him to prevent his nomination, he and his friends have control of votes enough to prevent his carrying the city, and if they can be held together and cast en masse they will do it. The Boss is a hearty hater as well as a devoted friend, and he has his benchmen on Tilden's track, and they will follow him like sleuth-hounds.

If Dix does carry the city, it will go a great way toward settling his candidacy for the Presidency. If he shows strength enough to carry New York, that fact will make him the strongest candidate for the succession. While Dix does not expect the nomination—indeed, I think, he does not desire it—he has friends in this city who are actively pushing him, and if what they calculate upon as a beginning becomes an accomplished fact, I see no reason why they should not end as they desire. The only thing that I see in the way is the age of the candidate. Gov. Dix is a very old man to take a place that so taxes the energies of a man. Still the Governor is hale and hearty and has in him doubtless many years of good work. He will be governor again—he may be President yet.

CHARITIES

Mendicancy is a profession here, a regular profession with its regular practicers, who are governed by a sort of unwritten law which they all respect. When a beggar, man, woman or child, has obtained the right to a given locality or beat, the right of possession is respected by all of the fraternity. Indeed, favorite corners, or especially good localities, are sold for money. Begging is a very good business in New York. There are hundreds of thousands of people who are careless in the use of nickels, and who, from habit, drop them into every hat or box that is offered—there are the tipsy-generous, and the actually benevolent—all these make up enough to keep the army of beggars that infest the city, and to enable the shrewdest of them to amass property. There are beggars in New York who own buildings and collect rents, and they are not few in number. One man stands near the corner of 14th street and Broadway, and works in the nights alone. He is always a mechanic who has just arrived in the city, and can get no work, and has no place to sleep. The theatres are out and the jolly parties are returning to their hotels, and this sad, respectable man is certain to make from five to ten dollars every night in the week. He has run this game for two years that I know of. I wonder what he does with his money.

AUTUMN.

is finally here, and glorious it is. The weather is cool and crispy—the mornings are gorgeous and and the afternoons magnificent. Broadway, from three to five in the afternoon, is now a sight. The milliners and people who dress the women have got their fall styles on the bricks of the feminines, and they are resplendent in beauty. The fashions this fall are very showy and taking. The hats are rakish in style, and are as pretty as the most exacting could wish. The white felt hat, with up turned brim, trimmed with all sorts of feathers and beautiful material, make the street showy. Then the dresses are especially pretty this fall, and, for the comfort of husbands, I am happy to add, not frightfully expensive. A woman may get herself up for an afternoon promenade and create a positive sensation for a thousand dollars. I walk down Broadway every afternoon to enjoy the gorgeous scene, and I am so thankful to the ladies of the city for going to so much trouble and expense to please the people. I get as much pleasure out of the display as do they who make it, and it costs me no trouble or money. I am under obligations to the fashionable people.

CIGARS—HOW AND WHERE MADE.

There is some little trouble about the cigar business. The cigar-makers have held a convention to see if it is not possible to reform the trade and put it on a better footing Some curious facts were elicted. There are 25,000 persons in the city who are dependent upon cigar making for a livelihood. Cigars are very seldom made in factories, but the tobacco is given out and the work is done in tenement houses in the lowest and filthiest quarters of the city. Now the trouble lies in this. In one not very large building four thousand men, women and children are employed in making cigars, the operatives living in the rooms in which they work. That is to say a family consisting of man and wife and six children, eat, drink, sleep and work in a room ill ventilated, and filthy to a degree hardly possible to be comprehended. It is held, and I am sure justly, that tobacco handled and manufactured in such a room cannot but be filled with impurities, and that diseases are not only generated by the use of cigars so made, but that contagious diseases are spread broadcast. I went into one of these buildings and penetrated into one of their rooms. I would not do it again for all the cigars in New York. There were eight persons at work in a room, the odor of which was so absolutely horrible that I could not understand how a human being could exist in it for a moment. The man was filthy—his wife was filthier, and the children—well, I have no word at command that will express the absolute rot of their condition. And there they were rolling cigars, which you, my reader, will put in your mouth and hold there, taking into your system with each pull the reeking, stifling fever with which it must be impregnated. Cheerful, isn't it?

The regular cigar makers propose to petition the Board of Health to stop the manufacture in tenement houses, for sanitary reasons, and it is to be hoped for the benefit of cigar smokers that they will succeed. Nevertheless, it is a question whether a man who can endure tobacco can be injured by any other poison.

BUSINESS

is as dull as dull can be. The buyers are not buying and the sellers have long faces. When it will revive no one can tell, for no one knows. It is to be hoped that it will start up soon, or some of the business men will go mad. It is somewhat curious, but despite the stagnation the retail business of the city is good and is getting better daily. There seems to be as much extravagance in dress as ever; the theaters are filled as usual; the drinking places have their usual business—in fact everything that is unnecessary seems to be flourishing. Men and women seem to have money to squander on luxuries, but that is all. There is no building in progress, and trade generally is at a fearfully low ebb. New York is living on hope.

PIETRO.

Armed White Leaguers on the Streets of New Orleans.

NEW ORLEANS, October 10.—The appearance of a squad of twenty armed White Leaguers on Canal street last midnight was officially reported to the Governor, military authorities and Marshal Packard by the Chief of Police.

The Adjutant General of the State militia officially reports that the following arms belonging to the State, captured in the operations of September 14th and the following days, have not been returned to the State authorities or surrendered to the United States forces, as directed by the Presidents proclamation. The list embraces two twelve pound howitzers, 1,682 improved small arms, 1,500 bayonets, 85 swords, and a large quantity of ammunition, uniforms and accoutrements. In place of these arms, the Adjutant General states that the authorities have been put in possession of a quantity of comparatively worthless and damaged Belgian rifles, believed to belong to citizens of New Orleans. The communications have been transmitted to General Emery.

NEW YORK, October 11.—A Herald New Orleans special says the situation there is very critical. Kellogg is still guarded at the State House by police and military. The White Leaguers are defiant, and continue demonstrations nightly. Fifteen thousand negroes have entered the upper parishes of Louisiana from Tennessee, Mississippi and Louisiana, to register as voters. Madison parish, formerly equally divided, is now said to register 200 whites against 2,300 blacks. It is explained that much of the immigration from Tennessee is owing to terror created by the Trenton massacre. The correspondent believes this large influx of Republican voters will carry the State for Kellogg at the next election.

The Times' special from New Orleans says at an early hour on Saturday morning a number of negroes were creating a disturbance in an upper ward. Three or four patrolmen, unable to stop the fight, gladly availed themselves of the assistance of a company of White Leaguers offered by Col. Angell, and the negroes were easily dispersed and quiet restored.

Stage Coach Robbery.

NEW YORK, October 8.—The Galveston News' special from Paris, Texas, dated the 8th, says: The stage coach coming from Brookston was stopped by three masked men last night, four miles west, and the passengers robbed. The robbers received three hundred and twenty-five dollars in money, two valuable gold watches and two silver watches. J. M. Smith, cashier of the Merchants and Planters' Bank had a package containing $4,000, a fine gold watch and chain and diamond pin, which his wife secured behind the cushions of the stage, and they were not found by the robbers. The party claimed to be the same that robbed the Hot Springs stages and the train at Gad's Hill. The Sheriff organized a large posse and started in pursuit. The mail was not touched.

Alarming Reports from Texas.

GALVESTON, TEXAS, October 11.—A Brownsville special says that the organization of bandits to invade Texas has been partially suspended on account of the high water and the almost impassable condition of the country. Information is received from undoubted sources that the plan of operation is to strike the detachment of troops stationed to prevent the crossing of stolen cattle and then to murder and rob generally. General Cortina leads the movement. The people on this side are organizing to defend themselves. The military are in possession of the facts and are on the alert. Mounted men are held ready to move at short notice. A border war was never more imminent.

Disappointment in Love Leads to Suicide.

DENVER, Col., October 10.—A distressing case of suicide has occurred in Greeley County. At an early hour yesterday Miss Lizzie Rouse, a highly esteemed young lady, aged about twenty, shot herself in the breast. The ball glanced down into the stomach, where it lodged. Fearing the first shot would not be fatal, she placed the pistol to her temple, and sent a ball crashing through the brain. The first shot alarmed the household, the second followed quickly, and before her apartment could be reached. When found the blood was gushing from both ears and the ghastly wounds in the head and breast. She lingered an hour and died in great agony. Disappointment in love was the cause of the deed. She had just heard of the marriage in New York of a young man to whom she was greatly attached, an engagement having existed between them for some time.

Railroad Collision.

PHILADELPHIA, October 8.—A collision occured this morning at the intersection of the Corning and North Pennsylvania Railroad, between a coal train on the former and a way train on the latter road. The engine of the coal train struck the passenger train between the baggage and first passenger cars were thrown into a ditch. Fortunately no lives were lost, although several persons had limbs broken and were otherwise injured. A mistake in the signals was the cause of the accident.

A Mormon Grand Juror Indicted.

SALT LAKE, October 8.—The Grand Jury to-day indicted one of their own number, Thomas E. Ricks, for lascivious co-habitation. He is charged with having five wives, three of whom are married to him since 1862. His own daughter was one of the principal witnesses.

Five Graves Robbed.

BUFFALO, October 8.—The grave of Mrs. Richard J. Casey, at Holy Cross Cemetery, was robbed Tuesday night. The casket, outside coffin and shroud were left lying on the ground. Officers to-day visited the Medical College with a search warrant and found the body with four others. The students were surprised while at work dissecting them. Thirty-nine students were arrested and taken in procession to the Police Court. Justice Nash released them on parole to appear when wanted. There is much excitement over the affair.

A Kansas Desperado.

FORT SCOTT, October 5.—At the Oswego fair grounds, on Saturday last, John Bagley created a disturbance, and Policemen Hogsit and Westfall attempted to arrest him. He attacked them with a knife, with which he completely disemboweled Hogsit and cut several severe gashes in the abdomen and back of Westfall, penetrating his lungs. Hogsit died immediately, and Westfall is beyond recovery. Bagley was arrested.

Down in a Balloon.

BALTIMORE, October 8.—George Washington, colored, made an ascension this afternoon in a hot air balloon, attached to the circus at Towsontown, Baltimore county.—When about 400 feet high the balloon rapidly descended, and became impaled on the flag staff of the court house. Washington jumped from the basket and reached terra firma unhurt.
